ROOSEVELT PROBES FORD'S NRA DELAY; PRICE CONTROL PLANNED IN COAL CODE

Today

Science Goes Ahead. Back to Gold, Perhaps? What Power Is in Women. Think of a Name. Tell Astor.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

MARCONI, truly great, because he increases knowledge, comfort and safety, announces a short wave instrument to protect airplanes and ships.

It will tell the flier his height above the earth, and the ship captain how near the bottom is to the ship's keel. Marconi provides the improved "altitude-measuring" machine that fliers need.

LESS IMPORTANT news, coming from Berlin, says Chancellor Hitler will dress his police hereafter "in red stripes and gold braid." That will please them. Men love ornament. Kings knew it long ago, when they put fancy uniforms and feathers on their fighting soldiers, with music leading them, leaving peasants and ditch-diggers in their rags.

But red stripes and gold braid will not make better policemen. Bullet-proof vests would be better.

NEW YORK state is trying to fight the crime wave financed and built up by prohibition folly.

Gov. Lehman signs a bill making it a felony for any but a police officer to possess or sell a sub-machine gun, favorite, efficient weapon of crime.

Such a law, well meant, will mean that criminals ONLY will have sub-machine guns, just as prohibition has meant whisky ONLY for bootleggers.

AS THAT line is written comes announcement of President Roosevelt's decision to let American gold producers sell their precious metal, where they can get the best price for it.

The original ruling compelled American gold miners to deliver all gold to Uncle Sam's mint, taking for it, per ounce, in depreciated paper dollars, the price paid when our dollar was gold and worth 100 cents. The Treasury will receive gold, allowing owners to sell it abroad or at home, for as many dollars per ounce as they can get.

THIS RULE will help gold producers, and be far better than allowing gold "mats" or concentrates to be shipped abroad, giving the work of refining to foreign workers and smelters.

It will mean, also, that United States gold will be drained out of the country, building up the gold reserves of foreign countries. How much, if at all, that will hurt this country, depends on our final gold attitude.

It sounds a little like drifting back to the old yellow basis. If we do not return to our golden calf, Uncle Sam certainly should be more liberal with his dollar supply, not making new paper dollars more scarce than the old gold ones.

After the President's announcement, stocks that had gone off, went up again, in the last few minutes.

ANOTHER GIRL, number eight, has swum the English Channel. Twenty-two years old, named Sunny Lowry, she finished in 15 hours 40 minutes, one hour and 10 minutes behind Gertrude Ederle's record.

These channel swims show what terrific power of endurance nature has given to women, fighting choppy waves, strong currents, cold water, and swimming violently with strain on heart and courage, all the way. Women need the power, since part of their task is to produce the entire human race.

ANOTHER DEAD man picked up in a Brooklyn street. The usual "gang ride." The victim feels a "gun" pressed against his ribs, hears the gruff order "get in."

He knows its meaning, but there is the gun, near his heart. He lacks instantaneous courage to refuse, struggle, shout, on the slight chance that his killers might be afraid to kill him because of the noise, or that the bullet might not kill. He drops onto the front seat of the car, the gun still there.

A convenient quiet spot is reached, a bullet in the back of the head, powder burning the hair, another body thrown out and another crime-world quarrel settled. How many more criminals have died at the hands of crime than at the hands of justice, since the crime wave started?

AT LEAST, this country is "getting action." Twenty-three states have voted against the prohibition amendment, not one in favor of it.

Nineteen NRA codes have been signed, and the new patriotic weekly with Messrs. Moley, brain trust "big shot;" Vincent Astor, William A. Harriman, Mrs. Mary Harriman Rumsey to guide them, spiritually, and Mr. McNitt to show them how to make money, is all ready, except for choosing a name.

What name do you suggest? Tell Vincent Astor, address New York City. It must be a short name, militant, noble and pleasing to the advertiser's ear. How about "The Drum," my vote for a name?

JAMES GORDON BENNETT, in a thoughtless moment, once started "The New York Herald in London." It appeared, gasped, died, and the cruel London Telegraph said, "The New York Herald in London has ceased publication," and added from Wordsworth's sad poem: She lived unknown, and few could know, when Lucy ceased to be.

Do not name the new weekly "Lucy."

PACT UPSETS M'CREADY'S WILL FIGHT

Pre-Nuptial Promise In Way of Doctor's Claim on Estate

A pre-nuptial agreement between Dr. R. J. McCready and his socially prominent wife, the late Mrs. Matilda Craig McCready, was revealed today as apparently interfering with his legal efforts to obtain half of the $1,050,000 estate, most of which was left in trust for the establishment of a home for neurotic women.

In the will filed last June 24, the husband was left an annuity of $1,000 a month for the rest of his life, but he sought to have this set aside by "electing to take against" the will. This, lawyers say, would mean that under the intestate laws he would get half the estate.

The pre-nuptial agreement, made in 1924, however, apparently nullifies the claim. It was filed last July 17 and a stipulation that Dr. McCready "will not elect to take against any will of said Matilda S. Beck, now existing, or which she may hereafter publish and declare disposing of her estate."

The agreement also contains a stipulation whereby Mrs. McCready waived all rights to her husband's estate. It also states that each of the parties had full knowledge of the properties of the other.

It recites that the principal parties at that time were "about to enter into marriage."

Under the original provisions of the will, after bequests totaling about $300,000 were deducted, the remainder of the $1,050,000 would go for the home for neurotic women, which, if the organization concurred, would be directed by the United Presbyterian Woman's Association. The Fidelity Trust Company and E. B. Scull are named as executors.

AUTOIST KILLED IN E. E. CRASH

John P. Walsh, 38, of Rosedale Penn Township, was killed and C. F. Walker, 35, of Saltsburg road, was injured seriously as the automobile in which they were riding skidded in Fifth avenue, near Shady avenue, early today and crashed against a pole.

Walsh was dead when taken from the wreckage. Walker, driving the machine, was taken to Pittsburgh Hospital. His condition is serious.

Alberta Strotsky, 24, of 438 Morrow avenue, Carnegie, was in South Side Hospital today with a probable fracture of the skull and a broken arm. She was injured when her escort, Frantz Heile, 35, of King's Highway Rosslyn Farms, swerved his automobile to avoid hitting another machine in West Carson street near the Point Bridge and hit a pole. Heile was arrested on a reckless driving charge.

Pinchot to Address Miners in Fayette

HARRISBURG, Aug. 30.—(INS.)—Gov. Gifford Pinchot accepted an invitation today to participate in a mass meeting of bituminous miners at Uniontown on Labor Day.

The celebration, being sponsored by the United Mine Workers of America and the Uniontown Trades and Labor Council, has been arranged to celebrate the settlement of a strike which became so severe that troops were sent into the soft coal fields.

WASHINGTON 24TH STATE FOR REPEAL

Wets Win Northwest Election by More Than 2 to 1

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Two-thirds of the 36 states needed to erase the Eighteenth Amendment from the Constitution were lined up today, Washington following 23 others into the repeal column.

None of the states which has voted favored retention of prohibition.

Only one legislativte district, the Ninth, in rural Eastern Washington, voted dry on the basis of available returns. The district will have only two of the 99 delegates who will meet October 3 at Olympia to ratify the decision of the voters.

2 TO 1 VICTORY

The popular vote from 1,924 of the state's 2,682 precincts rolled up a total of 316,064 wet ballots to 132,359 cast for dry candidates. The statewide total, however, had no bearing on the outcome, as delegates were chosen by legislative districts, an election arrangement which wet leaders attacked during the campaign.

Repealists contended the district method was put over by a dry bloc in the Senate which they alleged forced this concession as the price of their support in providing for the repeal election. The asserted repeal handicap, however, was not apparent in the result, for while final returns might switch an isolated district or two from the wet to the dry side, there was no possibility the retentionists could cut in materially on the overwhelming majority of wet delegates.

DRY LAW REPEALED

The state bone dry law passed in 1917 was repealed last November by a majority of approximately 133,000.

Since the legalization of beer that beverage has been manufactured and sold in Washington under regulations passed by city councils and boards of county commissioners.

The last legislature failed to provide provisional legislation to regulate liquor sales in case of national prohibition repeal.

Officer Slain In $30,000 Holdup

SOUTH ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—One policeman was slain and another wounded seriously today as bandits, hiding their movements behind a smoke-screen, robbed two bank messengers of a $30,000 payroll.

Driving into the livestock market center in an automobile which had a screaming siren, the bandit gang, believed to number five, killed Policeman Leo Pavlek, 35, wounded John Yeaman and then fled.

A machine gun, shotguns and pistols were used in the spectacular raid in front of the postoffice.

The bank messengers, both 21, had been at the railroad station to receive the money for the Stockyards National Bank from the Federal Reserve Bank in Minneapolis for distribution to Swift and Company employes.

They went from the station to the postoffice, less than a block away.

The bandit car pulled up to the curb as the messengers and officers came down the postoffice steps, carrying the money in satchels. As a cloud of smoke came from the car one bandit shouted "Stick 'em up."

Hamilton said Pavlek threw up his hands without atempting to reach for his gun.

Free Fair Is Even Free To McGovern Friends

How complimentary is a complimentary ticket to a free county fair?

The City-County Building's workers were perturbed by that question today when a flock of little pink tickets appeared. They bore the legend:

"Complimentary ticket to all exhibits and parking—Board of County Commissioners."

At the South Park offices park officials thought the tickets weren't really complimentary—"just a joke," they said.

Clerks at the County Commissioners' office said "No," adding:

"Chairman Charles C. McGovern had them printed for his friends. They're complimentary all right."

HENRY FORD

Mr. Ford, the auto manufacturer, on whose failure to join in the new automobile industry's working agreement President Roosevelt has asked Gen. Johnson, the NRA director, for a report.

RUSH WARSHIPS TO CHINA PORT

FOOCHOW, FUKIEN PROVINCE, China, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—American and Japanese warships steamed towards this city today to protect nationals of those two countries from an increasing Red menace.

As a result of the Communists' swift incursion into North Fukien and their capture of Yenping a number of American missionaries fled here and others in nearby Kienning were endangered.

Two Japanese destroyers and one cruiser were en route to protect the large Japanese colony and property interests here.

HANKOW, China, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Eight American Passionist missionaries who two months ago were caught in warfare at Yuanchow between rebels and provincial troops were today reported safe.

The Americans are the Rev. Edward McCarthy, of Boston, the Rev. Francis Flaherty, of Cincinnati, and six sisters sent from the American Passionist Mission in Pittsburgh.

HONG KONG, Aug. 30—(INS.)—The British destroyer Wishart was en route to Foochow, Fukien province, China, today to protect British interests against the attacks of Chinese Communist armies operating in the vicinity.

State Drys Map Fight on Repeal

HARRISBURG, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Girding itself for battle against repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, the Committee of Nine, state-wide "master group" of 30 prohibition organizations, planned its campaign today.

Arrangements were made to appoint watchers for the election November 7, at which Pennsylvania will ballot for dry and wet delegates to the state convention for ratification or rejection of prohibition repeal.

Soviet, Italy to Sign Pact, London Hears

LONDON, Aug. 30.—(INS.)—A political and economic agreement between Italy and Soviet Russia has been completed and will be signed within a few days, it was stated in a Central News Dispatch from Rome today.

PRESIDENT CONSIDERS 'ACTION'

Auto Magnate Given Until Sept. 5 To Sign Up

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt has asked Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, industrial administrator, for a report on the failure of Henry Ford to enroll under the new working agreement for the automobile industry.

Mr. Roosevelt wants the latest news on this before he departs tomorrow for a vacation cruise back to Washington, and there is indication he is considering action, although the President is saying nothing about that and making no threats.

In talking with Gen. Johnson it was stated that no word had been received at Washington so far from the Michigan auto maker. Inquiries here about the use of the drastic licensing power to impose the NRA working code on Ford brought the answer that no detailed consideration has been given so far to this piece of authority.

DEADLINE SET

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Henry Ford has until September 5 to sign the automobile code of competition if he wants a Blue Eagle for his motor cars.

This was emphasized again today by National Recovery officials, who said they had yet to receive word from the Detroit manufacturer, reported to be vacationing in Michigan.

Hugh S. Johnson, NRA chieftain, told newspapermen yesterday:

"I think the American people will crack down on him (Ford) when the Blue Eagle is on other cars."

Johnson made it clear that Ford must sign the code—effective September 5—to get the Blue Eagle no matter if he should announce a schedule of higher wages and shorter hours than proposed in the trade charter submitted by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. Ford is not a member of this organization.

The government will not buy any more automobiles from Ford unless he obtains a Blue Eagle.

Asked if Ford would be classified as a recalcitrant, Johnson replied:

"I hate to talk about Mr. Ford in this way in his absence. However, I have no discretion in the matter; it is in the law."

FORD SILENT

BIG BAY, Mich., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Henry Ford, on vacation at the Huron Mountain Club, near here, today declined to discuss statements made in Washington by Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, Recovery Administrator, that "maybe the American people will crack down on Ford" if he does not obtain the Blue Eagle.

Ford declared:

"I have nothing to say at all about the NRA."

He declined to answer any questions about his further plans, and would not say whether he plans a statement when he returns from his vacation.

Ford said some time ago that he would have to "live down to the code" if he adopted it and followed its provisions which he compared unfavorably with his own scale of hours and wages.

WORKERS ORGANIZE

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 30.—(INS.)—Despite the delay of Henry Ford to enroll under the Blue Eagle, 400 employes of the Ford Motor Company's Edgewater plant here were ready to climb on the NRA band wagon today.

Following an enthusiastic meeting last night, at which New Jersey labor organizers warned the workers to "be on their guard against Mr. Ford's tactics," the 400 applied to American Federation of Labor headquarters in Washington for a local charter in the United Automobile Workers' Union.

GEN. JOHNSON TO VISIT HERE

Accrediting the NRA to men, but vowing they needed women to help put it over, Miss Mary E. Hughes, commander-in-chief of the women's division of the NRA, is in Pittsburgh today to give impetus to the nation-wide drive for recovery.

Coincidental with her arrival came the announcement from local NRA headquarters that Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, big chief of the Blue Eagle army, has tentatively accepted an invitation to come here.

Attractively attired in black and white, Miss Hughes proudly exhibited to members of the Pittsburgh welcoming committee her Blue Eagle scarf, the first in America. It was presented to her by admiring needleworkers.

She was escorted to the Chamber of Commerce auditorium where she spoke to an enthusiastic audience of volunteer Blue Eagle workers. She told them:

"Everybody has a right to earn a living. The time has

'Extras' Seek Mary's Aid on Movie Code

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Saying many of their families "are on the verge of starvation," representatives of motion picture extra men and "bit" players have appealed to Mary Pickford to take their side in Washington hearings on the motion picture code.

A telegram was sent to the actress in New York asserting that the proposed code submitted by movie producers would "cut our wage scale 60 per cent."

PRODUCTION RULE ALSO FORECAST

Unionization Truce Counted on For Stability

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—The code of fair competition for the bituminous coal industry will involve an effective form of price and production control.

This was disclosed today as operators and National Recovery Administration officials worked at high speed to make the code a reality.

The first step in bringing about both stabilized production and price in the bituminous field was the decision of nonunion miners of the northern and southern Appalachion fields to co-operate with the United Mine Workers of America.

WAGE-CUTTING

Wage-cutting had come to be a form of competition in the bituminous industry, helping to beat prices down. Many big companies were forced to sell a considerable part of their product at a loss.

The making of an agreement with the United Mine Workers on wages, unionizing the important producing areas, will remove that form of competition, it was explained by a high authority.

This is not sufficient to bring stabilization in the industry, it was explained. There must be a form of price and production control or wage levels cannot be maintained. This principle has been agreed to by both recovery officials and operators.

The bituminous field has been tentatively divided into the northwestern, southwestern, central (including Illinois, Indiana and Ohio), eastern (including Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee) and southern regions.

The number of selling or control agencies has not been determined. The tentative plan, which is being worked out with Recovery Administration officials, calls for the creation of a central body to

Assessment Quiz Right Upheld

The right of the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes to investigate persons appearing for assessment was upheld today by Judges Elder W. Marshall and Thomas M. Marshall. Judge John P. Egan dissented from their opinion.

The two concurring jurists agreed that the board owned this right, but Judge Thomas Marshall added that he felt the investigation should be completed within five days.

District Attorney Andrew T. Park brought up an action in mandamus seeking to compel the board to place on the tax lists persons who present themselves.

BAR HEAD SEES REPUBLIC'S END

International News Service.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Aug. 30.—"A definite plan" to end the sovereign powers of the states and thereby "destroy the republic and substitute a social democracy," was charged today by Clarence E. Martin, president of the American Bar Association.

In one of the most startling messages ever delivered to the bar association by one of its presidents, Martin warned that America as we know it is on the decline, because of a growing tendency to delegate powers to Washington.

On these grounds he condemned the Child Labor Amendment as "a Communistic effort to nationalize children." He warned against federal enforcement of the general criminal law as "the final act in a nation's tragedy." He saw possibility of grave danger in the National Recovery Act and kindred legislation, unless regarded solely

Rescuers Lower Food To 3 Trapped on Cliff

ADIRONDACK LODGE, LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Sandwiches, water and oranges were lowered over a dizzy cliffside today to three boys marooned on a narrow ledge of rock 400 feet high since yesterday morning.

The package of food dangled at the end of a 1,000-foot rope from the top of the sheer rock side of Wallace Mountain and was finally caught by the youths.

Because of sharp rocks, which threatened to sever the rope, no attempt was made to hoist the stranded youths to the top of the half-dome shaped mountain in the heart of the Adirondack wilderness.

A state policeman was dispatched from the rescue camp to Lake Placid, 15 miles away, to obtain 500 feet more of heavy rope. Because of the weight, the rope was to be put in an airplane and dropped to the party on the mountain top.

The boys, trapped on a ledge in an attempt to scale the mountainside, are William La Due, Robert Glenn and Taylor Grey, all of Plattsburg.

Rescuers, peering over the dangerous rim of the 1,500-foot cliff, saw the rope swing in toward the ledge, but the three huddled figures were not visible to them.

After a while the rope swung in and transmitted a series of tugs. Then it swung out, and the food had been removed.

The party then began attempts to lower warm clothing to the youths, who spent last night in freezing winds in their shirt-sleeves.

200 INSURANCE FRAUDS IN N. Y. LINKED TO GANG HELD HERE

NOTED DOCTORS UNDER POLICE SUSPICION

Wholesale 'Accidents' Laid to Nationwide Swindle Ring

Some of the 10 men and women held here in connection with fake automobile accidents in which they are alleged to have mulcted 60 insurance companies of hundreds of thousands of dollars were declared by police today to be mixed up in more than 200 similarly faked accident cases in New York.

The New York cases, according to Inspector of Detectives Frank R. Boyd, involve many prominent physicians and attorneys whose names have been turned over to representatives of large eastern insurance companies.

Viewed by investigators of 60 insurance companies in a standup in detective headquarters yesterday, the 10 admitted, according to Detective Inspector Frank R. Boyd, that they planned automobile accidents, beat each other by mutual consent, went to bed to await insurance adjusters and then collected.

Frank Gemellarro, 46, known as "The Duke," an insurance broker, oil operator and notary public of South Brooklyn, was named as the "brains" of a nationwide ring by Inspector Boyd.

WOMAN COLLAPSES

Those held on charges of conspiracy with Gemellarro were his wife, Rocie, 45; Elmer Hoover, 24, of 621 Mellon street; Steve Oliveri, 32, and his wife, Rose, 25, of 3800 Frazier street; Joseph Giordino, 28, and his wife, Anna, 21; Guiseppi Rettino, 38, all of 1211 James street; Raphael Cirroni, 33, of 300 Bates street, and Jerome Schultz, 32, of 3201 Alwyn street. The Oliveris and Schultz were released on bond of $1,500 each.

Mrs. Giordino, unnerved by questioning, collapsed in the detective bureau and was taken to Mercy Hospital. Later she was released on her own recognizance. Elmer Hoover also was released without security.

All of the defendants were held over for further investigation today when arraigned before Magistrate Thomes D. Jones in Morals Court.

They were arrested by City Detectives George Brubach and Andrew Carciere following an investigation begun last May by Inspector Boyd, Charles De Carlo, of the Aetna Insurance Company here, and Thomas F. Harrigan, of the National Bureau of Casualty and Insurance Underwriters, New York.

BEAT UP EACH OTHER

According to Boyd, Frank Gemellarro came here from Brooklyn, set up headquarters at 3466 Bates street, Oakland, and gathered in members of the ring.

One of their favorite schemes was to get one to drive a truck and crash into a parked automobile on which another had prearranged insurance, Boyd said. Then to prove they were injured they beat each other with blackjacks and fists, and sometimes used knives. The insurance adjusters would find the "victims" in bed—sometimes from necessity.

Most of the prisoners signed statements before him and Assistant District Attorney Jacob Kalson.

DAVIS CARRYING MESSAGES OF ROOSEVELT

Peace Salesman Sails For Another Try At Geneva

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—The United States liner Washington was ordered held beyond its sailing time today while Norman H. Davis, American ambassador at large, waited in his Manhattan home for the President to send verbal messages to the heads of European governments.

The Ambassador received a telephone call from President Roosevelt in time to permit him to rush aboard the liner at the last minute. Sailing was delayed only a few minutes.

The only indication Davis would give as to the nature of the verbal messages was the statement:

"The President is most hopeful that Europe will find the road leading to disarmament and peace."

DELEGATION LEADER

Davis is chairman of the American delegation to the International Disarmament Conference which reconvenes on October 16 in Geneva. He plans to spend eight or 10 days in London for conversations with British ministers. He will then go to Paris to arrange for conversations with the French government before proceeding to Geneva for a bureau meeting on September 20.

He was accompanied by Mrs. Davis, his daughter, Sarah, and two other American delegates—Samuel Reber, delegation secretary, and Robert Pell, press officer. Davis said:

"What the result will be in the preliminary conversations, I cannot predict. Despite the inherent difficulties, however, I do feel that with the reasonable goodwill and co-operation of the nations it should be possible to reach an agreement that will bring peace to the world.

STILL HOPEFUL

"I am hopeful because of the help and guiding support of President Roosevelt who takes such a vital interest in this question and who has such a profound knowledge of the problem. On a recent visit with him we went into all phases of the problem.

"Moreover, I have just had a final farewell talk with him on the telephone, and his interest now is even greater than it was.

"I bear with me verbal messages to the heads of other nations."

The Ambassador said that he would not discuss economics or war debts in Europe.

NEW U. S. ENVOY PLEDGES AID TO GERMANY

Both Nations Striving For Recovery, He Tells Hindenburg

International News Service.

BERLIN, Aug. 30.—Declaring "the American people and their government harbor a feeling of sympathetic friendship for the German people," William E. Dodd, new American ambassador, presented his credentials to President Paul Von Hindenburg today.

In replying, the aged President thanked the United States for its "friendly feelings toward Germany" and pleaded for solution of international economic difficulties by "understanding and co-operation."

The American envoy told the President:

"President Roosevelt charged me to assure you of his high appreciation and to convey his heartiest personal wishes to you for the welfare of Germany.

"He requested me to express his deep satisfaction with the good relations between the United States and Germany.

"The American people, now as heretofore, harbor a feeling of sympathetic friendship for the German people, and since I myself am a product of German intellectual and cultural life, I take pleasure in carrying out the President's orders.

"All nations are suffering from unparalleled economic and social difficulties which the United States as well as Germany is trying methodically to overcome. Both nations are striving for recovery.

"The United States government is ready and willing to extend help regarding economic conditions wherever needed and wherever possible.

'It is my earnest hope that my activity as ambassador will be satisfactory and benificent.

"Therefore I beg your government's confidence."

A crowd of 700 in the Wilhelmstrasse greeted Dodd with the Nazi salute as he arrived at the palace.

Responding to Dodd, President von Hindenburg said:

"I am deeply appreciative of the friendly feelings on the part of the United States toward Germany and of your efforts in behalf of further understanding between both nations.

"Rest assured that I and the government will do everything to help you achieve this aim."

Hitler Camps With Troops On Eve of Convention

International News Service.

NUREMBERG, Germany, Aug. 30.—Chancellor Adolf Hitler, like Napoleon on the eve of an important battle, will bivouac tonight with his faithful brown-shirted storm troopers on the outskirts of this medieval city, prior to presiding over the national convention of his own National Socialist party.

The party convention will get down to business Friday morning. Soon thereafter an important proclamation by Hitler will be read. Hitler himself is to speak in the evening on the general theme of German culture.

Saturday will see demonstrations by the uniformed forces of the party and on Sunday the gathering will break up after a monster demonstration.

Official aloofness of the United States, Great Britain, France, Austria, Russia and Poland has been a source of shock to the hign Nazi officials arranging the great rally. The ambassadors and ministers of these countries, though invited by Hitler, declined to attend. The Italian ambassador was the only official representaitve of any great power to accept.

New York Outlaws Sub-Machine Gun

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—New York state struck two more blows at gangsters yesterday by outlawing sub-machine guns and giving the Attorney General sweeping powers to investigate business racketeering.

Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, who only last week signed a bill providing the death penalty for kidnaping in cases where the victim has not been returned prior to the trial, affixed his signature today to the two latest anti-gangster bills passed at a special session of the Legislature.

Water Vanishes From Lake, Returns

GEEVAGH, Irish Free State, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—The waters of Lake Nasuil, which ran out a month ago through a cavern in its bed, returned last night with a roar. A man walking on the dry bed barely escaped.

The lake, covering 45 acres, was 30 feet deep before the water disappeared in the night, leaving heaps of dead fish and mud flats.

Inhabitants of this region in Sligo County recalled an old superstition that the lake was associated with King Balor "of the evil eye," who was slain and buried on its shores.

The cavern through which the water ran out is shaped like a huge eye. Hence the body of water is known as the "Lake of the Eye."

KAISER OPPOSES THRONE FOR GRANDSON

Regency, If Realized, Likely to be Given Ex-Crown Prince

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND
Universal Service.

BERLIN, Aug. 30. — Former Kaiser Wilhelm and his son, former Crown Prince Friedrich Wilhelm, are said to have spiked efforts to elevate the crown prince's son, ex-Prince Louis Ferdinand, to the German throne should any move be made to restore the Hohenzollern monarchy in Germany.

This was learned today from an American who recently spent several days at Doorn, home of the exiled Kaiser. It came as a new revelation affecting the revived hope of monarchistics circles in the reich. At the same time, it is asserted that both Chancellor Hitler and Prussian Premier Goering are monarchists at heart.

WORKING FOR FORD

Prince Louis Ferdinand, now working at the Ford plant in Detroit, is said not to count upon his chances for reaching a German throne. Prince Wilhelm, his elder brother, who recently married below his station, thereby forfeited his rights of succession.

The exiled Kaiser is understood to have said to his American visitor at Doorn:

"So long as I am living and his father is alive, there can be no talk of Louis Ferdinand."

Louis, who is a non-militarist and democratic despite his youth and knowledge of the world, appeals strongly to the liberal monarchist elements of the reich but less so to the junkers and militarists, some of whom hold "there is too much Russian from his grandmother in him."

Among others, the former crown prince is spoken of as the most likely candidate for "regent of the reich" should President von Hindenburg, in his will, request the German people to elect a Hohenzollern prince as regent of the state, thereby dispensing with the presidency.

REGENCY NEAR

Inner circles report emphatically that the aging President is planning to make this move. The idea is not new. It is no secret that even former Chancellor Heinrich Bruening, in the last weeks of his tenure, advocated this and allegedly obtained the approval of the leaders of the Socialist party as the only solution of Germany's internal problems likely to promise peace and stability.

Monarchists believe that a large section of the Jewish world would support such a move and that it would be a "way out" for Hitler from the dilemma created by Nazi anti-Jewish acts, in which it is feared the Chancellor cannot back down.

With a precedent furnished by the elevation of Chancellor Bismarck to princedom for his services, Hitler as continuing chancellor might be raised to a princedom for his unification of Germany, with his aide, Prussian Premier Goering, being ennobled at the same time.

RAIDERS FREE JAILED NAZI

INNSBRUCK, Austria, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Nazis in a midnight raid on the Innsbruck Jail released their imprisoned Tyrolese leader, Franz Hofer, and raced toward Italy with him in an automobile.

An alarm was given out and policemen along the route fired on the speeding car. One occupant was believed wounded.

The automobile was finally found abandoned two miles from the border at Gries. It was not known whether Hofer and his companions successfully crossed the line.

The three liberators, disguised as members of the Fascist home guard, overpowered the jailers and unlocked the cell where Hofer had been held since June 12.

Republic Tottering, Bar President Says

U. S. Headed Toward Social Democracy, Lawyers Told

as a temporary emergency expedient.

Martin's address opened the fifty-sixth annual meeting of the bar association. Declaring that defense of states' rights and proper distribution of power is the "duty of the hour" he warned that "the rights of states are waning so rapidly that legal writers are beginning to assert that they will soon be reduced to administrative districts. He added:

"If that statement is true, our republican form of government is tottering and social democracy is in the offing."

On the subject of crime, he suggested measures for improveing conditions. He deplored the task imposed on the prosecutor by the presumption of the innocence of the accused, adding:

"If safeguarding law abiding citizens were given the same attention that has been bestowed upon safeguarding the lawless element from conviction there would be a different aspect in the realm of criminal procedure."

As long as legal technicalities of the type which delay trials and favor defendants exist, he said, "the lawyer must take advantage of them, however he may personally view the application of them." He favored immediate stopping of the loopholes by reforms in procedure, including simpler indictments, reduction in challenges, verdicts by nine of 12 jurors except on capital cases, and compulsory jury service.

Swinging into a discussion of the emergency legislation passed by the last Congress, Martin said the banking legislation was "intended to eliminate the state banking systems."

The "economic measures relating to railroads, agriculture and industry," he said, should have the support of the bar association "as a temporary expedient."

He warned bluntly, however:

"This character of legislation as a legal fixture would reverse the American method of legal thinking, destroy individual initiative and completely destroy the fundamental rights reserved to the states."

Choosing it as an example, Martin lashed the child labor amendment.

"It is the broadest grant of power ever attempted to be given to the federal government. It is a Communistic effort to nationalize children, making them primarily responsible to the government instead of to their parents. It strikes a blow at the home. It appears to be part of a definite, positive plan to destroy the republic and substitute a social democracy."

Admitting that "America is a crime-breeding and criminal-protecting nation," Martin warned that, nevertheless, "federal assumption of enforcement of the criminal law would be the death blow to state sovereign powers. He added:

"It would be the final act in a nation's tragedy."

A demand for a united front against the kidnaper and the racketeer was before the convention, passed on from the National Association of Attorneys General which concluded its sessions yesterday with the adoption of a series of resolutions regarding law enforcement.

The attorneys general chose William A. Schnader, Attorney General of Pennsylvania, as its new president.

A proposed code for the bar as drawn up by the Junior Bar Association sets a 40-hour week for all save partners in law firms or those in managerial or executive capacities drawing more than $35 a week, sets minimum wages of $15, $14.50 and $14 weekly, according to the population of the cities involved, for all employes of persons engaged in the practice of law. A minimum weekly wage of $20 for attorneys employed by other attorneys also is provided.

GIRL MAY HAVE KIDNAPING CLUE

DENVER, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—After a conference with police officers today Chief of Police Albert T. Clark said he planned to interview Miss Lenore Crittenden in an attempt to bring some light on the disappearance of Barnard Bitterman, young Denver department store executive.

Bitterman vanished last Thursday after getting a telephone call, saying his brother was injured and at a hospital. The call was a fake.

He had an engagement that night with Miss Crittenden but did not keep it.

Clark said he still held to his first theory that Bitterman was kidnaped in the mistaken belief he was a relative of Alfred Triefus, general manager of the May Company here. Triefus got a note last friday, mailed from Cheyenne, saying:

"Don't worry. Your nephew is safe. Await further instructions."

He has not received any further word.

GEORGIA CANAL PROJECT URGED

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—Plans for a ship-barge canal from Cumberland Sound, on the Atlantic to St. George's Sound on the Gulf, were laid today before Assistant Secretary of the Treasury L. W. Roberts, a member of the Public Works Board, by Chairman T. G. Woolford, of the Georgia Canal Commission, and a delegation of experts.

Included were Judge Hollins Randloph, Atlanta; W. S. Lee and W. S. Lee, Jr., engineers, of Charlotte, N. C. Today's proposal was for the federal goverpment to construct a gigantic ship and barge canal to cost $125,000,000 when completed, which will serve 33 states and cut off an average of 500 miles for coastwise shipping from the Atlantic to the Gulf.

The initial plan was for a barge canal which would have been 12 feet deep by 100 feet wide. What Chairman Woolword asked today was a much larger project involving a canal to handle all types of shipping. It will be 38 feet deep, 200-250 feet wide, and extend 166 miles across the southern tip of Georgia, and the upper border of Florida.

Hoan Recall Move Fails in Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—A movement to recall Mayor Daniel W. Hoan, Socialist who has headed the city government 17 years, collapsed yesterday.

After two days of hearing in county court over a petition for a recall election, Leonard A. Grass, president of the recall council backing the proposal withdrew it.

BANKERS READY TO GO ON STAND

DETROIT, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—With request on hand from several witnesses who desire an opportunity to reply to charges of the past 10 days, Circuit Judge Harry B. Keidan was undecided who would be the first summoned today in the open grand jury investigation of Detroit's banking difficulties.

Among those seeking to testify are Wilson W. Mills, former chairman of the board of the closed First National Bank—Detroit; E. D. Stair, former president of the Detroit Bankers Company; William F. Connolly, receiver for the Detroit Bankers Company, and former Gov. Alex J. Groesbeck, receiver for the Guardian Detroit Union group.

Arthur J. Lacy, attorney for United States Senator James Couzens, who testified last week, concluded his own testimony yesterday with a proposal for a thorough senatorial investigation of reports that an attempt had been made to establish branch banking in the nation's key cities during the banking crisis of last winter.

Daniels Honorary Mexico U. Member

MEXICO, D. F., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Josephus Daniels, United States ambassador, has been made an honorary member of the University of Mexico, Rector Roberto Medillin invited him to attend the four hundredth anniversary celebration of the university medical school this fall. The ambassador accepted. This was his first visit to the 400-year-old institution, some of whose students protested his appointment last spring.

COURT CONTROL OF RUM FOUGHT

International News Service.

HARRISBURG, Aug. 30.—Joseph F. Guffey, Democratic state leader, informed Gov. Pinchot today that the Democratic state organization is opposed to any plan whereby the licensing of liquor establishments, in the event of repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, will be invested in county courts.

Guffey conferred with the Governor after seeing Warren Van Dyke, state chairman.

Guffey's attitude regarding the control of liquor is similar to that taken by the Governor when 3.2 per cent beer was legalized last April. Because the Governor was successful in his fight against permitting county judges to license beer establishments it is expected he will wage a similar battle when, and if the Eighteenth Amendment is removed from the constitution.

Chimpanzee and Lions At Movie Kids' Party

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Unconcerned over the presence of a sheriff's deputy who patrolled the spacious grounds as a precaution against possible kidnapers, the sons and daughters of some of filmdom's prominent players had a lawn party yesterday that was a great success.

There was a camel to ride, and there were two lion cubs to play with the youngsters, acrobats and a puppet show to entertain them, and Chiquita, a chimpanzee film actor, whose energetic balloon smashing provoked shrieks of laughter.

Gravely greeting their guests were the little hostesses of the day, Mary Elizabeth Brown, Dolores Costello Barrymore, Georgette Marion, Susan McIsaac and Kathryn Francis Brown.

Guests included Shirley Anne Kibbee, Gloria Lloyd, Harold Lloyd, Jr., Edward G. Robinson, Jr., Helen, Marilyn, Lucille and Billy Beaudine, Frances Piazza, Patricia Mowbray, Melba Jean Arthur, Jacqueline Lait, William Powell, Jr., Jack Clark and Margaret Jennings and John Paul Stone.

The party was arranged at the Domino Club by Mrs. Ben Piazza and Mrs. Lucille Gleason, president of the fashionable club.

Bomb and Gas-Proof Cellar for Berlin

BERLIN, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—The city's first bomb and gas-proof cellar was dedicated yesterday as an example for other home owners.

It provides sleeping quarters and has facilities for water for drinking and bathing. Necessary medicines are included. An entry hall is provided for persons coming through the gas to change their clothing to prevent contamination of the inner rooms.

The cellar, designed for tenants, also provides a refuge for non-residents caught in the vicinity in an air raid.

Speakers at the dedication stressed the necessity for a general overhauling and fireproofing of Berlin roofs and attics against incendiary bombs.

DUAL GANGLAND MURDER TERRORIZES HOLLYWOOD

WRECKS LEAVE DEATH TRAIL IN WEST

Toll of Lives Lost in 3 Air, Train Crashes Mounts to 16

Associated Press.

Airplanes and a passenger train carried 16 persons to their deaths in the southwest Tuesday as the result of three accidents, two of which were attributed to adverse weather conditions.

A four-inch rain sent a flood sweeping down an arroyo and so weakened a railroad bridge near Tucumcari, N. M., that the Golden State Limited, a crack passenger train, broke through the structure with a toll of eight lives. More than two-score persons were injured.

In the same area, a tri-motored Transcontinental Transport plane, flying virtually blind in fog and storm, crashed into a mountain side 60 miles from Clovis, N. M., and burst into flames with five occupants trapped inside.

Three United States Army aviators were killed in a mid-air collision of two planes near San Antonio, Tex. One of the occupants, Lieut. Louis K. Vaupre, saved his life by "bailing out" in his parachute.

TUCUMCARI, N. M., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—In a flooded arroyo, usually dry, the Golden State Limited lay today, mute evidence of the tragedy which took eight lives and injured more than t) score.

Repair crews waited for abatement of the torrent to salvage the wrecked cars and repair the bridge while a board of inquiry was called to investigate Tuesday's early morning wreck. The board will be composed of railroad officials and members of the New Mexico State Corporation Commission.

Physicians cared for about 35 of the injured here in hospitals or hotel rooms. Most of those able to travel left last night for the East on a special train made up here and routed via Delhart, Tex.

THE DEATH LIST

The revised death list, with two victims still unidentified, reads:

CROFT, C. J., engineer, Tucumcari.

RANDALL, JAMES, fireman, Tucumcari.

VARLEY, W. H., Quincy, Ill.

VARLEY, Mrs.

COOK, F. D., Southern Pacific employe, El Paso.

SISTER MARY CECILIA, Tucson, Ariz.

TWO UNIDENTIFIED WOMEN.

Of the injured, Sister Mary Rosa, of Tucson, Ariz., was not expected to live. She suffered a skull fracture, severe cuts, and was badly scalded.

The train was proceeding slowly about five miles from here in a heavy rain. Then, as survivors tell it, there was a sudden lurch as the engine and five cars of the 11-coach train toppled off the trestle and piled up in the torrent. The engine was buried deep in mud and water.

CURSES! PRAYERS!

Screams of the injured and dying, prayers and curses mingled in the darkness and confusion as terrified passengers sought to escape. Chauncey Depew, conductor of the train, escaped from one of the rear coaches which had remained safely on the track and made his way through the storm, over rain-soaked roads, to summon aid from Tucumcari.

The concrete and steel bridge, 100 feet long, spanned the arroyo at a point where the bed is approximately 40 feet deep. Residents of the vicinity said a wall of water about 30 feet high had swept down the arroyo, after a cloudburst in the "malpais"—badlands—upstream. Unknown to the engineer the eastern section of the bridge had been carried away.

EYE-WITNESS' STORY

Mrs. Anna Heinz, 45, Los Angeles, one of the passengers, who was riding in the first chair car, described the wreck:

"Everyone was stunned for a few minutes. Two sisters, Sister Mary Rose and Sister Cecelia, who were in the front of the car, were terribly burned by steam.

"It took us 15 minutes to get out of the car. There was a woman pinned in the entrance, and we had to get her free before anyone could get out. The woman in the seat next to me was badly hurt, but I was fortunate and was not so badly hurt."

Railroad officials said the line probably would be opened to traffic Friday. They said the coaches in the arroyo would have to be cut in half before they could be removed, because their location in relation to the remaining track made it next to impossible to lift an entire car.

Among the passengers on the Golden State limited was Sister Beatrice Gority, of Seton Hill College, Greensburg. She was slightly injured.

Pen for Beer Agent In Polo Star Threat

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 30—(AP.)—Ernest T. Von Buelow, beer salesman, convicted of attempting to extore $500 from Eric Pedley, polo player, was sentenced yesterday to serve one to five years in San Quentin Prison. Von Buelow was accused of threatening harm to Pedley's children if the money were not paid.

JURORS SHOWN 'TUB DEATH' EXHIBITS

Lamson's Actions on Day of Tragedy To Be Told

SAN JOSE, Cal., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—What David A. Lamson allegedly said to the officers when they arrived at his Stanford campus home last May 30 to find the nude body of his wife in the bathtub full of water and how he acted in the face of their questioning was expected to come out in the testimony today at his trial for her murder.

Among the witnesses under call was Deputy Sheriff John Moore, who shortly after going to the scene of the tragedy reported having heard Lamson say:

"My God! Why did I ever marry her!"

The state completed the presentation of the first phase of its case yesterday with the introduction of a series of blood-stained articles and clothing, taken from the bungalow last May 30. The list, including bloody house slippers, garden gloves, a bath towel and bath mat and the blood-stained pajamas and bathrobe of the defendant, were identified by Deputy Sheriff Earle Hamilton as they were held up for the jury to view.

Under the cot of the nursemaid in the back bedroom, Hamilton said, he found a pair of white tennis shoes, white socks, blue trousers and blue shirt. All showed, in varying degree, stains of blood, he testified.

Dramatic moments of the day included the display to the jury and the defendant of greatly enlarged pictures taken of Mrs. Lamson lying in the bathtub, the blood covered floor and splattered walls. Lamson looked at the pictures and then turned away.

SCARED STARS DOUBLE GUARD AT HOMES

Fear Racket Foothold; Police Launch Roundup

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 30—(AP.)—Frightened Hollywood notables were reported adding guards to their homes today while Los Angeles police declared war on gangland and named four men as the suspected assassins of Harry Mackley and Frank Keller, former New York and St. Louis hoodlums, here Monday night.

Officers said the double slaying had thrown a scare into many movie colony leaders who feared racketeers were seeking a foothold in filmland. Only recently Lupe Velez, Mexican screen star, notified police she had received a note threatening the kidnaping of her adopted daughter and had sent the child to a school in the southern republic as a precaution.

SUSPECTS NAMED

While Chief of Police James E. Davis organized a special "gangster squad" to ferret out hoodlum suspects and seek their deportation from the city, Chief of Detectives Joseph Taylor named Charles Sherman, Morris Solivinsky, Henry Sherman and Jack Weinstein as suspects in the Mackley-Keller slaying and said he would ask murder complaints against the quartet.

The detective chief said the slayings were an act of reprisal for the killing of Morris Moll, also known as Morris Marks, in New York last June. The four men named by Taylor allegedly are members of the gang formerly headed by Moll.

Both Mackley and Moll were wanted in Los Angeles for the murder of David Antink in 1929. Antink, secretary of a real estate firm, was shot down after he had identified five men as those who had robbed him of $25,000. Mackley, once an associate of Moll, later became his enemy, police charge, and was wanted in New York in connection with Moll's death.

ORDERS ROUNDUP

Three men walked into a fashionable restaurant Monday night and without warning fired repeatedly at Mackley and Keller. A fourth man and a woman waited in an automobile outside the restaurant and drove the trio from the scene, officers said.

Search of an apartment occupied by Mackley and Keller gave evidence, police said, that the two men were dealers in narcotics and machine guns.

The double killing aroused Mayor Frank Shaw, who ordered a roundup and deportation o every gang suspect.

'MAE WEST' WINS AT OUTING

Old-fashioned and bizarre costumes were worn by women members of the Highland Country Club yesterday to celebrate their annual Goofy Golf Day. Nearly 100 took part.

Mrs. Margaret B. McCoy, 5225 Ellsworth avenue, dressed as "Mae West," won first prize for the most elaborate costume. "Sis Hopkins," impersonated by Miss Betty Zimmerman, of 3440 Perrysville avenue, won a prize for the funniest costume.

The day's affair started with a breakfast at the club, then a "parade" of those in costume and was followed by a round of golf.

Some of the other characters were "Einstein," "Mahatma Ghandi," "Floradora Girls," and "Lillian Russell."

Mrs. Cliff Meyer, of 705 Clinton avenue, Bellevue, was in charge of the program.

Another high is located off the Pacific Coast. Low pressure is centered over Montana and stends southward thence eastward to the off. Temperature changes since yesterday were slight. There were no high maximum temperature changes yesterday except in the far South and West.

WALL ST. WOLF HELD IN FRAUD

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—David Lamar, sometimes called the "Wolf of Wall Street," was in the police lineup today charged with receiving $1,000 for the purchase of rubber and appropriating the money to his own use.

Lamar, 59, who gave a New York City address, was arrested on complaint of J. T. Connor, who charged he gave Lamar $1,000 to buy rubber, and that Lamar failed to make the purchase, but made use of the money for his own purposes.

The prisoner was questioned by inspector Louis Costuma, but refused to give any information. Lamar said:

"I don't want to be discourteous or disrespectful, inspector, but my lawyer called last night and advised me to have nothing to say about this case."

The inspector then read Lamar's record. It showed that he was first arrested in 1903 and had twice been sentenced to penitentiary terms.

SLEEP SICKNESS VICTIM GAINS

The condition of Robert Cunliffe, of 302 Aidyl street, Brookline, a victim of sleeping sickness, shows continued improvement according to attaches of South Side Hospital.

The youth has been in the hospital some time, but attention was not attracted to his case until the death there Monday of William Clough, 15, of sleeping sickness.

Symptoms of the disease were recalled today by William McParland, 23, son of Dr. P. V. McParland, dentist, of 8 Highland court. The youth, who four years ago was a victim, but now feels no ill effects, declared:

"I had been feeling highly nervous for some time, but it was not until December 8, 1929, that I was directly affected. For the following three months, I had an uncontrollable tendency to sleep, yet I was not unconscious all of the time."

CLAIRE TO FACE BALM JURY

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Claire Windsor, movie actress, goes to court today to fight a $100,000 alienation of affections suit, confident that the man "who got me into this mess" is "going to get me out."

The man is Alfred C. Read, Jr., young Oakland (Cal.) stockbroker, whose wife, Marian Y. Read, sued the actress, claiming she stole Read's affections.

The case originally was filed in the Oakland courts and Read also was sued for divorce. A change of venu to Los Angeles was granted.

2 BANK EAGLES BLUE FOR NRA

Four stories above hurrying Pittsburghers in two downtown streets, two blue eagles spread their wings magnificently in tribute to President Roosevelt's National Recovery Administration.

J. C. Chaplin, president of the Colonial Trust Company, hit upon the idea of retouching the two stone eagles—each more than six feet high from the base—in line with the times when the organization went NRA under the blanket code some time ago. They stand over the Diamond street and Fourth avenue entrances to the building. Yesterday they were given their new coats.

The duo, erected in 1902 and 1905 respectively, will become a trio within 10 days when, Mr. Chaplin says, a third bird takes his place over the building's Wood street entrance. The finished insignia will be of sky blue with a gold base.

HAPPY HERRON TURNS SOUR

That pleasant expression on the face of the Mayor Herron painted on the campaign billboards was absent from the Mayor's real face today. To put it mildly, Mayor John S. Herron seemed a bit peeved.

Police Magistrate William McNamara, Mayor Herron said yesterday, had only a few days to decide about taking that job as an accountant in the Mayor's office. In his stead, the Mayor has made it clear, he intends to appoint his "personal representative," George C. Metzler, Sixth Ward legislator.

Today Herron was asked again if he would appoint Metzler. The Mayor almost shouted as he answered:

"Aw, go to hell!"

McNamara is a son-in-law of P. J. Sullivan. Mr. Sullivan, it is rumored, is not favoring the Herron candidacy.

SOLDIER DENIES SPY CHARGE

International News Service.

CRISTOBAL, C. Z., Aug. 30.—Corp. Robert Osman, U. S. A., testifying in his own defense today before a court-martial at Fort Sherman trying him on espionage charges, admitted that he approved "some of the ends sought by Communism," but added:

"I do not approved the means by which they are accomplished."

The prosecution is seeking to prove that Osman sent documents containing military information to a Communist group in New York. He said:

"I was detailed as a clerk with a key to the secret document file, but that file was kept inside a major's desk where others could have obtained secret documents."

The corporal denied he had ever mailed documents of any nature to New York, though he admitted he had frequently corresponded with Frema Karry, a Brooklyn woman, whose name was brought into the case in testimony given yesterday. He had known her, he said, since 1927.

Lindy Plans Sea Hop Again This Winter

International News Service.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 30.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, having virtually completed his summer survey of North Atlantic air routes, may make a second flight eastward this winter over the ocean, it was learned today.

On this winter flight the famous flier would follow as far as possible his summer route, which took him to Labrador, Greenland and Iceland, the purpose being to see just how practicable these routes are in the winter.

This tentative plan was uncovered in a survey by International News Service, based on statements of Col. Lindbergh and several Arctic experts with whom he has talked, to determine the probable future developments of regular air transportation across the northern waters from the United States to Europe.

It is now too late for Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh to fly back to the United States on their surveys. They probably will take a steamer home after making one more trial flight, a hop to Stavanger, Norway, via Christiarland, Norway.

If the winter flight is successful, Col. Lindbergh is planning to establish regular trial routes for a long period, with several planes taking part, to test thoroughly the reliability of the Greenland route from America to Europe.

The principal object of this summer's survey was to map out routes where flights can be continually directed by radio, and to find alternative routes wherever meteorological conditions were uncertain.

The radio stations probably will be at New York, a place on the Maine coast, Cartwright and Hopedale, Labrador, Julianehaab and Angmagsalik, Greenland, Reykjavik and Tveraa, Iceland, Lerwick, Shetland Islands and Copenhagen.

Radio direction is a prime requisite for s travel, Col. Lindbergh believ ast of Greenland every tente port already is equipped w necessary facilities.

TRUCK STRIKES BOY; COLLISION HURTS 3 MEN

John Lorentz, 12, of 118 Morton street, Overbrook, suffered a fractured skull and internal injuries when struck by a truck in Library road yesterday. He was taken to South Side Hospital.

Three men were injured when two automobiles collided at Hampshire avenue and Rutherford street, Beechview, last night.

Salvador Gravant, 43, of 1703 Broadway, driver of one of the machines, suffered cuts and contusions. James Gravant, 19, a passenger in the same car, received bruinses and lecerations.

Gilbert Haas, 24, of 1400 Hampshire avenue, the other driver, also suffered bruises.

Struck by an automobile near his home last night, James Miller, 3, of 319 Vandalia street, suffered a fracture of the left shoulder and lacerations. He was taken to South Side Hospital.

Ralph Miller, 8, of 7134 Churchland street, suffered cuts and bruises when he was struck by an automobile near his home last night. Carl Koppel, of 1614 Broadhead street, the driver, took the boy to Pittsburgh Hospital, police reported.

RICH, ARRESTED AS SHOPLIFTER

CINCINNATI, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Heir to a shipwright's estate won in old steamboating days, 70-year-old Charles Hambleton was held today for helping himself too often to things that caught his eye in five-and-ten-cent stores.

His attorney said Hambleton was worth "at least" $25,000 and held a $500,000 claims against the federal government for gunboats his father built in the days of the Civil War.

But the spruce old man insisted he was penniless. He identified as himself, a columnist's paragraph about a reputedly wealthy man who haunted hotel lobbies and snatched up the newspapers others tossed aside. In his dingy hotel room police found 196 safety razors, 36 packages of blades, 77 pair of socks, candies, nuts, tooth brushes, nail files, screwdrivers, packages of needles, combs, pins, 48 handkerchiefs, 45 neckties, rubber bands, spools of thread, garters, key rings and bottles of cheap perfume, all in their original packages.

Apparently not one had been touched from the time they were tossed aside in his room.

SLAIN DOCTOR'S FRIEND GRILLED

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—An attractive young woman friend of the late Dr. James I. Gaines was questioned by police yesterday while the doctor's widow remained in jail after telling her version of the slaying, two weeks ago, of the wealthy sportsman and drugless practitioner.

Mrs. Harriette Andrew, 26, the first person questioned in the case, recalled to police headquarters, repeated her earlier story, saying Gaines visited her shortly before midnight on August 14, leaving at 1:30 a. m. A few minutes later he was shot by an assailant who hid in shrubbery along the driveway of his home.

Mrs. Andrew was not detained. Her interrogators declined to say whether she had helped solve the mystery.

Meanwhile the doctor's young widow, detained after a four-hour examination last night, was held incommunicado.

Crawford Register Dies After Stroke

MEADVILLE, Pa., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—C. Victor Johnson, 60, Register and Recorder of Crawford County, died yesterday after a stroke.

Johnson served two terms in the State Assembly, from 1907 to 1911 and one term as District Attorney. He assumed office as Register and Recorder in 1932.

The widow and one daughter survive. Private funeral services will be held tomorrow.

Junior Naturalists Exhibit Collection

The annual exhibition of the Junior Naturalists' Club opened in Carnegie Museum yesterday. Thirty children ranging in ages from 6 to 14 years, have assembled a collection of turtles, snakes, butterflies, birds and small animals under direction of Howard K. Wallace, of the museum staff, which is on exhibition.

Wounded Man Held In Struthers Killing

Unable to account for his injury, Ernest Allen, 63, Negro, of 216 East Stockton avenue, wandered into Allegheny General Hospital early today and asked for treatment for a bullet wound in his hip.

Police said they believed Allen answered the description of a wounded Negro wanted at Struthers, O., for a murder.

HAYS TO ASSIST ANTI-FASCIST

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Arthur Garfield Hays, noted attorney, accepted last night the defense of Athos Terzani, young anti-Fascist held for a murder that broke up a recent meeting of the Khaki Shirts of America, a Fascist organization.

Inasmuch as Hays will be in Europe for the International Jurists Commission's hearing on the Reichstag fire at the time the Terzani case is called for trial September 11, the defense will ask for a continuation until early October.

The Terzani defense group also has asked Clarence Darrow to aid Hays.

Terzani is accused of slaying a friend, Anthony Fierro, another anti-Fascist, with whom he went to the meeting.

SPENCER TRACY, ACTRESS PART

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—The "trial separation," movieland's newest formula for repairing weakening marital barks, today had claimed new disciples in Spencer Tracy, film star, and his wife, the former Louise Treadwell, of the Broadway stage.

Married in Cincinnati 10 years ago, after appearing in stage productions together, the Tracys have been separated for several weeks, the actor said today at the apartment to which he moved recently from the family residence.

Tracy said his wife shortly will sail for Europe, accompanied by their two children, and the trip will further their plans for a "trial separation."

MDIVANI WINS RECEIVER

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Granting a petition of Alexis Mdivani, one of the three "marrying Mdivanis," Federal Judge William James yesterday named E. C. Starr as receiver for the Pacific Shore Oil Company and fixed bond at $50,000.

Prince Alexis, who recently married Barbara Hutton, American heiress, alleged in his petition that he loaned the oil company $12,000 and the concern's affairs were in such a jumbled state he was in danger of losing his money unless a receiver should be named.

Only last week the Superior Court denied the petition of Alexis' brothers, Serge and David, to discharge D. A. Russell, who had been named receiver by Superior Judge Emmet H. Wilson for the same oil company. What will be the effect of the naming of two receivers appeared to be a complicated legal question.

Mae Murray, screen actress and estranged wife of Prince David Mdivani, and Mary McCormic, opera singer, who is estranged from Prince Serge Mdivani, have claimed control of the company and have set up their own board of directors.

New Law Library Opens at Y.M.C.A.

A new law library, supplementing the work of local law schools, will be open to students and young attorneys at the Downtown Young Men's Christian Association, 304 Wood street, this week, according to Attorney W. F. Knox, chairman of the committee of management at the Downtown Branch. Approximately 1,000 volumes, including the Pennsylvania reports and digests, will be available to both resident and non-resident members of the Y. M. C. A. without cost.

SCHOOLS TO ASK $5,000,000 OF ASSEMBLY

HARRISBURG, Aug. 30—(AP.)—One of the first things the next special session of the Legislature will be asked to do will be to appropriate additional money—not less than $5,000,000—for schools.

There are indications that the administration may leave the door open also for a renewal of its effort to abolish the smaller school districts and replace the 2,587 districts with fewer, larger units of administration.

Gov. Pinchot, in a recent statement, said:

"At present it appears that some of the financially distressed districts will be unable to go through the year with resources now in sight unless special aid is provided."

RELIEF NEEDED

Dr. James N. Rule, state superintendent of public instruction, emphasized that the local districts must operate during 1934-35 with $5,000,000 less state money than this year "unless a special session of the Legislature should be called in the meantime" and reappropriate the $5,000,000 cut made by the recent Legislature.

The superintendent added:

"But more important than completing regular appropriations is the necessity for securing a special appropriation to aid distressed school districts in keeping their schools open for the full legal term for the coming year, and particularly to pull them through the school year 1934-35 in case the regular appropriation is not completed."

Dr. Rule reported that 277 districts have already obtained advances of $2,460,000 on state payments due this month and next.

The dispute between Pinchot and the 1933 Legislature left the school finance problem unsettled.

REDISTRICTING BEATEN

The Governor recommended a $53,000,000 appropriation for aid to districts, as compared with normal Edmonds act requirements of $58,000,000 for the bienniuia, but coupled it with legislation to reduce the number of districts. The redistricting plan encountered serious opposition and was scrapped. So were bills to suspend the Edmonds act provisions under which the $53,000,000 would have been divided equally between the two years.

As a substitute for the latter, a proviso was written into the general appropriation bill. The result was an opinion by the Justice Department that the state must reimburse districts at the normal rate this year, distributing $29,000,000 of the $53,000,000. The full $5,000,000 cut in the total was transferred to the year 1934-35.

The emergency aid appropriation which Dr. Rule says is "more important" than completing the regular appropriation was wrecked on Pinchot-legislative differences at the regular session.

The Legislators approved a $5,000,000 loan from the motor fund for this purpose, to be repaid whenever the condition of the general fund warranted. The Governor vetoed the bill.

PRANK BLAMED FOR BOY'S HANGING

Members of the family of Charles (Bud) Rack, 15, who, deputy coroners say, hanged himself yesterday in his home, 8 Washington avenue, Dravosburg, today inclined to the belief that the death was accidental.

Less than 30 minutes after joking with his mother, Mrs. John Rack, Bud was found dead in a second floor bedroom by his sister, Evelyn, 13. The coroner's report said the boy had fastened his belt to a bed and then slipped to the floor, strangling himself.

Bud was in a jovial mood when he went upstairs to dress for a party he was to attend in the evening. Mrs. Rack, ironing downstairs, sent Evelyn to the bedroom with some clothes. She found her brother unconscious and called her mother.

A physician was summoned, but his effort to resuscitate the boy proved futile.

Mrs. Rack said her son had no motive for suicide. He was in high spirits and never had made any threats to harm himself.

Neighbors, too, voiced the opinion that the boy had placed the belt around his neck in play and not with suicidal intent.

The father is a deckhand on the steamer Ranger, now on a trip down the Ohio River.

Besides Evelyn, the dead boy leaves another sister, Dorothy, 8, and a brother, John, Jr., 18.

WIFE, 65, SLAIN; MAN, 72, HELD

CYNTHIANA, Ky., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Mrs. Eugenia Broadwell, 65, died yesterday of a bullet wound below the heart and her husband, Fred R. Broadwell, 72, was placed in the Harrison County Jail charged with manslaughter on a warrant sworn out by a nephew of Mrs. Broadwell.

The shooting occurred last night at the Broadwell residence here. Sheriff R. S. Kitchen, said Mrs. Broadwell made a sworn statement accusing her husband of the shooting.

Broadwell denied the charge and said she shot herself. He returned here recently and retired after spending some years in the real estate business in Oklahoma.

Mrs. Broadwell was a sister-in-law of Desha Breckinridge, publisher of the Lexington Herald, and an aunt of State Racing Commissioner Frazier Lebus and Clarence Lebus, Central Kentucky land owners and turfmen.

MARKETS' FATE UP TO BOARDS

International News Service.

HARRISBURG, Aug. 30.—The fate of community markets in Pennsylvania rested solely with county relief boards today as Eric Biddle, executive director of the state relief organization, disclosed factors which make them highly impractical for food distribution.

This revelation came on the heels of a decision of the Lycoming County board to abandon the market at Williamsport. A similar market is being eliminated in Clinton County. Markets previously were abandoned at Tarentum and in Fayette County. They still exist in Erie, York and Chester, Lancaster and Lawrence counties, but how long they will remain is a matter for the county boards to determine, Biddle asserted.

This change in policy by the state relief board, which previously joined Gov. Gifford Pinchot in supporting that method of food distribution, was brought about by a ruling of the NRA and by declining demands for aid.

The NRA ruling requires that employes receive cash payments instead of food orders, thereby increasing the market's overhead. When established, the markets were equipped to carry a certain load of work. Recently, however, the load has diminished while the overhead remains the same, Biddle said.

HELEN DUNBAR OF FILMS DIES

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 30—(AP.)—Helen Dunbar, first ingenue in the Weber and Fields stock company when it began its career on the New York stage, is dead at the home of her daughter, Mrs. James Bush. She was 69.

She was leading woman for Francis X. Bushman in the old Essanay film company, later appeared in pictures with Norma Talmadge, and for a number of years was under contract to Jesse L. Lasky.

Among the last pictures in which Miss Dunbar appeared were "Stranded in Paris," "Night Club," "New Lives for Old," "Young Miss Winthrop," and "Sporting Chance."

PRICE CONTROL PLANNED IN COAL CODE

have jurisdiction over all these groups.

Centralized control is necessary, it is held, to prevent ruinous competition between districts. It is possible that because of the rush to complete the code this arrangement may be concluded by operators outside the code itself.

In addition, Recovery Administration officials hold that some action must be taken to relate coal to its competitors, such as oil and gas, so that they will operate on an equal footing.

The agreement with the United Mine Workers, providing for a basic wage scale, was made before National Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson announced that a coal code was near acceptance.

It was made between operators who had fought the union for years and President John L. Lewis. The agreement is to include not only basic wage schedules, but pay for all divisions of mining operation.

The unionized fields in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, it was said authoritatively, will not be affected by the wage provisions of the code. These fields will continue to operate under union contracts.

2,000,000 Back at Work, Johnson Declares

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Intensified striving went today into the mass movement to reemploy jobless workers and create billions of new purchasing power under the sign of NRA's Blue Eagle.

Hugh S. Johnson, after being tied to his desk for days on end by critical problems of the industrial control movement, himself took the field to deliver at Boston a majo address of this week's windup campaign for plastering the country's store windows with the red, white and blue poster of co-operation. Before leaving the capital, Johnson said:

"We can scarcely realize that perhaps 2,000,000 have been removed from the ranks of the unemployed and are again self-supporting citizens."

He made this estimate as he spurred on the door-to-door work of the volunteer army of a million and more men and women busy up and down the land explaining the NRA agreement and obtaining pledges of support.

PAYROLL BOOST

Using the 2,000,000 figure, Johnson said it represented at least $30,000,000 more in pay envelopes each week. But not until after Labor Day, with its objective of 6,000,000 new jobs, will the NRA begin to assay whether its sweep netted enough re-employment and wage boosting to give the Roosevelt recovery program its desired momentum.

Some NRA officials were saying privately that the wage-raising agreements and permanent codes of fair practice do not yet appear destined to create sufficient purchasing power to keep ahead of higher prices resulting from the greater costs which business is undertaking for NRA.

STEEL POLICING ARRANGED

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Federal representatives of the National Recovery Administration met yesterday with directors of the American Iron and Steel Institute, mapped out a program for carrying out provisions of the steel code and named committees to supervise the work.

Robert P. Lamont, president of the Institute, said the matter of "policing" the industry was discussed and added that a check would be kept on the Institute members to see that they observed the proper number of work hours and wage scales set up under their code.

Lamont also said measures will be taken to guard against members' selling below cost. He said investigation would be made of any charges of below-cost selling and, if such charges should be found correct, the "investigating committee can ask for a change."

Frank Purnell president of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company, was named head of the institute's committee on labor. Samuel E. Hackett, vice president of the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation, of Pittsburgh, will head the group dealing with commercial matters, and W. J. Filbert, of the United States Steel Corporation, was chosen chairman of a committee on statistics.

A general administration committee, responsible to the board of directors, was appointed with W. A. Irvin, president of the United States Steel, as chairman. Six aides on this committee will be named by Irvin.

Motor Bus Industry Code Under Attack

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—(INS.)—A demand that the entire code submitted to the NRA for the motor bus industry be thrown out because it was written and submitted by "railway and traction controlled concerns," was made today by P. J. Scarr, representing the American Bus Association.

Scarr made his demand at the opening of the public hearing on the code.

HUEY SHAVING—AROUND THAT CUT!

SENATOR HUEY P. LONG SHAVING...AND BEING CAREFUL OF THAT CUT OVER HIS EYE

Senator Long, the Louisiana Kingfish, at Milwaukee as he brushed up to address Veterans of Foreign Wars. Reports from New York say the Senator was punched by a lawyer, but he insists that was cut by a gangster. This is an International News Photograph Service picture.

GEN. JOHNSON TO VISIT HERE

come when one man is not going to make a big profit at the expense of others. His conscience won't let him.

"The NRA campaign will not be finished until we are out of this depression for good and have made it so that we will not get into another. This will happen because the women are behind the movement."

Expressing the utmost confidence in President Roosevelt and his New Deal, she continued:

"President Roosevelt is thinking only of the greatest good to the greatest number. He had a simple plan when he took office last March, a plan that set aside all old rules of economics with the sole idea of putting unemployed men back at work."

URGES SACRIFICE

She urged the women to secure a record of all employers who are putting men back to work under the NRA plan and told them they "should be willing to sacrifice in dollars and cents in order to give your support to signers of the NRA."

She said:

"It's not necessary to mention boycott. I am telling you what you should do and the other will take care of itself."

She urged that "slackers" should be reported to the Chamber of Commerce.

A word about this woman whose job it is to organize all of the women of the nation in a consumers' co-operative campaign to assure support of Blue Eagle manufacturers, merchants and employers. It's her biggest job, but not her first. Before undertaking it, she was promotion manager for the United States Navy and Marine bands, and before that she was a lecturer touring the country.

"But this is the biggest band in the world, and there can't be a sour note."

WOMEN SUCCEEDING

That is her way of saying the women are putting the recovery move across.

In Washington, Gen. Johnson yesterday accepted the invitation to view the workings of NRA in the steel center of Pittsburgh, by Frank C. Harper, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce.

The invitation was extended at the close of Johnson's conference with the country's business representatives and heads of the principal local recovery organizations.

For his tentative visit here, it is considered likely a large evening mass meeting will be arranged. Johnson told the NRA key men that the business horizon is clearing and in the dawn of a better day "there will be light which will enable the people to see their way forward without groping."

The recovery chief repeated his interest in programs urged by merchants to engage in advertising and advantageous buying.

Meantime the total of Pittsburgh district employers under the wings of the Blue Eagle increased by 426 with a total of 17,500 signers of the re-employment code, according to Postmaster William M. Turner.

Huey's Black Eye Laid To Asparagus Kibitzing

Kingfish Got Sock For Dessert, Club Waiters Say

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Senator Huey Long, the man who got slapped, was the victim of—asparagus.

The big he-man from Louisiana met his downfall in the washroom of the fashionable Sands Point Bath Club, not at the fists of gangsters, but as the result of over-indulgence in the tender succulent shoots.

Flitting from table to table, Huey imbibed too freely of the exotic vegetable which he secretly loves. And so he got a sock in the eye for dessert.

ASPARAGUS KIBITZER

This was the latest theory supplied today by the waiters' staff of the Sands Point Club as to the events leading up to Huey getting poked.

John Krull, head waiter at the club, described how Huey played an asparagus kibitzer. He said:

"He kept galloping around the room, butting into people, sitting at tables with people who didn't know him. He seized every plate of asparagus he could see. He took them away from ladies as well as gentlemen.

"Sometimes, he would nibble at a dish and find that it was not asparagus. Then he would shove the plate away from him with a roar of disgust."

Other members of the club's staff added details to the senatorial asparagus hunt.

BUTTERS GUEST

It was 11 o'clock on Saturday evening (eastern asparagus time) that Huey became satiated. His strong senatorial fingers were dripping golden butter. He pointed for the washroom.

Huey prepared to wash his hands. Perhaps, in the remorse of a satisfied gourmet, he was hasty. He buttered the immaculate evening clothes of a young but husky guest.

The guest charged Huey with being no gentleman. Huey threw back one of his notable Kingfish epigrams.

The gentleman who had been buttered socked Huey in the eye. Huey clinched.

Jack Curley, wrestling and fighting promoter, was present. Curley said:

"It was a very bad clinch. Huey was groggy."

Of course, Huey, at the apex of an an attack of asparagustitus, was groggy.

Of course, it was a shoddy clinch. Huey's fingers were still oily with butter. He couldn't even throw over a clean punch.

What to do?

Huey did it. He slipped like a buttered eel through his assailant to a doctor and out to Milwaukee. He had had a nice evening. Just a sock in the eye and lots and lots of asparagus.

Apparently Huey had turned thumbs down on the ruffian metropolis, his former favorite playground.

The New Yorker Hotel, where Huey always stops on his visits to New York, today received orders to forward his baggage to New Orleans. The management said:

"We do not expect Senator Long back for some time—perhaps not for a year or so."

CHIEF SHUNS HONOR

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—The Brooklyn Eagle says today it has learned from an authoritative source that the man who smacked Senator Huey Long at a Long Island party Saturday night is Chief of Police Steve Webber, of Port Washington, a former boxer and army drill sergeant. Chief Webber, when asked about the matter, smiled and denied he had struck Long.

Chief Webber was said to have shown little surprise when he was told the spotlight of curiosity had swung upon him, but he insisted that his denial be used if a story was carried. He grinned as he made this stipulation.

Huey Long Sought By Coney Island As 'Freak'

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—(INS.)—Huey Long can have a new job if he wants it.

Declaring the flame-thatched United States Senator from Louisiana by virtue of his "recent pugilistic activities" may claim to be "the most picturesque man in America," the management of Coney Island's Luna Park today sent a telegram to Huey offering him $1,000 nightly "to appear as a freak attraction at Luna Park."

Bert Nevins, spokesman for the park management, declared the offer was made in good faith.

Battered Kingfish Heads Home, Slurs Newsmen

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 30.—(INS.)—Senator Huey P. Long was on his way to Louisiana today with the question of "Who hit the 'Kingfish'?" still unanswered and the Veterans of Foreign Wars apologizing for his spirited attack on the press.

Senator Long departed with his bodyguard, members of the New Orleans post of the veterans' organization.

The wound over the Senator's eye, souvenir of a setto with an unnamed adversary at the Sand Points Bath Club, at New York, had been dressed and carefully dusted with powder.

Following his address to the veterans' encampment, in which Senator Long heaped abuse on the reporters present, the organization sent formal apologies to the Milwaukee newspapers. The veterans adopted a resolution disclaiming responsibility for the Senator's speech.

ENRAGED AT REPORTERS

Long had become enraged at the inquiries of reporters into the cause of his wound.

Addressing the convention as photographers snapped his picture on the platform the Senator ordered the veterans to "throw the hoodlums out." The photographers were ejected. Long shouted, pointing at the press table:

"You couldn't believe one of those newspapermen on oath.

"We drove the polecats out of Louisiana and they came up here and got jobs on newspapers. We don't stand for polecats, skunks and other varmints in Louisiana. The newspapers there have learned their lesson. They don't try anything like this down there. They don't dare."

PROTECTS WOUND

As he delivered his vociferous address Long waved his fists and intermittently mopped his perspiring brow, carefully avoiding the gash on his forehead.

Turning next to President Roosevelt and the administration, the Louisiana Senator shouted:

"To hell with the patronage in Louisiana until President Roosevelt gets back on the right track."

He then attacked "Morgan, Wall street, the Rockefellers and the Baruches" and wound up with a blast against the Citizens' Conservation Corps. Of the latter he said:

"I voted against throwing you out of hospitals and for payment of the soldiers' bonus which would do ten times more good than the Sapling bill."

NRA Violation Charged, Blue Law Invoked

The Sunday blue law was invoked here this week against an alleged NRA code violator. The case was prosecuted by Joseph Wiseman, grocer, of 20 Roberts street, in the name of the Hill Business Men's Marketing Association.

Charges of "performing worldly employment on the Sabbath day" were brought against the alleged violator, a grocer, who, it was declared, kept his store open last Sunday in violation of the locally adopted code agreement. The merchant neither employs outside help nor observes the week-day closing hour agreement, it is charged. His wife and seven children help him in the store, he says.

He was arraigned before Alderman Jacob S. Michaels, of Carrick, and fined $25. At first he refused to pay the fine, choosing the 30-day jail sentence instead. After spending a few hours in jail, however, his wife paid the fine and he was released.

JOHNSON ASKED TO FIX BEAUTY PRICES HERE

Gen. Hugh S Johnson., administrator of the NRA, was called upon today to settle a disagreement in prices between two factions of the beauty shop owners in Pittsburgh.

Attorney Louis Little, client for the so-called minority faction, said the difference arose after adoption of a minimum code of prices Thursday by the Pittsburgh and Allegheny County Hairdressers' Association.

WIRES JOHNSON

Representing what he styles the "working girl" and six beauty shops in the city, some of them chain organizations, Little sent a telegram to Johnson, which read:

"I represent a number of beauticians with a large number of employes who enthusiastically indorse the NRA and will gladly abide by its provisions. However, I am informed by them that an association has tried to raise the prices from 50 per cent to 250 per cent beyond prices existing prior to the NRA. This will deprive the shop and working girl, the poor and middle class wives of care and treatment of their bodies, which society no longer calls a luxury but deems a necessity. I would be glad to have a representative come to Pittsburgh to help solve this problem and protect the beauticians as well as the public."

Walter W. Newman, legal adviser for the Pennsylvania Hairdressers' Association, said after a visit to Little's office that a great majority of the beauty shop owners both in the city and county agreed to the schedule as fixed and "intended to fight the small minority.",

EXPLAINS RATE

He added:

"It's the cut rate shops that are objecting. The rise in prices is not to profiteer but to enable beauty shops to maintain their business under NRA standards. We want to put competition on a basis of merit rather than price."

Attorney Little said his clients are objecting to but five of the prices. He explained that they want the minimum code reduced as follows: permanent wave from $5 to $3.50; single curl from 50 cents to 35 cents; hot oil shampoo from $1.50 to $1; medicated shampoo from $2.50 to $1, and henna pack from $2.50 to $1.50.

4,000 CLEANERS END STRIKE

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—A bitter struggle between workers in the cleaning and dyeing industry and their employers, which left a trail of broken shop windows and clashes with police, is at end with the signing of a peace pact which labor leaders hailed as a victory for the employes.

They stated terms of the agreement, reached last night, include wage increases ranging from 20 to 75 per cent, a minimum wage of $15 a week for unskilled labor, establishment of the 45-hour week, and recognition of the union.

Union officials estimate 4,000 had been on strike.

Meanwhile, state police remain on duty at Conshohocken, where they were sent by Gov. Pinchot to maintain order among striking employes of the John Wood Manufacturing Company. They were under orders to "suppress all violence."

Noted Fliers Balk At Blue Eagle Air Code

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Noted aviators, gathered in the capital to fight provisions of the air transport code of competition, served notice last night they would not accept the proposed wage and hour limitations.

A committee of prominent pilots, with former Representative F. H. LaGuardia, of New York, as cousel, will appear at NRA hearings, beginning tomorrow, to contest provisions of the code.

The pilots claim the $250 minimum is less than half their prevailing earnings and that the proposed code would increase their working hours 40 per cent.

Restaurant Men Will Discuss Code

Amendments to the proposed restaurant code will be discussed at a meeting of restaurant owners and managers in the William Penn Hotel tonight. R. L. Gammon will preside. The meeting will be under auspices of the Western Pennsylvania Restaurant Association.

OIL COMMITTEE TO BE NAMED

International News Service.

HYDE PARK, N. J., Aug. 30.—Selection of members of the planning and co-ordinating committee for the oil industry under its code of fair competition occupied President Roosevelt today.

Secretary of the Interior Ickes, whom the President named oil administrator and automatically placed in charge of the committee, left a list of between 50 and 60 names for the President to go over.

The Executive expected to pick his men for the committee before he leaves here for his return trip to Washington tomorrow afternoon. The job will probably be completed by tonight.

Secretary Ickes has promised to have the committee ready for work by September 2. On that date, the oil code will become effective.

The planning and co-ordinating committee will handle the difficult price-fixing phases of the code.

RETAIL CODE REVISED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—A delay until the middle of next week on the master code intended to blanket the millions of retail workers over the land was indicated today by Arthur D. Whiteside, a deputy administrator of the NRA, presented a revised version to retailers' representatives for consideration.

The retailers' code was described altered in many respects from previous drafts, but not drastically. The text was withheld.

As the group of executives representing the nation's largest retain establishments began consideration of the new charter, which would include druggists and grocers if the details can be worked out satisfactorily, Whiteside gave them until next week to agree.

He indicated that on Wednesday the code was intended to be in the hands of President Roosevelt for promulgation. Some 5,000,000 or more workers are said to be affected.

HORNE'S MONTH-END DAY

Stop! Look! Listen!

The August Sales END Tomorrow!

THE LAST DAY of the August Sales, like the final day for registration or paying taxes, is always marked by a grand rush to get in under the wire on the August discounts. This should be particularly the case this year, when people are genuinely alive to the import of the August values. This is a last call to review your fall needs as represented by these August Sales.

Furniture

FIFTEEN PER CENT off our entire furniture stock is the August Furniture Sale proposition. This discount applies to prices which are generally admitted to be close to all-time lows for modern furniture. Substantial price advances have taken place in the wholesale markets recently, and higher furniture costs are inevitable. Our stocks are all that you could possibly desire in the way of modern, quality furniture, and there must be something that you would like to have at the August discount. Convenient payments may be readily arranged, and selections will be held for later delivery if desired.

. . . Horne's, Sixth Floor . . .

Furs

Nothing else that a woman puts on her back is increasing in price as rapidly as furs (because they have been disproportionately lower than anything else). Younger women—the fashion alert, and particularly the college set—have been unusually responsive to this year's August Sale values. Dependable Horne Coats are featured at $75, $95, $145, $245, $295, $335 and $435. A reasonable first payment will hold selections for later delivery.

. . . Horne's Fur Salon, Second Floor . . .

Fur-Trimmed Coats

This year, of all years, August is undoubtedly Coat Time for the woman who likes nice things, but has a price limit. Buying now is the only way she can be sure of having, at her price, the fine, luxuriously trimmed coat that will really satisfy her. $58, $78, $95, $125.

. . . Horne's, Women's and Misses' Coat Sections, Second Floor . . .

Bedding

Processing taxes, effective September 1st, together with recent sharp advances in wool and cotton, have made alert housekeepers keen to stock up their bedding closets in the August Bedding Sale. The savings extend to sheets, cotton and wool blankets, comforts, spreads, and practically every winter bedding need.

Horne's, Fourth Floor . . .

Men's Suits to Order

Our regular $50 and $65 qualities are offered at $37.50 and $47.50 respectively for August only. Choice of more than 300 new fall woolens, made-to-measure in any latest style desired. Strictly hand-tailored throughout—basted try-on, fit and satisfaction guaranteed. Wives are asked to bring this August opportunity to husband's attention, if they have failed to see it, because it is an inducement which should interest every man who likes his clothes made to order—particularly the hard-to-fit man.

. . . Horne's, Third Floor . . .

Values here tomorrow that you will long remember. Space does not permit listing them all, but there are enough to convince you that you should make a day of it here tomorrow. All sales final; no credits or exchanges. No mail or telephone orders.

HERRON DENIES POLITICAL LEVIES AGAINST JOBHOLDERS

REBUKES 'SILLY' MOVES BY BACKERS

Mayor John S. Herron today gave a verbal spanking to his would-be supporters for holding campaign meetings in public buildings and denied rumors that city employes were being assessed for his campaign chest.

Speaking at his headquarters in Hotel Henry at a noon meeting, the Mayor said:

"A great hue and cry has gone up over an alleged assessment of city employes. I have made my stand on this as emphatic as I possibly can. It is not my desire to assess anybody and I don't desire that city employes contribute to this campaign, because of their employ on city payrolls.

"I have stated that I repeat that city employes have taken substantial reductions in their salaries and should not be asked for contributions."

REBUKE TO RENO

Apparently taking cognizance of Monday night's meeting called by Samuel JJ. Reno, chairman of the Nineteenth Ward, in the City-County Building, the Mayor declared:

"I hope that the men who are helping me will not do some sillythings like going out of their way to hold political meetings in public buildings. We have a headquarters here."

As to Joseph N. Mackrell's comparison of city expenses for 1915 and 1933, Mayor Herron said it was impossible to compare the two, asserting:

"The people wanted improvements, voted for them, got them and the cost must be paid. Much of the additional cost of government has been due to annexation of territories in the past few years."

FLING AT McARDLE

Then for another opponent, P. J. McArdle, Herron had this:

"McArdle gave no constructive support in framing the present city budget which cut taxes 10 per cent."

But he returned to his first attack with a vengeance:

"Mackrel lis talking of what would do with the police force. And there are rumors to the effect that he would appoint Charlie Faulkner, former North Side police inspector, as superintendent of police. Everybody knows that I will reappoint Denny and McQuaide."

There were scattered remarks for Robert Garland and William A. Magee, councilmanic candidates outside of the Mayor's camp.

"When Magee was Mayor he watched taxes climb and he couldn't do anything to stop them.

"The record shows that Bob Garland voted for every tax increase except in 1930."

BOARD TO SPEED VOTE RETURNS

The County Commissioners have pledged assistance to the newspapers in helping to gather the results on election night just as soon as the election boards have finished their work. Instructions are to be sent out to all members of the election boards, informing them that it is the desire of the Commissioners that the results be given to the representatives of the newspapers who will call immediately after the polls close.

This year the Commissioners will have their machine inspector in all polling places where more than one machine will be used and these inspectors will be given specific instructions to make results available to the newspaper representatives as soon as possible.

Chairman C. C. McGovern made the wish of the Commissioners known in a public statement at the Commissioners' meeting yesterday. He received the support of both other board members.

Talks by Candidates Slated for Tonight

William N. McNair, Democratic candidate for Mayor; George E. Evans and Representative John J. Kane, for Council; Dean A. Marshall Thompson, of the Pitt Law School, for Common Pleas Court, and Austin L. Staley, for County Court, will speak tonight at Columbus School, Irwin avenue.

Evans, Walter R. Demmler and Representative Thomas J. Gallagher, Democratic candidates for Council, and Staley will speak at Springfield School, Smallman street.

Demmler, for Council, and Dean Thompson, John J. Kennedy, and Andrew G. Smith, Democratic candidates for Common Pleas Court, will address a meeting at 1322 Bellaire place, Thirty-second Ward.

Kennedy, James L. O'Toole, Jr., Democratic candidate for County Court; John Heinz, for sheriff; Vincent L. Marino, for coroner; Thomas A. Dougherty, for jury commissioner, and William S. Cooper, Jr., for poor director, will talk at Clairton High School, Clairton.

Judge M. A. Musmanno, candidate for Common Pleas Court, will speak today at Carrick High School; at an open-air meeting in the Third Ward of McKeesport; the Liberty School, Seventh Ward, and at Hays Hall, Homestead. He was also to address veterans' organizations in the First, Second, Fourth, Fifth and Seventh wards.

Assistant District Attorney John F. Haggerty, candidate for Common Pleas Court, will speak tonight at a taxpayers' meeting, Homestead; St. Pius Lyceum, McKeesport, and the Liberty School, East Liberty.

Mayor John S. Herron was to address the first noon meeting at the Regular Republican headquarters, Hotel Henry, today. Councilman W. Y. English will speak tomorrow, Harry A. Little on Friday, Clifford B. Connelley next Tuesday, George S. Oliver next Wednesday, and Frank L. Duggan September 7.

P. J. McArdle, Independent Republican candidate for mayor, and the councilmanic candidates on his ticket, will speak tonight at South High School, Tenth and Carson streets, and South Hills High School, Ruth street. The meetings open at 8:15.

Joseph N. Mackrell, Progressive Republican candidate for Mayor, and candidates on his ticket will speak tonight at Knoxville High School, Thirtieth Ward; Overbrook School, Thirty-second Ward; Maennerchor Hall, Nineteenth Ward, and Beltzhoover School, Eighteenth Ward.

Seventeen ward meetings have been called by the women's division of the Regular Republican Campaign Committee for the week ending September 7. Party candidates and other speakers will address the meetings, scheduled as follows:

Friday, September 1—Twenty-ninth, Thirtieth, Thirty-first and Thirty-second wards.

Tuesday, September 5—First, Second, Third, Fifth, Sixth and Fourteenth wards.

Wednesday, September 6—Eighteenth, Twentieth and Twenty-eighth wards.

Thursday, September 7—Fourth, Ninth, Eleventh and Twelfth wards.

Robert K. Cochrane, Progressive Republican candidate for sheriff, was to address the Swissvale Rotary Club today.

LEITH DROPPED FROM PAYROLL

H. H. Leith, for many years an employe of the engineering department of the County Public Works Department, has been dropped from the payroll, effective Friday. Since the independent commissioners took office two years ago, Leith has been head of the engineering department. The resolution to dismiss him was introduced by Commissioner C. C. McGovern.

Commissioner C. M. Barr said:

"I'll second this resolution, but why are you dismissing this man?"

McGovern said something about "this party not being so good on the job," and the action was approved.

Patriotic Federation To Pick Candidates

The Federation of Patriotic Americans will hold a meeting Saturday evening at 535 Penn avenue to make indorsements for the primary. The announcement of the meeting says its purpose is to "protect our schools from Coyneism and to keep our courts American."

LYSLE ATTACKS RIVALS IN RACE

Mayor George H. Lysle, of McKeesport, seeking re-election, last night in the Eighth Ward insisted that his opponents, Dr. H. S. Arthur and John Sweeney, were making promises impossible of fulfillment and were criticising his administration without being familiar with conditions.

Lysle went into past history to describe the disapproving attitude of McKeesporters when Dr. Arthur finished his term as Mayor 20 years ago, then cited a report by the United States Census Bureau in 1932, which declared that the cost of municipal operation in McKeesport was below the level of comparative cities in the country.

Lyle offered to match the record of his 20 years as Mayor with the four served by Arthur.

He claimed that Sweeney, advocate of a municipal light plant, had furnished no competent estimates as to costs, and that the project could not be undertaken under existing law. He asserted that Arthur's figures as to the debt service of McKeesport were inaccurate, being much higher than the true figure.

He pledged that while he was Mayor no citizen would lose his home because of city taxes, and stressed the deficiency in tax collections which has confronted his administration this year.

A. W. Gallagher was chairman of the meeting, and other speakers were Harry M. Jones, city solicitor; Samuel Milligan, Louis Rotzsch, chairman of the Eighth Ward, and Mrs. William Walthour, vice chairman.

VETS INDORSE MACKRELL

The city convention of the United American Veterans' Association indorsed Joseph N. Mackrell on the Republican ticket for Mayor.

For Council, on the Republican ticket the association approved Joseph N. Stack, James F. Malone, William Wright, Edward Townsend and William A. Magee.

The joint city-county convention held at the same time indorsed as judges of Common Pleas Court, Raymond D. Evans, M. A. Musmanno and Ralph H. Smith; for judges of the County Court, Benjamin Lencher and John J. McGrath; for judge of the Juvenile Court, Charles G. Lane.

Indorsement was given Robert K. Cochrane for sheriff, William J. MacGregor for coroner and Donald D. Mangone for jury commissioner.

Those of the organization who have registered as Democrats indorsed William N. McNair for Mayor; for City Council, George E. Evans, John M. Huston, Thomas J. Gallagher, Walter R. Demmler and John J. Kane; for Common Pleas Court, John J. Kennedy; for sheriff, John Heinze; for coroner, Dr. Vincent L. Marino; for jury commissioner, John J. Manners.

Malone Campaign Headquarters Opens

James F. Malone, candidate for City Council, has opened headquarters at 516 Grant street, and will open his campaign with a radio talk at 8 o'clock tonight.

Benjamin L. Anderson is chairman of the Malone campaign.

Anthracite Code To Be Ready Friday

WASHINGTON Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Recovery administration officials said today that the anthracite industry expected to submit its code of fair competition by September 1.

That word from the producers came several days ago, however. They have been meeting in New York to draft the agreement. The recovery officials said there was possibility they had decided to delay submission for several days.

John W. Patterson Gives Talk Tonight

John W. Patterson, Council candidate, will address the Eintract Singing and Musical Society tonight at Thirty-sixth and Bandera streets. Patterson yesterday told the Bent Fenders Club the city administration had failed to learn efficiency from investigations of departments in the past.

The dependable kind of home workers—cooks, maids, nurse-girls, second girls and others—read Sun-Telegraph Help Wanted Columns, and are alive to opportunity.

EVANS DECRIES USE OF BENCH FOR AMBITION

Decrying the use of the judicial bench as a political stepping stone to other jobs, Assistant United States Attorney Raymond D. Evans, candidate for Common Pleas Court, declared in an address yesterday:

"The judiciary should be looked upon as a sacred trust, not a pawn of political favor."

Evans' candidacy was indorsed by a conference of Negro ministers in the Macedonia Baptist Church, Bedford avenue.

Evans was to speak today at the Bethel Township corn roast; St. Wendelin's harvest home picnic, Carrick, and Carrick High School.

CHILD BEGGING SCORED

The Juvenile Court should be used to stamp out the "despicable racket" of chidren being sent to beg in the streets, Gustav L. Schramm, candidate for Juvenile Court, said in addresses last night. He said:

"The new court was created for the sole purpose of looking after the interests of children of this county. It will be its duty to stop every form of exploitation whereby adults profit by the labor or begging of children."

Schramm spoke before the Rotary Club of Carnegie, the Independent Voters' organization of Brentwood, Elroy School, and the Property Owners' Protective League, Library.

INDORSED BY VETS

William H. Coleman, candidate for Common Pleas Court, and Charles G. Lane, Jr., candidate for Juvenile Court, have been indorsed by the Ex-Service Men's Voting League of Harrison Township.

For Common Pleas Court the league has also indorsed Harry H. Rowand and Raymond D. Evans; for County Court, Benjamin Lencher and Frank Piekarski; for Sheriff, Frank I. Gollmar; for Coroner, W. J. McGregor, and for Jury Commissioner, John A. Schrader.

Alvin Mason is president of the league.

M'BRIDE AIDES NAMED

The completed women's campaign committee supporting Mrs. Lois McBride for Juvenile Court was announced today by Mrs. Harvey S. Fouse. Fifty-nine names are included.

CITES COURT BURDEN

Attorney Alexander P. Lindsay, candidate for Common Pleas Court, pointed to increases in the work of the courts as reason for special care in selecting judges, at a meeting in Elizabeth High School last night. Papers filed in the Prothonotary's office, an index of the work of the courts, have increased two and one-half times in the past 11 years, he said.

LABOR BACKS M'GRATH

The Pittsburgh Central Labor Union has unanimously indorsed the candidacy of Attorney John J. McGrath for County Court. A World War veteran, McGrath has been a union supporter for 20 years.

PIEKARSKI FAVORED

The candidacy of Judge Frank A. Piekarski for County Court has been indorsed by the Voters' League of Dormont, he was notified today.

Duggan Sees Big Gains Possible Here Under NRA

Striking at critics of the city's finances, Councilman Frank L. Duggan declared Pittsburgh in a better financial condition to benefit by the National Recovery program than any other large town, in an address last night.

Duggan, candidate for Council on the Regular Republican ticket, said:

"Thanks to the foresight and courage of our present city administration, we are in the rare condition of being absolutely solvent. Pittsburgh is actually able to dispose of its bonds at a premium."

Opponents of Mayor Herron and his ticket who persist in making unwarranted attacks upon the credit and reputation of the city rended themselves unworthy of confidence, Duggan said. He continued:

"The budget of the city is $6,000,000 less than it was in 1931. In the first six months of this year, expenditures were within budget appropriations."

The city has assets consisting of unpaid taxes many times in excess of the possible deficit, Duggan asserted.

Duggan pointed to his work with the Better Traffic Committee, the Western Pennsylvania Safety Council, and the Helping Hand, as activities consistent with his candidacy.

Herron Booster Seeks Police Protection

Roger McKelvey, of Grandview avenue, Mt. Washington, is on enthusiastic supporter of Herron-for-mayor.

He's posted Herron advertising about his home, but invariably, he says, "enemies" have torn it down.

Last night he rigged up a motion picture projector and it cast in bright lights across Grandview avenue, the legend:

"Herron-for-mayor."

CAMPAIGN FUND LEVY SCORED BY MACKRELL

"Coercive methods of the Coyne machine" in raising campaign funds were bitteriy attacked last night by Joseph N. Mackrell, Progressive Republican candidate for Mayor.

Speaking in the Garfield School, Tenth Ward; at a First Ward workers' meeting in the Roosevelt Hotel, and at South High School, Mackrell said:

"I call on every employe of the city of Pittsburgh to resist with all their courage and spirit the un-American attempt of leaders of the city administration to take part of their already small salaries from them, under the guise of meeting the political expenses, but in reality so that political heelers may have a good time."

Some of the methods seem funny, Mackrell said, such as a raffle being held in one ward with a dollar watch as the prize. He continued:

"In an East End ward all city employes were invited to a Sunday picnic, each invitation costing a dollar, with the threat that if they did not accept they would have to look to the Welfare for their living.

"In raffles, each employe has to buy a certain number of dollars' worth of tickets, according to his salary. In a few instances the levy is being made direct, the money supposedly to be used for the purchase of tax receipts which, from all reports, are being distributed from police and fire stations."

Policemen employed at the location of these activities are shifted to distant beats if the slightest complaint is heard, Mackrell said, continuing:

"If I am elected such despicable practices will not be possible. I consider them the most un-American, selfish and dishonorable methods ever used in a political campaign."

Opponents Lack Experience, Says Herron

Persons of little or no municipal experience form the greater part of slates in opposition to the Regular Republican ticket, Mayor John S. Herron, candidate for Mayor, told women of the Fifteenth, Sixteenth and Seventeenth wards yesterday.

Speaking at the Regular Republican headquarters in the Hotel Henry, Herron said:

"To expect such persons to be placed in office in preference to those who have been tried and found not wanting is beyond all reason."

Leonard S. Levin, chairman of the speakers' bureau, cautioned against confusion of names on the Regular Republican ticket with those on other ballots.

Other speakers were the five Regular Republican candidates for Council: John A. Schrader, for Jury Commissioner, and William H. Coleman, for Common Pleas Court.

CHANGE IN POOR BOARD URGED BY CANDIDATE

Citing the surcharging of two directors of the poor, Bernard L. Flynn, candidate for director of the poor, urged a new representation on the board, at a meeting in Elizabeth High School last night.

The issues in the poor director fight remain the same today as in 1931, Flynn said, in his plea for a change in personnel.

Vincent C. Neeson, Independent Republican candidate for jury commissioner, upheld his candidacy on the grounds that he was not supported by any political machine and would be directly responsible to the people.

Robert Cochrane, Progressive Republican candidate for sheriff, attacked the political machine as drawing the unfit to power. No better example can be found than the policy now being pursued by those elected to represent the public and of transferring their affections to wealth and special privilege, he said.

VANN ASSAILED

Attacking the leadership of Robert L. Vann, Negro editor of the Pittsburgh Courier, Arthur V. B. Hightower, Negro candidate for Council, urged Negroes to register Republican in an address at the Afro-American Brotherhood, 2512 Wylie avenue.

Charging local Democrats with exploitation of the Negro, Hightower said their real effort was to defeat the present administration. Vann and M. L. Benedum are backing a slate of candidates many of whom believe no consideration should be shown the Negro, Hightower said.

DEMOCRATS GIVE PARTY

Democratic headquarters for the Seventh, Eighth, Tenth, Eleventh, and Twelfth wards, to be opened this week at 6312 Frankstown avenue, will be partially financed by a card party in McCann's East Liberty Store tonight at 8 o'clock.

Fifty tables for bridge, "500," and euchre will be available. Walter J. Friday, organization Democratic candidate for alderman in the Eleventh Ward, will have charge.

BIALAS NAMED

Attorney Joseph H. Bialas has been appointed chairman of the finance committee of the Progressive Republican committee, it was announced today.

SEEKS BOROUGH POST

Lewis S. Simpson has announced his candidacy for auditor of the borough of West View. Employed at present as an auditor, Simpson has pledged a complete audit of the borough's records.

VOTE MACHINES TO BE GUARDED

Unemployed National Guardsmen who live in Allegheny County may obtain temporary jobs through the County Commissioners' decision to hire such men to guard voting machines between their delivery to the polling places and election day.

Commissioner C. C. McGovern made the proposal, pointing out that the law provides for delivery of the machines between the Saturday preceding election day and the actual opening of the polls. He feared damage if the machines were left unprotected.

McGovern said he would not ask for the guardsmen as a unit, but would consult with their local commanders regarding hiring them as individuals at $5 a day. He pointed out the men are nonpolitical, sworn to uphold the constitution and have special training.

They would not be uniformed, serving only as citizens.

50-Year-Old Brandy Found in Tarentum

Nailed up in the wall of the home of A. L. Chapman at Tarentum, workmen yesterday found a quart bottle of 50-year-old brandy. The "find" was made by Edgar Black.

Punch in the Eye Greets Quiz of Herron Man

R. J. Sibert, 33, of 301 La Blanc street, strolled in Diamond street, opposite the City-County Building early today when he said five men approached him and demanded:

"Who are you going to vote for?"

Sibert said he replied:

"Mayor Herron."

He asked:

"Who are you going to vote for?"

A punch in the eye was his answer, Sibert said.

HENRY TO TALK IN COYNE WARD

John M. Henry, Democratic mayoralty candidate, is going into Senator James J. Coyne's ward tonight with a joint attack on the Senator and Henry's Democratic rival, William N. McNair. The meeting will be held in Holmes school, and other speakers will be Mrs. Anne E. Felix, contesting the congressional election of Congressman M. J. Muldowney; John McCarthy and Anthony Lally.

Henry last night asserted that election cheating and irregularities have destroyed representative government in Pittsburgh. He urged permanent registration and removal of the tax qualification for voting. He said:

"Year after year, Pittsburgh and Allegheny County have witnessed elections which did not end as voters intended. The people voted one way. The results of their voting turned out altogether different.

"By all the thousand and one tricks that cheap politics boasts as its own in the election districts where the Republican and Democratic machines rule with an iron hand, the people were cheated out of their votes.

"Today we read that Samuel Reno, Republican chairman in the Nineteenth Ward, drives the payroll into line. Instead of exacting direct contributions from its unwilling workers, the machine this time proposes that each payroller should buy tax receipts for other persons. And Mr. Reno blandly assured his listeners that they 'won't get in wrong.'

"Little wonder that the gentleman is so cock-sure that no one will get 'in wrong' when they follow his advice to commit an illegal act. The Republican machine has operated for years on the theory that no one will get 'in wrong' because the people who are the very soul of democracy have permitted a dictatorship of party machines to be fastened upon them."

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

In Mayfair —With— Patricia Pitt

Announcement comes from Greensburg of the marriage at 9 o'clock this morning in the Methodist Episcopal Church there, of Robert Gross, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Gross of Greensburg, and a brother of Mrs. John G. Hoffstot, of Greensburg, to Miss Thelma Esther Butler, daughter of the Sylvester Butlers, of Jeannette.

Mr. Gross and his bride left immediately after the ceremony, which was attended by only the families, for New York, and tomorrow will sail on the Bremen for Germany, Italy, Switzerland, France and England. Upon their return they will reside in Greensburg.

Wedding In Ohio

A wedding on Saturday afternoon in Youngstown, O., will attract a number of Sewickley people, among them a sister of the bride, Mrs. Thomas Bray. And the others will be Harriet Ramsburg and her fiance, Royal Putman Goldsbury, and Mary McGee. Sunday and Monday Harriet will be the guest of the Thomas Blochs, of Wheeling.

The bride to be is Jane McKelvey, of Youngstown, and her fiance is Robert Harwell, of Nashville, Tenn. The wedding is to be a quiet affair.

Sewickley's younger set is having a gay time these pre-school days with numerous house parties. Ann Jennings and Mary Wells Van Pelt entertained in the home of Ann's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth N. Jennings, of Linden place, on Saturday. They improvised a bar and had dancing and bridge.

Their guests included Elizabeth Crampton, Alice and Grace Crutchfield, Frances Pinkney Gott, Elizabeth Dunsford, Martha Berg, Parker and Robert Berg, William Richardson, Dan McConnell, Ralph Miller, Jan Dunsford, Jamison Murdoch and Walter Nevin.

Party in Maryland

The James Todds have a farm at Keyser's Ridge, Md., an ideal spot for house parties, and they very generously allow their friends to entertain there while they are away for the summer. They have their own lake. Ten Sewickleyites spent the past week-end there, including the junior Henry Olivers, Betty Childs, Mary Elizabeth Floyd, Harriet Ramsburg, the William Doolittles, Frank Brooks, Jr., William Marcelin Scaife, Jr., and Royal Putnam Goldsbury.

A large group of Sewickley folks have just returned from the World's fair. Elizabeth Nevin, and her niece, Frances Nevin, returned yesterday via the Great Lakes. Dr. Frank McCready and his children Sara King, Jeannette, Richard and Frank Jr., returned yesterday, too, and the Drayton Heards, with Mrs. Heard's brother, Charles Arrott, are just home from Chicago.

Cape May Arrivals

The Pittsburgh colony at Cape May, N. J., is augmented every day by new arrivals. The Frank B. Gordons have joined the William G. Costins there.

The Benjamin Dangerfields, who are at the resort, attended the dance and midnight cabaret at the Admiral Hotel as did the Thomas McCutcheons with Mrs. McCutcheon's sister, Isabelle Wynmyer. With them were the Amsbry Brookses and Dr. and Mrs. James H. Wendel, of Philadelphia. Seen at one of the tables were the T. B. Colemans, the Carl Seylers, the junior Albert Burkis and Mrs. Raymond McAllister, all of Pittsburgh.

Rochester Junior Club To Honor President

An outstanding social event of the early fall in the Beaver Valley will be the president's dance sponsored by the Rochester Junior Women's Club, at Greystone Gardens, next Wednesday in honor of the retiring president, Miss Margaret Steele. There is to be a special novelty dance as a surprise feature.

Miss Thelma Wahl, president-elect, is sering as general chairman for the dance and is assisted by these committees: Tickets, Millicent Hood, Louise Herdt, Agnes Wilson, Marie George and Gene Batchelor; decorating, Mrs. Homer R. Hays, Mrs. Elvin W. Batchelor, Mrs. Scott McDonald and Miss Margaret McCune.

B. M. Plessets Return From Seeing Son Sail

Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Plesset, and their son, Ernest, of Dalzell place, have returned from New York, where they went to bid their son, Dr. Milton S. Plesset, bon voyage. He sailed Wednesday, August 23, on the President Roosevelt, for Copenhagen, Denmark.

Dr. Plesset will be engaged in research work as an international research fellow. The fellowship was awarded him by the American Academy of Science. He just completed a year's research in Pasadena, Cal., as a National research fellow.

Daughter of Dormont Pastor Weds Butler Man

The Rev. and Mrs. A. C. M. Wahl, of Dormont, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Marion Wahl, to Paul J. Lyons, of Butler which took place July 19 in Wellsburg, W. Va. Officiating was the Rev. B. Evans. Mr. and Mrs. Lyons will be at home in Dormont.

Mrs. Michael Eicker Visiting in Altoona

Mrs. Michael Eicker, of Joseph street, Carrick, is vacationing at the home of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Eicker, of Lakemont, Altoona, Pa.

Jewish Council Urging Foreign-Born to Join Education Classes

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

By various means, especially through children and over the radio, Pittsburgh Section, National Council of Jewish Women, is appealing to foreign-born women to join adult education classes this fall. These classes, organized by the Council with the co-operation of several other organizations, are sponsored by the Board of Public Education which furnishes the teachers. Registrations will be taken at churches, schools, or libraries, and if a class of 10 is organized, its members will be taught in their homes.

Council's service for foreign-born has been doing this valuable piece of Americanization work for several years. Reading and writing are, of course, the principal subjects, but home-making and preparation for citizenship are usually taught, too, the "scholars" ranging in age from 25 to 60 years.

The radio addresses which are being given each evening this week are done in the native tongue, tonight, for instance, the address is to be in Greek. Tomorrow the Hungarian tongue will be heard; Friday, Italian; Saturday, Polish, and Sunday, Yiddish. Addresses in Russian and Lithuanian have already been heard.

Not alone with the education of the foreign-born does this committee concern itself, but with their well-being and their domestic lives. Reuniting families separated by immigration, corresponding for the separated members, providing medical care, ironing out domestic difficulties, recreational work, especially among the recent arrivals in this country; attending to the legalization of entry, making provision for the children of deportees, all these are part of the widely varied tasks of the department.

Mrs. Abraham Lincoln Cohen is the new chairman for the department and Mrs. Matthew B. Grant is assisting in assembling the classes. Incidentally, when the mothers meet in their homes, their children, of course, accompany them, and are cared for and kept amused by an adult.

Past Matrons to Give Quilt Exhibit and Tea

Past matrons of Dorcas Chapter, No. 401, are giving a Gypsy tea and quilt exhibit on Saturday, September 9, from 1 to 4:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. J. J. Mamaux, Nelson road. The committee is Mrs. Mamaux, Mrs. Margaret Lees, Mrs. Jean Shields, Mrs. Lily Aitken, Mrs. Celina Smith, Mrs. Nell Braesecker, Mrs. Ella Lloyd, Mrs. Augusta Haust, Mrs. Louise Smith and Mrs. Margaret Dickson.

Virginia Williams Becomes Bride In Church

In Calvary Episcopal Church on Monday morning, Miss Virginia Williams, daughter of J. W. Williams, of North Highland avenue, became the bride of Victor Harry Zimmerman, son of Mrs. Emma Zimmerman, of Barmen, Germany.

The bride wore an ensemble of powder blue with a matching hat, and corsage of sweetheart roses and lilies of the valley. She was unattended.

Following an eastern wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Zimmerman will be at home in Phillips avenue, after Friday.

Entertainments for the bride were numerous during the past week. Miss Martha Brahm, of Baum boulevard, gave a bridge luncheon on Wednesday; Mrs. George Rowland, of Cedarova road, was hostess, at a bridge luncheon on Thursday; Mrs. Herbert L. Sander, Jr., of Fox Chapel Manor, gave the spinster dinner on Friday.

Edith Dorothea Warner Weds David H. Behrhorst

A bride of yesterday was Miss Edith Dorothea Warner, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Barclay Shuster Warner, of Evanston, Ill. She married David Henry Behrhorst, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Behrhorst, of Avalon, in the home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. George Watson Herriott, of Maple avenue, Edgewood. Officiating was the Rev. Dr. Walter L. Moser, of the Edgewood Community Church, in the presence of the families.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Robert Foresman Warner, wore a gown of ivory bridal satin and a coronet of rose point lace embroidered with seed pearls. She carried white garden flowers.

Two cousins of the bride were her attendants, Miss Mary Baker, as maid of honor, wore gold crepe, and Miss Betty Baker, bridesmaid, blue crepe. Both carried gold colored chrysanthemums and delphinium. Binney Baugher, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Winchester Baugher, Jr., was the flower girl.

Clifford Behrhorst was his brother's best man and ushers included Jason E. Stone, Jr., and J. Emerson Stinson.

There was a reception in the home after the wedding. Mr. and Mrs. Behrhorst are sailing for Bermuda and will be at home in Chatham Village.

The bride is a graduate of Northwestern University, attended the Evanston Academy of Fine Arts. The bridegroom is a graduate of Allegheny College.

Elizabeth Wallace Is Married to G. O. Brubaker

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Wallace, Sr., of Michigan avenue, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Wallace, to Graydon O. Brubaker, of Pittsburgh, son of Mrs. Maude Over, of Martinsburg, Pa. The wedding took place yesterday morning in the home of the officiant, the Rev. Dr. Alexander Gibson, pastor of the McKinley Park Presbyterian Church.

After a motor trip to Chicago and other cities, and a brief visit with the bridegroom's mother, Mr. and Mrs. Brubaker will be at home in Delmont street, McKinley Park, about September 15.

* * *

At the home of the royal patron, Mrs. Elizabeth Harper, Kennebec street, Squirrel Hill, Hazel Court, No. 59, Order of the Amaranth, will have a card party tomorrow evening. Mrs. Marguerite Z. Wise is royal matron.

LACE LEADS FALL FABRICS IN REVIVAL OF ELEGANCE

RICH FABRICS are coming to light again in what promises to be a most luxurious season. Nothing seems as important at the moment as the revival of elegance. Often it is the fabric that lends the much-desired elaboration this year.

* * *

TAFFETAS, NOVELTY velvets, metal cloths and fabrics with metal threads running through them will be important. Shiny surfaces are good—and in the case of dull fabrics, the importance of ornamentation is highly magnified. (Paillettes, jeweled fastenings, shiny placques—these are the bold touches that add the necessary emphasis instead. Odd pieces of family brocade will be cut up into blouses for dark suits. Fur is often used like fabric. Velvety woolens and considerable tulle (sometimes striped in velvet) are two revivals. The first for daytime, the second for evening. To tell you in a nutshell, fabrics are of paramount importance. A good thing to remember is that when you buy your next dress the beauty of the material should sway you as much as any other factor.

* * *

HOWEVER, IN spite of a sea of countless new fabric faces, lace—that hardy perennial—remains with us. Since nothing in fashion ever stands still, it too has gone through a rejuvenation. A few laces have polished surfaces that gleam like metal. If the lace is dull-surfaced, paillettes and shiny beads often supply an unexpected bit of glitter.

* * *

SOME LACES are dusky in tone, others have more definite color tendencies. Some remind you of wines. Certain grays now being used make you think of marcasite. The browns are deep and rich, like expensive woods. Quantities of black laces are seen, as always, although for novelty, laces in a very unusual bright violet and purplish red are making their appearance, too. These are perfectly charming!

* * *

THE GOWN in the sketch is copper in color—quite like a shining suit of armor. This gown is faithful to the newest edict that fashion emphasis is below, instead of above, the shoulders. See how the eye is drawn directly between the elbow and shoulder.

* * *

VARIED ACCESSORY possibilities suggest themselves for this gown. For instance, a satin bag, gloves and shoes that match the gown in color. Again, the same accessories in suede, also matching the dress in color. Sometimes a delicate gradation in tone can be accomplished by having accessories in a slightly darker tone than the dress. A feather capelet would be effective to accompany the dress, but this must be chosen with extreme care. Otherwise, too much fussiness could easily "kill" a perfect dinner costume.

Freeport College Club to Open On Sept. 8

A reception for new members on September 8 will open the season for the Freeport College Club. It's to be held at the home of the president, Miss Bruce Clark, and for entertainment trips to the Century of Progress Exposition and other vacation spots will be described. A travel talk and motion pictures, a guest day card party and the Christmas party will conclude the 1933 events for the club.

For the new year are dated an evening musicale, a drama night, when the members will present a two-act play, a book talk and drama discussion, a Chinese party, the annual picnic and business meeting. The hostesses for the Chinese party, which is in May, will wear authentic costumes and jewelry loaned for the occasion by Miss Ann Davis and the program will be in keeping.

Officers of the club are Miss Clark, president; Mrs. PaulReichard, vice president; Miss Ruth Daugherty, recording secretary; Mrs. T. Deveraux, corresponding secretary; Miss Katherine Seitz, treasurer.

Juniors to Meet September 24 at Bradford Woods

The next meeting of the Bradford Woods Junior Club is set for September 24, and will be addressed by Miss Hilda Forsberg, who will tell of "Student Life in Geneva." At the October meeting Miss LeVerda Dent will give book notes and Mrs. Charles M. Bregg, club editor of the Sun-Telegraph, will talk on "An Autobiography of a Club Meeting."

A trio of distinguished guests will be present in November: Mrs. Joseph M. Steim, State Federation chairman of juniors; Mrs. E. R. Davis, district chairman of jnniors, and Miss Florence Milliken, county chairman, visiting the club. A musical program by the choral and soloists will be presented on that occasion.

Somewhat unusual is the debate between sisters and the mother and daughter spelling bee which has been arranged for December. An address on psychology is January's program attraction; in February Miss Edna Righter will discuss "The Education of the Handicapped Child"; Dr. H. B. Burns is the speaker for March; in April there's a senior night which will be given in the schoolhouse, and May and June will conclude the season with election and reports.

A number of social events have been arranged in addition to the regular program meetings, among them being a cabaret dance next month, a Halloween party, a Christmas dance, a valentine party, a spring dance, the installation dinner and a reciprocity meeting.

Olympic Athletic Club Boat Ride on Friday

The Olympic Athletic Club of the North Side is making a community affair of its first annual boat ride, to be held Friday evening on the Steamer George Washington.

Bradford Woods Club Summer School Ends

The Bradford Woods Civic Club, under the direction of its new president, Mrs. Kenneth E. Gray, has just brought to a close its second annual vacation school, with classes for boys and girls from 6 to 16.

Classes were arranged for various subjects and were held at the homes of club members over a period of six weeks. The very young children had a rhythm orchestra at the home of Mrs. M. W. Leggett, under the leadership of Mrs. W. E. Drake, and dancing taught by Miss Catherine Hannon. Dancing classes for older boys and girls were taught by Miss Lois Hartman. Tennis was in charge of Ernest Waechter. Swimming classes were held for older boys and girls at Wind's pool, with Mrs. James Leighton in charge, assisted by Miss Virginia Hannon, Miss Frances Corbin, Mrs. Herman Myers and Mrs. E. W. Wilson, Tom Crawford teaching the boys.

Crocheting was taught by Mrs. Charles M. Arnold. A sewing class for the second year was held for girls from 6 to 16 at the home of Mrs. James H. Smith, assisted by Mrs. Stacey V. Gerwig.

The story hour every Friday afternoon was held at the library under the leadership of Mrs. W. A. Crawford, assisted by Miss Mary Crumay.

Last but, by no means the least important, was the Garden Club class under the direction of Ray Marter and a committee consisting of Mrs. William J. Martin, Mrs. Leighton, Mrs. Gerwig, Mrs. J. L. Hannon, Mrs. James H. Smith, Mrs. E. W. Wilson, Mrs. J. C. Roberts and Mrs. Harry Klinger.

The closing activity of this class was a garden party held at the home of Mrs. Leighton for the 35 children who had had gardens and their mothers. Awards were made to 18 of the children.

Mrs. Clark to Address Washington Democrats

Mrs. J. Wood Clark, president of the Democratic Women's Club, will be the principal speaker at a mass meeting under auspices of the Washington County Democratic Women's Committee, Thursday evening, September 7, in the Washington County Court House.

Veterans' Auxiliary To Give Corn Roast

Announcement is made of a corn roast and dance to be held Wednesday evening, September 13, at Silent Brook Barn, South Park, under auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary to Pittsburgh Post, No. 49, Jewish War Veterans of the United States. Mrs. Fred Katz is chairman.

Lexington Club to End Summer Dance Series

The Lexington Club of the East End is holding its final summer dance on the Hotel Mayfair roof garden on Friday. Lawrence O'Toole is chairman of the ticket committee which includes Miss Dorothy Cunningham and Howard Shoul.

Coraopolis Book Club to Start 11th Year

Mrs. Earl K. Buzza will accept the gavel from Mrs. Roy W. Helm on September 19 when the Coraopolis Book Club meets to open its eleventh year.

Not only will the program as sketched in the new year books afford profit and entertainment, but roll call, too, will add its measure of enjoyment. For in answering it at the various meetings the members will make suggestions for next year, will describe places of interest they saw during the summer, quote a few lines from their favorite poems, give their personal opinions on disarmament, quote their favorite proverbs, relate a Christmas deed, tell what country they would like to visit, give current events, tell whether they think there is need for a great statesman in America, and whether they approve of spanking children.

All this in addition to the programs which include book reviews, highlights of the Century of Progress, an address by Jessamine DeHaven Lewis, a Christmas meeting, music, a play, a musicale and a spelling bee. A number of special events will add variation to the season.

Bellevue 'Y' Auxiliary Luncheon Next Week

After luncheon in the Bellevue Y. M. C. A. next Wednesday the Ladies' Auxiliary to the association will have a short business meeting and a program which will include a review of the Y's summer activities given by W. J. Montgomery and John L. Hunt. Mary Martin Lea will sing.

Globe-Trotting

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

Have you a spare-time hobby or have you just spare time? Withers Ponton, on his off days and Sundays, experimented with his ideas to make something and turned out from spare pieces of wood around the house two beautiful instruments, a banjo and a violin.

According to his niece, Mae Ponton, both instruments are possessed of a marvelous tone. They say Stradivarius, unable to purchase a violin, made one for himself and then gained fame as a maker of fine fiddles and not as a player.

* * *

Arthur Kuhn, Hays street, Homestead, has a similar hobby. His is directed along aviation lines, the making of replicas of famous airplanes. Right now he is working on Balbo's fleet. For his information—the ships were all painted silvery white. Each squadron commander had his initials painted on the fuselage, one in red, one in white and one in green. The general's initials, BAL were painted in black.

* * *

Arthur Brisbane mentioned William M. Packer in his column several days ago. His sister, Mrs. William F. Wettenegell, New Brighton, informs that he is a native Pittsburgher, born on Negley avenue. Mr. Packer is one of the better known California automotive executives.

* * *

Marie Pasquarelli came to the rescue of Mrs. Marts, of Export, with the words to that "Midnight On the Ocean" poem. So did Van H. Eshelman, the Pittsburgh poet, who frequently contributes to Walter Winchell. Van's new version ended with:

"And so I wouldn't leave her
'Till I kissed her tears away.
But she suffered from hay fever,
And I simply couldn't stay."

Exhibit Deferred Because of NRA

The management of the Inventions and Progress Exposition, originally scheduled the week of September 9, announced today it has been indefinitely postponed. The postponement, it was said, is due to the readjustments in business conditions which manufacturers have faced in conforming to the National Recovery Act.

Four Face Dog Law Violation Charges

Four alleged violators of the state dog laws were arrested yesterday in Plum Township by V. D. Johnson, of the County Dog Law Office. Two were charged with not having licenses for their animals and the others were named as aliens not permitted to own dogs.

Playground Fall Injures Boy, 10

Suffering lacerations of the face, and brain concussion when he fell from the roof of a shed on the Washington Playground last night, Joseph DePofi, 10, of 3 Gilmore way, was in Mercy Hospital today. He was taken to the hospital by a playground attendant.

'Babies' Steal Show From Air Giants

By AIRCASTER

Rambling 'round radio row—

It's curious how the news shifts . . . For months and months the radio paragraphs concentrate on the big networks, detailing even the mustache-growing of insignicant crooners . . . And meanwhile, it is as if the smaller stations, the independent ones, didn't exist . . . And then of a sudden, the little stations bob up and figure in developments well calculated to cause many transformations in the general scene.

* * *

WINS 'Steps Out'

There's WINS, among the first units to step out and suddenly take hold of a system of intelligent program handling, and also to set an exemplary style in the use of ultra-modern equipment.

Then comes WCDA and kindred units, which link up for the proposed but very dilatory ABS.

Hardly have the wheels started rolling before the Blue Book and Wall street and Al Smith leaps into the headlines with the metamorphosis of WMCA into the major league.

What next?. . .That's easy!. . . The Blow agency and the watch manufacturer who sponsors time announcements, have united to establish a local chain with WODA in a new spot in the Jersey meadows, and WAAM and probably additional outlets, grouped for almost a full day, and ready to take away a number of important advertisers from the big stations hereabouts.

Baron Returning

Jack Pearl's cigaret sponsors, formerly the largest individual users of radio time, have reduced their original schedule of three hours a week to a single 30-minute spot. . . The new shows will begin on the NBC waves October 7 at 9 o'clock, with Pearl again in the role of Baron Munchausen.

Among the little ironies of radio is the case of Conrad Thibault, the baritone . . . He has four commercial programs, and three other sponsors are insisting on auditioning him all this week, when the best that can happen is the worst, because he can't handle more work . . . And there are something like 300 artists only too willing to work for coffee and cakes.

The Funnyboners up and predict that since Al Smith has joined up with WMCA the complaint department should be called "The Sidesquawks of New York."

Seals Go Fishing On Air Tonight

This is a night for fishermen on the weekly radio program of the Trained Seals of the Sports Department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, at 7 o'clock.

Speaking about fresh and salt water fishing in Canada, Florida and the streams of Pennsylvania will be Dr. John O. Fitch, of Brookline, who admits that the biggest one he has caught was bigger than the biggest one that got away.

Dr. Fitch is no stranger in sports. He was a running mate at halfback with Harry Wilson, later Penn State and Army luminary, at Sharon High School, and also played basketball at Allegheny College and as a freshman at Pitt. Now—well, he finds fishin' a quite satisfactory sport.

Harry Keck, sports editor, and Announcer Leland Becraft will appear with Dr. Fitch.

Gangster's Love In Air Drama

Machine guns fight it out with Cupid's arrows in a thrilling drama of gangland, heard over WFBG, Altoona, tomorrow afternoon at 3.

Adapted from a real-life story in next Sunday's American Weekly, big feature magazine distributed with the Sunday Sun-Telegraph, "A Kiss in the Moonlight" is an absorbing drama of a racketeer's romance. He falls in love, quits racketeering for marriage, but the inevitable gangster's fate pursues him.

By ELSIE ROBINSON

Engaged People Should Not Be Like Prisoners

Why did the big boy slip out on Bee, go to a party, and dance with another gal?

And does his doing so prove that he doesn't love her any more, and is "falling for" the gal he danced with?

Bee is "just worried sick" thinking about it all—for never since they've been engaged has either of them ever stepped out separately—or taken so much as a whirl across the floor with another girl or boy.

And so—

Dear Elsie:

Maybe you can help me, and tell me what to do. I surely need it. I am simply worried sick over the way things are going.

For the past seven years I have been going steady with a boy. We were to have been married last year, but he lost his job, and hasn't worked steady since, so we're still just engaged.

I have stood by him all the time, and have waited for him to get work again. He is a fine fellow. Everybody who knows him says so. I know he will make a good husband.

I have been true and fair with him. I have never gone dancing since I became engaged to him two years ago, and I love dancing. I don't think he has ever taken any other girl out, but lately, I heard that he went to a dance and party one night, after he left me, and it was a terrible shock. It hurt. It is very hard to hear a thing like that from some one else.

I know he loves me. He says he doesn't believe in going out with other girls. And he has never stood me up to go out with other fellows either. When I asked him about this party, he said that he only danced with one girl, and didn't stay long.

ACCUSED HIM

Since then, I can't help it, I've picked on him and accused him of being in love with her. He told me that he isn't, but even then I couldn't stop. Sometimes I think that if he didn't love me he wouldn't stand for the way I act. This girl is married and has a baby. He has never bothered with her while I was at the party with him, and he never danced with anyone but me.

I still tell him that he loves her, and is staying by me because he can't have her. He gets very mad and says if he didn't love me he wouldn't put his own life in misery, as well as mine.

Please help me. I know I have expected him to be too good. I have my faults, too. But I love him so much. I know it is the real thing, and not a child's love, as I could not give him up. Please advise me what to do. What is wrong? Why did he go out like that?

BEE—.

LIKE PRISONERS

So you couldn't give him up, huh?

Well, if you "couldn't" you'd better change your technique, sister, because if you don't he'll very likely give you up, regardless of your plans. And if he does, it'll be your own fault.

Have you expected him to be "too good?" N-no—not exactly. But you have expected him to stay locked up like a prisoner. And you've locked yourself up. No love—no marriage—can stay healthy turned in on itself. Both men and women, no matter how deeply and truly they love, need to see and associate with other men and women. The reason that he went to the party—danced—was that you've shut out other folks, and shut yourselves in on yourselves until you're beginning to go stale. And if you keep on doing that you'll go still more and more stale, until you won't be able to stand the sight of each other—especially if you're going to keep on being disagreeable, as you admit you are now.

So cut out nagging. Cut out thinking it's disloyal for either of you to dance with someone else. Put on your best bib 'n' tucker, Bee, and step out. Loosen up. Get human. Dance with other folks. Laugh with other folks. If your love is real, it'll grow bigger and finer and happier when you do.

By FAY KING

Believe me the home life of the butterfly is an open book to me. It's my own biography—unless maybe I'm just a moth.

For I have just emerged from the cocoon of my accumulations. I'm the most accumulating creature you will ever meet, only my accumulated "treasures" are what everybody else I know calls "trash."

For sometime now I have been completely submerged in the mightiest mound of old newspapers, magazines, pretty empty boxes, bright pieces of wrapping paper and strong string that you can possibly imagine.

It was like blasting barnacles off a ship for me to shed h[is] of these. But at last I am free and foot-loose, and I hav[e] solved—"NEVER AGAIN!"—shall I accumulate anything un[til] I can buy a warehouse cheap.

A Sequel to Heart Of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Feels Vague Uneasiness in Presence of Lee Chow

It was not until Mrs. Ticer and I were both seated in the big living room of The Larches, and my neighbor, a bit awed by the Chinese servants hovering near, was proffering her request for a telephone, that the explanation of Hugh's not carrying me across the threshold of the front door came to me. When it dawned upon me, I felt my cheeks suddenly burning and hoped frantically that Hugh would not see and interpret that vivid flush.

He had remembered what I had not—the old custom of a man carrying his bride across the lintel of their first home; and, although I knew from his muttered "Why not?" that all his impulses moved him to keep me in his arms, in a pretense that he was doing that very thing, yet his innate sense of decorum would not permit him the gesture. I thanked him in my heart for the restraint, as I had had occasion to be grateful for many similar acts of renunciation.

"Tell me," Hugh said hoarsely, as soon as we were alone—he had given some low-toned direction to the Chinese servants that had sent them also out of the room—"tell me that you are all right. I have been suffering everything, wondering if you were not overdoing with this wedding—I know your indomitable spirit—and not daring to ask; not seeing you when I did call—"

ASKS ABOUT INJURY

"Unfortunately, I was lying down when you called," I explained hurriedly, "and they thought I was asleep."

"I would have massacred the whole family if anyone had wakened you," he said, and smiled in answer to the light, apparently careless, laugh with which I greeted his extravagant whimsy.

"Poor family!" I said.

"Poor me!" he retorted. "But you haven't told me yet how the ankle is progressing. You are looking—wonderful—as you always do;; but are you sure you're not overdoing with that twisted foot? You know you may do yourself a lasting injury by using it too soon, and I know how energetic you are, especially in an occasion like this."

"I am afraid my family would tell you that my energy this time is mostly expended in bossing other people around," I told him, smiling.

"That is as it should be, if true, but I cannot believe it," he rejoined. "And I see I must press my cross-examination. What does your physician say about your foot?"

A SHARP CONTRAST

"That it is getting along splendidly," I told him, "and that if I am careful I shall never have any trouble with it."

"Ah!" He drew a sibilant breath. "If you are careful That is just what I am contending. I am so sure you are not being careful."

There was that in his kind eyes which touched me strangely. His tender solicitude was in such sharp contrast to the perfunctory interest, almost approaching indifference, with which Dicky had regarded my injury, ever since I was able to leave my couch and walk with the aid of only a stick. I knew, of course, that the reason for Dicky's attitude was not wholly due to indifference, for usually he is royally tender in his solicitude for me, but that his resentment because of my gibing, in telling him of the message from "Floss," had strangely persisted and colored his attitude toward me.

Edith Fairfax's hints came back to me—the hints that in my pride I had forbidden her to explain to me. Was an explanation being forced upon me by Dicky's behavior? Unconsciously, without any volition of mine, I sent a glance of appeal to Hugh. I only became conscious of it when he sprang up and bent over me, whispering huskily:

"What is it? Please let me help you!"

-:- How to Keep Well -:-

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Protection of Health Today

Sometimes we complain about our generation, saying things now are not as they used to be. We look to the past for goodness, perfect conduct, and worthwhileness.

Dr. Copeland

When we read reports about crimes of violence and moral turpitude, it is natural to wonder if the world were not better in olden days. We sigh over the times.

But there are so many bright spots in the picture that we may well believe society is really progressing. Perhaps the better care of those who work with their hands is sufficient proof that the world is moving forward and upward.

A few weeks ago I visited a great factory in New England. Going to a city up there to attend a wedding, we found ourselves the guests of a charming family. Our host asked me to visit his factory where sixteen hundred men and women are employed.

It is always interesting to me to study the physical and moral conditions under which human beings work. This establishment I found to be a model in its attention to sanitation and physical surroundings.

What I particularly have in mind to tell you about is a sign board displayed in a prominent place, making daily announcement of the accident record in that organization. On the occasion of my visit it read as follows:

"This factory was operated 1,658 days without lost time due to accident."

That statement gives evidence of the remarkable care afforded the workmen. Every possible device is used to protect against injury and disease. Prizes are offered the foreman who reports the highest record of freedom from accident.

The large, airy, sunshiny rooms contribute to the health of the employes. Mechanical ventilation carries away the fumes of chemicals and the vitiated air. First-aid facilities and constant medical supervision give further guarantee of physical well-being.

Were such precautions taken in olden days? They were not. Disabling and even fatal accidents were of almost daily occurrence in every shop and factory.

The modern organization of employes and the willingness of the owners to confer with them, has been another factor of progress. Really, the world is progressing. My host at the wedding convinces me of that truth.

Fashion Flashes

By ALICE ALDEN

If you want to wear suede gloves on summer evenings then consider the claims of a new model. It is a long glove in creamy beige suede and is covered entirely by a design in perforations, with rows of stitching between. Cool and attractive.

Dull weather in the summer demands clothes of a special type. Good for general town wear as well as for smart events is a jacket suit in over-all tucked black chiffon. The coat has epaulette shoulders with rounded edges, the dress has a white mousseline neckline and floppy bow.

Contract Bridge -:-

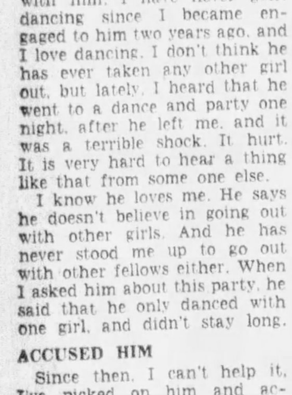
HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Strong Defense

Naturally a national championship team-of-four tournament brings forth many well played hands. The hand below, which was played in a semi-final match, resulted in a three notrump game, bid and made, against very good defense.

South, Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.



The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	1 ◇	Pass
2 ♣	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
2 N T	Pass	3 ♡ (1)	Pass
3 N T	Pass	Pass	Pass

1—Although the heart suit is not biddable, North wants to paint a perfect picture of his distribution to his partner. He is not particularly anxious for a notrump contract with the void of his partner's suit unless South can find no other course.

West chose as his Opening lead his fourth-best diamond; Declarer quite naturally ducked in Dummy, and East's singleton King made. East was up against it for a return and chose his lowest spade. West played the Ten-spot and Dummy won the trick with the Queen.

Declarer still had no inkling of opponents' distribution and only a hazy idea of the location of their high cards. For want of something better to do at this point, and chiefly to throw the opponents in and make them do the leading, he led the diamond seven from Dummy, discarding a club from his own hand. West won this trick with the nine-spot. East showing out and discarding a club. Naturally this gave South considerable information as to the distribution. West now laid down the spade King, which was won with the Ace in Dummy. Another spade was immediately led back. East winning with the Knave.

East was again up against it for a lead, as he knew that Declarer must have the heart Ace. After due deliberation, he chose a low club with the hope that his partner would have the Knave or that Declarer, with Ace-King-Knave, would not finesse. South however, played the Knave on this low club lead, and of course it held the trick. Then he immediately laid down the club Ace. Now South had an accurate count on the East-West hands and he had two lines of play left open to him. If he played West for the King of hearts, all he had to do was to cash the Ace of clubs and then play the Ace and a small heart, and West would then have to put him in Dummy to win the last three tricks with the good diamond, the good spade and the good heart.

After due thought, nowever, South quite correctly reasoned that East, and not West, held the heart King. This decision was reached because West had continually failed to lead the suit. Therefore the end-play was chosen in preference to the simple lead up to the heart Queen. South laid down his King of clubs and then played a low club. East was forced to win with the Queen and then lead away from his heart King. Naturally the trick was allowed to run up to Dummy, where it was won with the Queen. The thirteenth spade, the diamond Ace and the heart Ace took the last three tricks.

Although it might be possible to work out a Double Dummy defense to defeat the hand, the defense actually put up by East and West made Declarer's play most difficult, and South had good reason to be proud of the result on the board.

TODAY'S QUESTION

If Dummy should leave the table, can Declarer be penalized for a revoke, if, before leaving, Dummy has said, "Do not let my partner revoke" or "I ask for the courtesy of the table?"

Answer: If a player leaves the table and requests the courtesies, his opponents are compelled to prevent Declarer from revoking by asking him if he lacks any suit whenever he shows out. If they fail to do this Declarer is not penalized for the revoke.

Correct Manners

'Thank-You' Note

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you kindly suggest a form of "thank you" note to be written to persons who were present at a shower for a bride-to-be? H.

First, there's the kind thought to be thanked for, and then there's the gift itself to be chatted about and appreciated. Rather like this:

Dear Jane:

Weren't you the kind and thoughtful friend to think of making me so happy by your goodness and generosity to me! Thank you, with all my heart, for your dear friendliness, that is always so characteristic of you.

How many kinds of arrangements of flowers and fruits I can think of to put into that beautiful centerpiece that you gave me yesterday at the shower! In my mind's eye I can see you and me, in my new home, having luncheon together at the table graced by that lovely silver centerpiece. Let's make it come true very soon after "the" day, and I'll promise to have your favorite yellow roses in your handsome dish.

Dearest love to you, and the hope to see you very soon.

Affectionately.

A Matter of Money

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My young man friend and I are planning to be married. He is not making much money at present and therefore he is having quite a time trying to get enough for our home. Of course, after we are married we will be able to get along very nicely on his salary, but during these times, it is quite a problem to get started.

My parents, who are wealthy, give me quite a handsome allowance each week . . . In fact, more than I really need, and as I have all the linens that I shall need for our home, I wonder if it would be correct for me to help him save?

My parents say that it is not my place to do this, so please won't you help me? F.

Since the money that you receive is money that is given you by your parents, you should, I think, be guided by their judgment in this matter. There are probably many points of view about this that only they and you understand, perhaps that only they understand. After you are married, if they wish to continue this allowance, the point of view naturally would be different, for then they would expect you to use it "in the mutual welfare." But until you are married, and since you are dependent on their generosity, I think that this deserves your respect for their wishes. Don't you, really?

Democrats to Brand Interlopers

By MARK SHIELDS

John J. Murray, chairman of the Democratic City Committee, and David L. Lawrence, chairman of the County Committee, have written all candidates in their party primary asking if they are enrolled as Democrats, or intend to support Democratic nominees in November.

Mr. Shields.

The purpose of these questions is plain. The Democrats have tried to protect their primary. They did so in a bill in Harrisburg last winter which was passed by the Legislature and vetoed by Gov. Pinchot. It decreed that candidates, except for the judiciary, could run in only one primary.

And the candidates running in the Democratic primary who do not give answers satisfactory to Mr. Murray and Mr. Lawrence will be branded as interlopers deserving of no consideration from registered Democrats. By the same token, if the party had to depend on registered Democrats for success it wouldn't get to first base.

* * *

Another Example Of Confusion Cited

As another example of confusion, friends of Councilman Robert Garland, who is supporting Councilman P. J. McArdle for the Republican mayoralty nomination, say that Mr. Garland is for only one councilmanic candidate running on the ticket with Mr. McArdle and that one a candidate who has not announced support for Mr. McArdle.

The Garland ticket for Council is reported to be William A. Magee, James F. Malone, and Councilmen Frank Duggan and George S. Oliver. Mr. Magee is the one on the McArdle ticket.

That means that Mr. Garland is supporting a councilmanic candidate from all three Republican mayoralty slates. Only he knows where his fifth man is coming from, but this campaign is so kaleidoscopic that if the law permitted one might believe that even Mr. Garland might pick his man from the Communist party.

Garland for Oliver, Who Boosts Coyne

And, tearing the hide off Senator James J. Coyne, Mr. Garland indorses Mr. Oliver, who turned his political organization over to Senator Coyne, and overlooks no opportunity to speak in terms of appreciation of the Senator.

Sam Reno, Republican ward chairman in the Nineteenth, should be signed up by John W. Lawrence, who is to manage this year's Welfare Fund drive. Mr. Reno says his appeal to Nineteenth Ward workers Monday night was something of a welfare proposition, that he wanted them to help the needy sisters and brothers who couldn't afford a tax receipt. That was charity of the highest order, and for the good of the order.

Mr. Reno threatened none with the loss of a job if they did not kick in, he says. Which sounds all right, but payrollers have been accustomed to voice inflections for a long time, and they know when Mr. Reno spoke that they had better help the needy—including Mayor John S. Herron's campaign fund.

Parenthetically, this meeting was held, of all places, in the Civil Service Commission rooms.

* * *

Reno Might Point to Reed in Extenuation

This business of payroll coercion is not new. It is practiced not alone by political organizers. Mr. Reno, in rebuttal or extenuation, might point to the Hoover campaign of last year, when Senator David A. Reed urged a group of Pittsburgh industrialists to "influence" their workers to vote for Mr. Hoover. And the suggestion was received with enthusiasm. Moreover, some of the business men who approved that form of coercion, but condemn Mr. Reno now, are not in this campaign for Mr. Herron, but in the name of good government back one or more of his Republican opponents.

Why don't the candidates talk about such subjects? Why does Mr. Herron, who tries to plant on newspapermen stories about his opponents for which he does not care publicly to stand sponsor, say some of the things he tries to spread by innuendo and anonymity, and not leave them to Mr. Reno for exposition. The things Mr. Reno said about some other politicians Monday night have been common gossip in the Mayor's office for weeks, but the Mayor won't speak out.

* * *

Two Quotes Which May Or May Not Be Apropos

And two instances of judicial or semi-judicial utterances, which may or may not be apropos in a political column.

Mayor Herron Tuesday said the police magistrates were the "personal representatives" of the Mayor, which may be enlightening to citizens who thought the magistrates were impartial judges of their affairs.

And Judge John P. Egan, sitting in the matter of whether the tax board should be compelled by the Republican organization to put on the books approximately 12,000 names before investigation, said:

"I may be prejudiced in this case" and then continued with some questions to show that the tax board must do as asked.

One of the things advanced in behalf of Judge Egan when a candidate was his impartiality as a football referee.

Mariners Learned To Respect Deadly Mines in North Sea

By LIEUT. JIM HAYS
III.

Until the end of the second operation, there was something happening every minute.

The shocks received by these little ships when mines exploded nearby defy description. You'd never believe that any ship could withstand these tremendous and continual concussions without bursting every seam. Yet the little sweepers with birdlike names drove doggedly on day after day, quivering under the frightful shocks, never ceasing their work unless blown completely out of commission.

Mr. Hays

Early in the work official instructions were issued on "how to recover a mine," and for a while there had been some exciting sport in hauling fouled mines on board the sweepers, as souvenirs.

After the first few accidents a profound respect for these harmless-looking black spheres was acquired by all hands. The old axiom, "Familiarity breeds contempt," went into discard. Familiarity with a supersensitive 300-pound sphere of TNT bred RESPECT—the sort of respect that one holds for the undertaker, the epitaph chiseler, and six friends in black with white gloves. Now, we decided unanimously, the best way to recover a mine was to whack off the kite wire with an ax.

Early in the third "excursion" to the mine field the Sanderling and the Heron, dragging their sweep between them, fouled their wire on a snag on the bottom of the North Sea, and came to a stop.

The sweepwire parted under the strain, and a moment later a great volume of oil rose to the surface and spread out in a widening circle. The obstruction turned out to be the UB-127, one of several German submarines destroyed in the mine barrage the year before.

At noon on June 21, we received word that the German fleet that had surrendered in good faith at Scapa Flow was being scuttled by the German crews.

Thinking that our sweepers, with their powerful wrecking pumps might be able to salvage some of the scuttled ships, seven sweepers were dispatched to Scapa Flow, four hours away, arriving only in time to see the last of the German dreadnaughts slowly engulfed.

Barometric Theory

The mine-sweeping fleet remained at sea as long as a month at a time, though for 15

Synopsis

Lieut. Hays describes a tremendous task the Navy tackled during the World War, planting 70,000 mines—300-pound spheres of TNT—across the North Sea to keep the German submarines from coming out. Then, after the Armistice, the Navy was obliged to remove every one of the mines, sweep them away to restore the freedom of the seas. Designed to explode electrically on the slightest contact with metal, the super-sensitive mines could not be approached by steel ships. Wooden vessels, used in sweeping experiments, were virtually destroyed by explosion and storm. A way was found to use steel ships for the sweeping, but as fast as one danger was overcome, the sweepers were confronted with some new and unexpected hazard. Counter mining—one mine exploding several others in rapid succession—wrecked several steel sweepers. Mines became fouled in the ship's sweepwires, exploding close beside the ships as the sweepwire was hauled in.

COUNTY'S EXPO ALL SET FOR TOMORROW

'Millie,' Prized Hog, And Racing Horses Already at Scene

County Fair's Opening Day Program

2:30 P. M.—Exhibition by Allegheny County's new mounted police.
3:30 to 4:30—Gliding exhibition by A. C. Haller and demonstration by army planes.
4:30—Horse polo game.
7:30—Massing of the colors.
8:00—Drum and bugle corps competition.
9:30—Aerial fireworks from plane piloted by Maj. Hal Basley, manager of Municipal Airport.
10:00—Fair closes for the day.

Allegheny County's first fair—free to the people—will open tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. in the South Park fair grounds. On other days the fair will be open from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m.

Patriotic exercises will commence at 7:30 p. m. in the athletic field with a massing of the colors of two score posts of veterans' organizations.

A drum and bugle corps competition with 15 county veterans' organizations taking part will follow. Competitors will assemble at the judges' stand in the oval, half an hour before the event. Col. W. W. Gill heads a committee of judges which will confer awards.

All day today, like the parade that ran into Noah's ark, a procession of animals of all sizes, colors and variety native to the hills and forest and homes and farms of Western Pennsylvania are wending their way to the grounds and buildings.

EXHIBITS MADE READY

The structures, red and white roofs glistening in the sun, and set in a natural amphitheater of green hills, are already housing many of the exhibits.

Fresh flowers and ferns make Main street—the Prado between the two lines of buildings—a gay promenade of over-curious and exhibitors. The little lunch and loafing rooms are becoming centers of cracker-barrel conversations, arguments over whose cattle and horse and poultry, fruit or garden product, or what have you, is best.

For it's the eve of the county's first fair. And it's taking Allegheny County back many years—to the time when it was the sort of a county that had fairs every year.

County Commissioner Charles McGovern, whose idea and pet it is, is 'butting in' here and there to see that things are right by Charlie. Because he's the boss.

SET FOR RACES

Dave McDonald, head of the city's horses, is checking up on the newly built race track.

Already in her pen and attracting considerable attention for her productivity is Millie, a hog from the Jail Annex Farm, up in Blawnox. The city children—and many of them never saw a hog before—are surrounding her pen, because she has seven little suckling pigs getting their lunch as often as possible.

"Tom Mix," the famous jumper who David McDonald says is the finest all-around horse, is attracting others. He is a policeman, this famous jumper that Edgar J. Kaufmann gave to the city as a traffic horse for $1.

He has been on the downtown streets every day for two years, with Patrolman Charles South, and he is guiding traffic. He's been in a few riots.

Now he's back—ready to compete with those "sissies" from Sewickley and Rolling Rock and Fox Chapel stables.

BIG PARADE TOMORROW

But these are only a few of the attractions. Tomorrow all the exhibits will be ready and in tip-top shape for the big opening parade and the successive horse exhibitions, gliding and airplane show by Army and other planes, polo game, drum and bugle corps competition tomorrow night, aerial fireworks—a steady series of events until 10 p. m.

During the succeeding days, and the show will last until Monday night at 10, there will be a succession of events of interest to men, women and children. Polo games, rodeo, sports and bugle corps, horse, poultry and dog shows, including a "mutt" show—and horse racing, the king of all sports.

The grounds can be reached either by the Brownsville road, Route 88, Library road, hourly bus service by the Pittsburgh Motor Coach and the Brentwood coach companies, with 30 cents combined bus and trolley fare. The Pittsburgh company will operate 50 cents round trips from Grant street and Liberty avenue, and 40 cents for children.

OFFICER PUSHED OFF CAR, HURT

Pushed from the running board of an automobile to which he had jumped when an occupant yelled to him "to get out of the way," City Detective Edward Atkinson, 40, of 3948 Mintwood street, was in Mercy Hospital today suffering from injuries to his face and head.

Atkinson said he was crossing Penn avenue at Thirty-sixth street when he clamored to the running board of the machine. A block away, the detective said, he was pushed from thec ar.

Joseph Kasinski, 21, of 3453 Ligonier street, surrendered at the Forty-third police station a short time later and said he was the driver. Police are seeking his companions.

PLUNGES AFTER CUTTING SELF

Henry Rice, 67, rear of 1419 Watson street, who, police reported, leaped from the third floor of his home after slashing his throat with a razor late yesterday, was reported in critical condition in Mercy Hospital today.

Rice, ill for several years, locked the doors of his apartment after ordering George Wagner, 46, a roommate, to leave. A short time later he was found in the back yard, his throat slashed.

Rice plunged from a window against an outside stairway into the brick yard, suffering fractures of the right leg and arm.

WEST END MAN ENDS LIFE

George Koth, 62, of 115 Furley street, West End, shot and killed himself early today in a bedroom of his home, according to a report to the Coroner. He was a barber, working for a number of years in a shop on Steuben street.

His daughter, Helen, heard a shot while preparing breakfast, and found the father with a wound in the head. Dr. H. M. Gangloff was summoned and pronounced him dead. Koth had been in ill health and had business worries, according to the Coroner's office.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Aug. 30. To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

So Germany has barred Schumann-Heink. Say, if my own wife barred Schumann-Heink from anything, I would be with Schumann. A grand, liberal - minded soul.

Will Rogers

Some fellow on Long Island, N. Y., in a dress suit pounced on my old friend Huey Long. Huey didn't recognize him in the disguise. Dress suits are only used in Louisiana to encase dead politicians.

By the way, did anybody ever see a U. S. Senator in his home state, after the night he is elected? I have met 'em all over the world when Congress was not in session, but never saw one at home. They are always making speeches about "my fine people back home." But they never want to go see 'em.

So I hereby start a movement, to create another week. Like Apple week, Prune week, it's "Meet Your Own Senator week," and make him come home, no matter what happens to him.

Yours, WILL.

Eagle for Huey; 3 Men Worked On Him, He Says

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

According to Huey Long's story, we must hand him the Blue Eagle.

Huey says three men went to work on him.

Nobody will talk about the affair. But we understand that the Kingfish went in for some crosswords. First vertical. Then horizontal.

The amazing feature about the Donnybrook fiesta is that Huey won't talk, either. All we know is that Huey took a plate of shark fins from a stout lady. The lady was no Mahatma and wanted her shark fins back.

From then on the air was full of migrating knuckles, incorporated feet and some indoor Balbo launched an escadrille of empty bottles.

There was some gossip of Huey's eyebrow being served up on a knife. That's an insult to the table manners of Long Island.

BARR FOR TIGHT AIRPORT CAFE

The County Commissioners' efforts to furnish a restaurant in the county airport brought laughs at the Commissioners' weekly meeting yesterday.

Commissioner C. M. Barr opposed purchasing anything not fastened securely and not considered a permanent fixture. Commissioner C. C. McGovern favored buying only modern metal furniture.

The three members of the board finally agreed sufficiently to purchase about $4,500 worth of fixtures, but another argument is expected on the subject of from what fund the money is to come.

Some months ago Commissioners Barr and McGovern decided to furnish the restaurant from the 1928 airport bond issue. Commissioner W. D. Mansfield and Assistant Solicitor Mortimer B. Lesher maintained that the bond issue was for purchase and maintenance of an airport, and did not include a restaurant.

The fixtures decided on yesterday did not include refrigeration, which will be discussed later.

JURIST CITES LACK OF POOR BOARD AUDITS

Judge Thomas M. Marshall, who yesterday handed down an opinion surcharging J. Clyde Miller, H. H. Dixon and the executor of the estate of W. L. Henderson $40,831 for mismanagement of the affairs of the Allegheny County Poor Board, averred that a yearly audit should have been made by the Controller. Judge Marshall added:

"It is only fair to the defendants and to the attorney for the Poor Board to state at this time that we believe the failure of the board to have yearly audits was due entirely to the confused state of the law."

ACCOUNTING SOUGHT

The decision was the result of a taxpayer's suit brought by Walter W. Riehl, asking that members of the board as constituted when the suit was filed in 1931 render an accounting. The Allegheny County Home was mismanaged and large sums of public money were expended illegally by the board, the suit charged.

The court reviewed at considerable length the activities of Louis P. Schneider, agent for the board in land purchases, who on February 16, 1924, obtained a 60-day option to purchase a 77-acre farm from the Carnegie Coal Company, adjoining the land of the County Home. The option price was $150 an acre. The board paid $250 an acre for the property which the board considered fair and reasonable by resolution of April 10, 1924.

PRICE NOT STUDIED

Judge Marshall then finds:

"There is no evidence whatsoever that the board made any attempt to investigate the price the owners were asking for their property."

ONLY NEGLIGENCE

Schneider also had paid $175 an acre for the Forsythe and Dorrington heirs' property. On this point the court remarked:

"If Schneider was the owner of these properties or the Poor Board had reasonable ground to believe he was, we do not see how the members of the board could be held guilty of anything except negligence, in the absence of any evidence that the members of the board profited by the transactions."

The court also remarked there was no direct evidence that the defendants had profited personally by these transactions, but remarked:

"We have come to the conclusion that the defendants should be surcharged with $40,831."

PROFIT ALLOWED

The court held that Schneider as the agent of the board making the purchases, was allowed by the board to make a profit of $11,550 on the $19,250 purchase of the plot from the Carnegie Coal Company.

Judge Marshall said that in his decision he had given serious consideration to the fact that the defendants had delivered to Schneider a check for $15,000 against the Carnegie land purchase, when Schneider had nothing but an option on the property. The court then figured that profits on the other deals influenced him to surcharge the board with $40,831.

BEER PIONEER HERE DIES

John Henry Nusser, famous years ago as the brewer of "Nusser's Lager Beer," was dead today in his home at 122 Boulevard, Carrick. One of the city's earliest brewmasters, he inherited the Nusser brewery in South Twelfty street from his father in the 1880's.

Mr. Nusser, 80, had been ill for a year. When he retired from business nine years ago he was the head of a North Side foundry.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Nusser, and two daughters, Mrs. H. D. Stahl and Mrs. A. M. Harper.

Priscilla Has Long Airing As New Maid Is Lost

Little Priscilla Barron, 21-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Barron, of 5437 Bartlett street, and the new family maid went out late yesterday in search of a bit of fresh air.

Shortly after the Barron family and police went out after the maid and Priscilla.

Four and one-half hours later the maid and baby returned. The maid explained:

"We got lost."

The girl, Mary Dithridge, of Nineteenth street, South Side, had been hired by the Barrons the day before.

HOOVER FISHING HOOKS HUNGER

AVALON, CATALINA ISLAND, Cal., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—The only thing Herbert Hoover, fisherman, caught yesterday was a whale of an appetite.

He appeased that at a Spanish fiesta on the new Paseo del Encanto, where the former President partook of Spanish type food.

Ending his first day of sword fishing as the guest of Lee Phillips, financier, Mr. Hoover participated in the fiesta commemorating the opening of the new Spanish Square at Avalon. Phillips said:

"We didn't even get a strike."

FATHER AIDING GIRL DROWNS

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Going to the aid of his daughter, Dora, who was tiring while swimming, William E. Gifford, 55, farmer, was caught in the swift current of Cheat River, near Rowlesburg, late yesterday and drowned.

Unable to swim, he waded into water over his head and was supported for a time by his daughter until he released his hold on her. His body was recovered 25 minutes later. His dog swam into the river over the spot where the body lodged.

Persons in a boat brought the daughter, a school teacher, to shore, and aided in recovering the body.

Disabled Yacht Rescued in Lake

ERIE, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Stalled by engine trouble in the midst of a heavy swell in Lake Erie, a yacht owned by A. J. McGrew, of Franklin, carrying several passengers, was towed to port here by Coast Guards, early today. Distress flares attracted guardsmen.

CUBAN JURISTS QUIT BENCH

HAVANA, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—After two weeks of attacks by revolutionary groups because of their failure to declare decisively that former President Machado's government was unconstitutional, all members of the Cuban Supreme Court except Chief Justice Juan F. Edelman have resigned.

Edelman was appointed by Provisional President De Cespedes last week. Ten justices quit, in the face of a threatened cabinet crisis which apparently did not worry De Cespedes.

The resignations of the secretaries of the Public Works, Treasury and Justice departments were expected, but the President maintained he would "proceed as the people desire," although revolutionary societies and the professors' organization were insistent on the reforms.

Martial law decreed by Machado will be raised early in September, he added.

Farm Tenants Make Plea for Landlords

ALLERTON, Ill., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—A bit of reciprocity between landlord and tenant was displayed here yesterday.

A long line of tenant farmers paraded to the County Courthouse and asked that taxing bodies be lenient with land owners.

"They can't pay their taxes bcause they've been lenient with us," said a spokesman.

Mayor C. P. Madden, of Danville, told them their wishes would be respected.

Cycle Marathon 'Just for Fun' In Third Month

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Five youths, the oldest 17, have been riding a bicycle for 1,506 hours, but haven't gone "any place."

"Just for fun," they started a bicycle marathon around the block on June 27, and still are going strong.

The boys are Leroy Knapp, George Schafer, Carl Weigel, William Bernstein and Otis Allen.

SOLDIER FREED IN HOLDUP

Arrested as a suspect in a $5,000 brewery payroll holdup in Baltimore last Tuesday, Charles Zinkowski, 20, of Wilkes-Barre, today was exonnerated by Baltimore police, who told County Detective Chief George W. Murren they could not substantiate the charge.

Zinkowski will be returned to Camp Meade, Md., tomorrow to face a charge of deserting the army a week ago, Murren said. Zinkowski was arrested Saturday in a West Deed Township farmhouse at the request of Baltimore police, who suspected him and three other alleged deserters of the stickup. Brewery officials failed to identify them.

Two of the four, captured in Baltimore, have been returned to the camp.

POSTAL SALARY CUTS DECRIED

Asserting that substitute postal workers are in most cases receiving only starvation pay, the Pittsburgh Central Labor Council today issued a protest against a further reduction in working time for substitutes in the Pittsburgh office.

In a statement, P. J. McGrath, secretary of the council, said:

"There are over 25,000 substitute postoffice employes in the United States. In Pittsburgh there are about 180.

"In normal times a sub could average 40 to 50 hours a week, but in the last two years, due to the incessant cry for government economy, their earnings have been reduced to an average of $350 a year.

"Many of them are married and have children to support. An order just issued at the local postoffice forced these men onto a schedule of three groups working one week out of three. It is probable that the earnings for a three-week period per sub will be about 43 cents a day."

FLOOD CONTROL ENLISTS MORE SUPPORT

Plans to invite heads of municipalities in the region within the scope of the proposed project for a system of flood control reservoirs to form local committees to join the Tri-State Authority were made at a meeting of the executive board of the authority in the Pittsburgh Athletic Association late yesterday.

By affiliating with the authority these communities would form a united effort to induce the Public Works Administration in Washington to adopt plans originating with the Flood Commission of Pittsburgh as a national emergency measure.

The decision was in the form of a resolution adopted unanimously by the board, of which George S. Davison, president of the Flood Commission of Pittsburgh, is chairman. Mayor John S. Herron is president of the authority, recently created to work for the flood project.

PLANS FORWARDED

The resolution followed announcement by Maj. W. D. Styer, U. S. district engineer, that final plans for a system of reservoirs to control floods and benefit navigation and water supplies in the Upper Ohio, Monongahela and Allegheny Valleys had been forwarded by him to Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown, chief of engineers, in Washington, and would doubtless soon be placed before Secretary Harold L. Ickes, Public Works Administrator, for consideration.

Application for adoption of the project as a national installation has already been filed with Secretary Ickes by the Flood Commission.

Mayor Herron said:

"We are inviting the mayors and burgesses of all cities and boroughs in the tri-state district to form local committees in their respective communities, with themselves as chairmen, to work under the authority. We will suggest that these committees enlist the support of civic bodies, industries, large property owners, Congressmen, Senators and other public officials. As a result of this great, united effort we hope to be able to impress upon the National Public Works administration the fact that the flood control project is one of great importance to a large and populous industrial and commercial region, entitled to much consideration as it contributes a large share of the federal taxes and represents the very center of the industrial life of America."

MANY AT MEETING

Mayor-Manager Gordon P. Fought, of Wheeling, a member of the board, presented a copy of a resolution recently adopted by the City Council of Wheeling thanking Mayor Herron and Mr. Davison for initiating the effort, indorsing the plans and pledging the city of Wheeling to work for their adoption as a national project.

Members of the board attending the meeting were Mr. Davison, chairman; Mayor Herron, Mayor Fought, Mayor J. G. Payne, of Oil City; Mayor George H. Lysle, of McKeesport; Mayor J. Fred Thomas, of Sharon; Mayor J. C. McMaster, of Steubenville, and Director of Public Works Edward G. Lang, of Pittsburgh.

Eugene L. Connelly acted as secretary. Mayor A. G. Martin, of Fairmont, W. Va., and County Commissioner C. C. McGovern were unable to be present.

British Railroads To Quit Wage Board

LONDON, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—British railway companies have given notice that they will withdraw next March from the National Wages Board, established in 1921 to adjudicate labor conditions.

Meanwhile the companies are inviting union heads to a conference in regard to amending the present conciliation machinery. Both sides express anxiety to avoid disputes and have agreed the present machinery is inadequate in certain directions.

Woman Denies Guilt In Deaths of Three

GREENSBURG, Aug. 30.—(INS.)—On trial for the murder of three men, Margaret Peters, of West Newton, today pleaded not guilty when arraigned here.

The three victims, burned to death when an oil lamp upset during an argument, were Byron Austin, Harry Nichols and Harry Cramer.

Trial on Austin's death will be heard first.

Boys Under Bond For Passing Bad Bills

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Aug. 30—(AP.)—Accused of passing counterfeit $10 bills, Albert Taddeo and Elmer Miele, Williamsport youths, are in jail in default of $50,000 bail each.

Bond was fixed yesterday by United States Commissioner Charles Williams, after investigators said they were working on clues which may lead to the arrest of the maker of the asserted bogus bills.

HERRON STAND ON PROBE HIT

Criticism of Mayor Herron for opposing a "real investigation" of the Department of Supplies while president of Council was voiced today by Joseph Dilworth in a noon speech at headquarters of the McArdle campaign, William Penn Hotel. He said:

"The Councilmanic majority knew far better than any of us just how rotten and corrupt conditions were in the administration, yet they not only did nothing to correct them, but did everything possible to prevent the real facts from being disclosed. It is this type of Councilman to whom we are opposed."

Howard B. McNutt, Independent Republican candidate for Council on the McArdle slate, also spoke. He said:

"Economy is what our people are asking. Honest elections are what you are demanding. If elected I will fight for the interests of the people."

Alpern to Speak In West Homestead

Louis Alpern, candidate for Republican nomination for Jury Commissioner, spoke last night at the Jewish Bread-for-the-Poor Organization, Townsend and Epiphany streets, and also before the First Ward regular Republican organization meeting at Forbes Street School.

Tonight he will speak at a meeting of the Independent Voters League, Roumanian Hall, West Homestead.

Lester Jacobson, Republican mayoralty candidate, has opened headquarters at 1018 Fifth avenue. Jacobson is affiliated with no faction, he says, and would reduce taxes and street car fares, bring back mills which have left the city and clean up the slums.

GEN. JOHNSON IN BOSTON

International News Service.

BOSTON, Aug. 30.—(INS.)—Escorted by three formations of military airplanes, Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, commanding officer in the battle against depression and unemployment, came to New England this afternoon to give added inspiration to the NRA flight of the Blue Eagle.

Gen. Johnson landed at East Boston airport from Washington, was greeted hurriedly by a reception committee and then was whisked to a downtown hotel by a special escort of 19 state and local motorcycle police.

There a luncheon was in progress, a nation-wide radio hook-up was arranged, and countless groups of NRA workers and district committees sat at radio sets in the six New England states to hear what the National Recovery Administrator had to say about the drive to bring the employers and consumers of the nation under the wings of the Blue Eagle.

Western Pacific To Meet Interest

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—(INS.)—Western Pacific Railroad Corporation today announced success of its effort to secure funds, amounting to more than $1,200,000, for its bond interest payments Friday.

This averts the threatened bankruptcy and reorganization which loomed last week when the Interstate Commerce Commission rejected the road's plea for a million dollar loan from the Reconstruction Corporation.

Madman Menacing Child Slain in Flat

CHICAGO, Aug. 30—(AP.)—Joseph Stassi was shot to death today as he menaced a four-year-old girl with a rifle after running amuck in his apartment building.

The arrival of officers ended an hour of terror, his wife said her husband frequently was afflicted with illusions.

Town of Lincoln, Christened by Him, Now 80

LINCOLN, Ill., Aug. 30.—(INS.)—This city, christened by Abraham Lincoln when a young man, is just 80 years old today.

Back in 1853, Lincoln, with several companions sat eating two watermelons. A few sprawling shacks were all of which the city could boast. One of the men asked idly:

'What's a good name for this town?"

Lincoln, spitting out a shower of watermelon seeds, said:

"I christen thee Lincoln. Anything named Lincoln can never amount to much."

TRAPPED DEER SPURNS SPAN

WATKINS GLEN, N. Y., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Thwarted in efforts to entice it across a hastily-constructed bridge, Watkins Glen state park authorities and game Protector William Buck today turned to consideration of other plans for rescuing the seven-point buck deer in the fifth day of its imprisonment on a narrow ledge on the precipitous walls of the Glen gorge.

Buck conferred today with Dr. F. D. Fordham, Watkins Glen veterinary, on the advisability of mixing an opiate with salt in the hope the deer could be administered a quantity sufficient to put it to sleep and permit workmen to cross the bridge and remove it to safety.

The buck appeared rested today and continued to watch the crowds that gathered early. It spent the night lying down on hay which was lowered from the top of the cliff. For the first time it ate a little of the sweet corn sent down to it.

Other plans under consideration today included construction of a corral with a narrow opening at one end of the ledge, into which the deer might be driven. Park officials were reluctant to try this for fear of alarming the animal into jumping to death in the torrent below.

CLUB PUBLISHES VOTING GUIDE

Seven thousand voters' bulletins, compiled by the Civic Club of Allegheny County, are being issued today according to H. Marie Dermitt, secretary of the club.

The bulletins give both voting information and a short history of the candidates for office. It is a non-partisan list of candidates published for the offices of Mayor, Council, Sheriff, Coroner, Jury Commissioner, Poor Director, County Surveyor and Common Pleas, Orphans, County and Juvenile courts.

The bulletins will be given free to the Civic Club members and will be sold at a small rate to clubs and persons desiring them.

Law Bans Stickers Of Candidates On Windshields

Political stickers placed on the windshields of automobiles constitutes a direct violation of the State Vehicle Code, Section 816, it was announced today by George E. Clarkson, chairman of the accident prevention department of the Better Traffic Committee.

Owners of cars with stickers, other than the official inspection certificate on the windshield, he said, will be liable to a $5 fine or three days' imprisonment.

CHARGE PHILA. VOTE THUGGERY

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—While official results of the first day's registration of voters are lacking, claims of large Democratic increases are vieing for recognition with threats of state police supervision of the remaining two days' registration.

Members of the registration committee threatened last night they would appeal to Gov. Pinchot to send the state police into the city on the next registration days, September 5 and 9, to prevent occurrence of what they termed thuggery and intimidation employed in a number of districts.

Thomas E. McDermott, Democrat and a member of the registration commission, said "Republican henchmen resorted to thuggery and intimidation in hundreds of cases" at yesterday's enrollment.

This was denied by Republican leaders.

Paralysis Fatal To Young Pianist

TITUSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 30.—Infantile paralysis claimed its first victim of the year here when James Jordan Bartholomew, 19, died at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bartholomew. He was well known as an orchestra pianist, and was a graduate of Colestock High School in 1932.

3-Hour Earthquake Recorded in Chile

SANTIAGO, Chile, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—The seismograph at the University of Chile yesterday recorded a heavy earthquake of three hours' duration. The center was estimated approximately 2,800 miles distant, possibly in the far Southern Pacific.

DUDLEY MALONE JOINS MILK WAR

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Entrance of Dudley Field Malone, nationally known New York attorney, into the Philadelphia milk code controversy on the side of the dairymen, lends a new twist to a situation bristling with disputes and threats of region-wide strikes.

Vehemently protesting the one-day limit set for Friday's public hearing on the agreement, farmers' organizations appealed to Malone and Clarence W. Darrow, famous Chicago lawyer, to represent them.

Malone said he would arrive in Philadelphia today to prepare his case and Darrow wired he had taken the request under advisement.

Meanwhile, dairymen who were led to Washington yesterday by Mrs. Gifford Pinchot, wife of Pennsylvania's Governor, were promised they would be represented at today's hearings in New York on a proposed milk-marketing agreement for New York.

MISSING SLOOP HUNT DROPPED

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—The Coast Guard announced today that the search for the sloop Postscript, missing since August 20, had been discontinued.

The 23-foot craft, carrying three sons of New York City neighbors of President Roosevelt, set out from Manasquan, N. J., for Nantucket in the face of one of the worst coastal storms in years.

Since last Sunday when the President learned of the failure of private searchers, more than 20 vessels and planes of the Coast Guard have searched the coast from Portland, Me., to the Delaware Capes. No trace of the sloop was found.

The missing are Pierre P. Irving, son of L. Du Pont Irving, stock broker, and Charles L. and John L. Niles, sons of Dr. Walter L. Niles.

You Young Americans Who Voted for Beer

With many brands of beer to choose from, the chances are you've been doing some sampling. That's as it should be! Sampling built the world's largest brewery and year after year has made Budweiser outsell any other bottled beer on Earth. Budweiser has triumphantly stood the test of sampling by one generation after another since 1876.

The character of Budweiser—the unique tang that particular people look for—is created in the brewing. No other beer has this same CHARACTER and PERSONALITY. The brewery that makes Budweiser has never closed its doors during 81 years of continuous operation, INCLUDING THE LAST 14. The same brewmaster who made Budweiser for your father and your grandfather is brewing it for you today. The name Budweiser on a bottle of beer has greater meaning to beer drinkers than ever before. It means you can TRUST the product to be PURE, FULL LEGAL STRENGTH and FULLY AGED (lagered).

Among all beers—there is only one Budweiser. To offer your guests beer is simple hospitality—to offer them Budweiser is a gracious compliment. It's the King of Bottled Beer—a SMARTER beer to drink and to serve. That's why millions of younger people who voted for beer are now voting for Budweiser. Your dealer can supply you now. Buy it by the case for your home. Serve it cold.

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

Man About Town

The Alfred E. Smith Juniors have reached a serious decision. . . . They are trying to reconcile the long melted Walter (golf) Hagens . . . The Gene Markeys (Joan Bennett) are cradle-shopping . . . Mel Shauer, Paramount executive, and his estranged bride will meet next month and abrogate it, so that he may merge with Rosita Moreno of Spain . . . The reported reconciliation of the Warners and Mr. Zanuck is vigorously shouted down by the latter. . . . Wonder how Gary Cooper got that blue orb? . . . The Henry (scenic designer) Dreyfuss are blessed-eventing . . . Noel Busch and Clare Boothe Brokaw are fighting the humidity together . . . The Rufus LeMaire heir is practically a paragraph away . . . After all those years of being a star, Estelle Taylor now must submit to a screen test for a job at Metro . . . Hollywood is buzzing about an alleged "snatch" of Chaplin for plenty.

The anticipated arrival at the Melvin Douglases (Helen Gahagan) is supposed to have closed a breach . . . Nanette Kutner of the magazines is home after a secret Chicago divorce . . . Janet Gaynor is incog. at a Wisconsin fishing resort—and hasn't been tabbed yet . . . The John Koblers (Adele Palmer) are threeing . . . The only speak in New York owned by a woman is on W. 54th . . . Society's startling manner of exploiting debs, the shams and intrigues, etc., will be exposed in Lasky's next "Coming Out Party" . . . Ring Lardner has had another relapse . . . O. M. Sheridan of London, once Sari Maritza's heart, is now with Fox in H'wood, but in "seclusion" because of her . . . Basil Rathbone will be Katharine Cornell's new lead . . . In Mae West's next, her gag-line will be: "Go 'way—you fac-SIN-ate me!"

They keep saying that the Rex Bell-Clara Bow merger is unsteady, again . . . Warner Baxter's new shack out there cost him a mere 116 Gs . . . N. Y. County hasn't received (and won't either) any patronage, although the city gave Pres. Roosevelt 846,000 ballots (Curry trouble) . . . Margaret Kruis, who was one of Zangara's victims, is in town in distress—after promises from Washington officials, too . . . "Dinner at Eight" (swifter than the play) will omit one line when it plays in Okla.—"He smells of Oklahoma" . . . A renowned orchestra pilot and his bride are struggling to keep it off the front pages.

Doug Fairbanks denies becoming a British subject, yet he has taken up permanent residence in England—leasing a town house for 99 years . . . Further substantiation is that his business manager, Clarence Erickson, leaves Hollywood this week with all his coin . . . Gladys Parker's fashion show at the Barbizon-Plaza will go on as scheduled (31st) although Russell Patterson deserted . . . The lowdown on the Peggy Joyce situation is that it was over a fight with Lowell Sherman.

Zito, the caricaturist, is plotting a book of intimate notes on his renowned subjects. Is that nice? . . . They wanted Whalen to run for the Mayoralty but O'Brien made such a fuss . . . The dissension in the Democratic ranks is Curry's heaviest problem—particularly among the District Leaders, who are fighting each other . . . The James Hall-Helen Vinson romance is having King Vidor trouble . . . Lee Tracy will soon star in the talkie version of George Kelly's "Show-Off," which reminds us that it was in this play that Lee made his stage debut in a minor role . . . Frances Marion will go to China with her ex-groom George Hill, which sounds like a good reason for the Hill split from Lila Lee . . . Churches stopped Mrs. Costello at Roseland, too . . . His B'way intimates call Geo. Raft "Jiggy."

When Verne Porter began divorce action, Mrs. Porter countered by naming Edna May Reed, a showgirl. That's Edna's lovely face in the "Bitter-Sweet" amusement ads . . . The Robert Josephys (Jane Alden) are buying baby shoes . . . Mildred Van Dorn, formerly of "Scandals," is in Reno having it unwound . . . Margaret West, whose pappy owns a ranch near San Antonio, has been cut off because she shelved home for Broadway . . . Fredi Washington, the most attractive of the Harlem belles, was quietly sealed to Lawrence Brown, trombone tooter for Duke Ellington, last wk. . . . Ellery Queen will edit the newest of the mags, Mystery League . . . Robert Treat Paine's daughter Jean and Carl Helm, ex-columnist, were sealed last week—after his quiet melting in the Mexican courts . . . It is practically impossible for a newspaperman to get a job in the NRA press bureau—they give them to ad men.

The Juarez tribe of Mexico is suing Mae West for $250,000 for statements in her new book . . . Leopold Strauss, the veteran, whose plight was aired here last winter, has finally won recognition from the Government—a citation of the Purple Heart, which is something . . . Jim Wheeler, who flies for Texaco (with 5,000 hours to his credit sans an accident), stumbled on a pebble, which is why he's on crutches . . . You're complaining of the heat? M. Hellinger is in a wheel chair—so snap out of it . . . When you have a smash hit you can charge your audiences for programs, which is what "Dinner at 8" does at the Astor . . . Constance Collier takes numerology so seriously that she withdrew from a cab because its license plate wasn't in her "language" . . . Barbara Hutton and her Prince are bored, already.

Lennie Hayton's exploiters got him great space in all the rags by announcing his birthday as being last wk. He was born Feb. 13, 1908 . . . The Village Barn asserts its new host is a nobleman, cousin of King Alfonso . . . Winnie Sheehan instructed that Buddy De Sylva be exploited as Hollywood's top musical impresario, which explains Buddy's feud with Sam Goldwyn . . . Roger Patterson of The Sportsman and his sec'y, Rosemary Weber, were secretly welded on July 2 . . . Charles Carlisle, the CBS tenor, and Glenda Moorehead are plotting a merger . . . Bette Davis refuses to deny or affirm a rift with her new groom . . . Jean Harlow is the despair of a West Coast dice house, winning huge coin nightly . . . Mae Clark is comforting Lenore Ulric's ex, Sidney Blackmer . . . The Harrison Smiths (he's the book publisher) have parted.

Keep Carnera And Baer Apart

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 30.—There'll be no conviviality between Max Baer and the giant Primo Carnera when the two behemoths of boxing gather on the same lot to make a picture. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is fitting up a dressing room for Carnera at the far end of the lot from Baer's. On the set they'll have individual portable dressing rooms. The arrangement suits Baer perfectly. In typically cocky fashion, he says:

"When Carnera gets here he can stay on his side of the lot and I'll stay on mine. It isn't that I have anything against Carnera. I've only seen him once and that was when he fought Sharkey. But some time soon he and I are going to fight it out for the championship and I want to have no prejudice one way or another when we meet in the ring. I don't believe in rival fighters being pals anyway."

And is Hollywood hoping that either Max or Primo will let one fly in their mock battle!

Nancy Carroll told it to me the other night at the Colony Club and I think it's a swell story.

Miss Carroll

About the married man who'd gotten swacko with the boys and was suffer-from a guilty conscience. He walked into his wife's bedroom very dignified and said:

"Honey, I've been out with the gang playing poker. We didn't realize it was so late but we only had a few drinks. It's been a quiet evening."

Came a pause and his wife sweetly replied:

"All right, dear, put down your umbrella and come to bed."

Here's something to reduce swelled heads. Without having a single picture released, Mary Howard (she's Will Rogers' daughter) is getting more fan mail than any other star on the Fox lot.

Hollywood Parade: Mary Pickford's traveling companion, Verna Chalif, has returned to Hollywood without her. Verna and Mrs. Skeets Gallagher are opening a shop. Mrs. Gallagher will have charge of the gowns and Verna of the millinery . . . Mary, latest reports have it, will leave for Hollywood on Thursday . . . Two players on Paramount's sick list are doing nicely. Miriam Hopkins is back at her Brentwood home and Claudette Colbert is making excellent progress after her appendicitis operation. Doctors ask that her friends don't visit her for a week, however. There's a Paramount company waiting for her, and they fear any excitement . . . Jack Oakie's Ma is now movie-struck. She says she wants to make at least one picture a year for the rest of her life. And may it be a long one. Jack's Ma is regular.

Never try to rib Ernst Lubitsch. Ask Jeanette MacDonald. Meeting Ernst after her return from Europe, she began to tell him about her part in "The Cat and the Fiddle." Only, in spirit of fun, she substituted most of the situations from Ernst's current picture, "Design For Living." The rotund director got so excited he almost swallowed his cigar. That night he investigated and discovered the hoax. Then he called up Jeanette, told her the laugh was on him but that he had read the real script of "The Cat and the Fiddle" and for her to refuse to play the part—that it would ruin her. Jeannette then went up in the air. It took plenty of persuasion and explanation before she saw the joke."

Did You Know: That Lillian Harvey, making her stage debut in Vienna, slipped in a dance, fell into the orchestra pit, bounced off a kettle drum into the lap of a front-row spectator who turned out to be Robert Land, a film director? He waited after the show and signed her for a picture.

Claims Sex Films Fading

Stories with nothing more than sex interest have lost their hold on the average American audience, according to James Hagan, New York playwright and author of "One Sunday Afternoon," new Paramount film. He said:

"The sultrier aspects of human behavior have overstayed their welcome on the stage and screen. Sex has been slapped at us and wrapped around our necks, until the public is on the verge of finding out that sex is not all, Dr. Freud to the contrary."

Hagan admits New York audiences will always be sophisticated, but believes that today Broadway's audiences are less representative of America than ever before. He continued:

"What the country needs is a simple theme about 'forgotten' men and women. The human being has been buried under an avalanche of hot stuff. The day is here for plain theatrical fare about John and Jane Doe. We can have pictures without love interest. Let's have something tragic. In real life we aren't clutched 24 hours a day by heart palpitations. Why should we be on the screen?"

Illness Costs Star Screen Role

Claudette Colbert's appendicitis operation has cost her a role in Cecil B. de Mille's production of "Four Frightened People." Miss Colbert, with other principals of the cast was to have sailed a week ago for Hawaii to film major sequences of the picture. Charles Laughton, Mary Boland and William Gargan postponed their sailing, pending an assignment to Miss Colbert's role.

Pickens Sisters Get Roles in Film

The Pickens Sisters, radio stars, have been assigned feature roles in the Paramount musical film, "We're Sitting Pretty." Helen, Jane and Patti will support Jack Haley, Jack Oakie and Sally O'Neill in their screen debut. They are now appearing at the Garden Pier Show Boat in Atlantic City, and will leave for Hollywood early in September.

Strange Vengeance

UNTIL that moment when Tony's hand went instinctively to his silenced revolver, his checkered career had embraced many branches of crime. This was the first time, though, that he had committed murder.

Although he hadn't intended to kill the old guy, he wasted no regret on the lifeless form on the bed. He had come for one purpose, to lift the fat wallet of bills that he found in the man's clothing and which he transferred to his own pocket.

Tony had been trailing his victim for several hours. He had spotted him first at a magazine counter in the railroad station. Or rather, he'd spotted that wallet. Tony had followed along in his wake and registered in the same hotel on the floor below.

At midnight, he had crept upstairs and forced his way into the room. It was tough that the old guy had awakened at exactly the wrong moment. Tough that he'd had to croak him. But Tony was flat broke. He had never needed anything before in his life the way he needed that dough.

Now he slipped the gun back into his pocket along with the wallet and crept back to his own room. He was shivering as he locked the door behind him, but after he'd poured himself a drink and gulped down the contents of the glass, he began to feel better.

This was a matter, he knew, that called for clear thinking. He'd have to get away, of course. But, he realied with the shrewdness that had kept him out of jail these many years, it was better not to rush things.

He had registered at the hotel only three hours before. The clerk downstairs might suspect something was wrong if he checked out now, and have him followed. It would be better to hang around until morning. Risky, perhaps, but wiser in the long run.

Without a doubt, they wouldn't find the old guy until noon, anyway, and by that time Tony would have a good start.

He glanced at his watch. One o'clock. It wasn't going to be very pleasant sitting around for five or six hours doing nothing. He knew that it would be useless to try to sleep. As well as imprudent. He wanted to be ready in case anything unexpected happened. He felt sure of that.

In spite of his reasoning, Tony began to grow a trifle nervous. The bottle on the table was empty now. He thrust his hand into his pocket, and growled an oath as he discovered that his cigarets were gone, too.

The thing he least desired was to leave the hotel at that particular moment. Better to call a bell hop to do his errands.

The boy appeared a moment or two later, in response to Tony's summons.

"Get me some whisky some place," he ordered, "and make it snappy."

Keeping the stolen wallet carefully out of sight in his pocket, he fished out a bill.

"And listen, get me some cigarets downstairs on your way back, and you can have a bottle of White Rock sent up, too."

He shoved a couple of more bills at the boy, and sighed with relief as the door closed. Nothing to do now but wait. There was a train pulling out for the West at 9 o'clock. That would be plenty of time.

When his whisky and cigarets came, Tony felt better. He grew confident again. His nervousness disappeared. His old self-assurance returned. With no better way to idle away the time, he began to review the past few years of his life. Sometimes he'd had the breaks. At other times, he had been as broke as he'd been tonight. But his luck had always held. Things had always come out right.

The future didn't worry him. He hadn't counted the money in the wallet yet. He knew that it wasn't exactly the smart thing to do then. But he was confident that there was plenty to take him far enough away and keep him going until something else broke.

But he'd croaked the old guy. Every time he thought of that, he began to shudder. Not with horror for the thing he'd done, but because of the consequence of his deed if they ever found him.

The more he thought of it, the less able he was to remain seated in one spot. He began to pace up and down the room. He went to the window and looked out. It would soon be light. He was glad of that. He was all ready to beat it at any minute.

At 8 o'clock he could stand it no longer. He picked up his few belongings and threw his topcoat over his arm. Better shove off, just in case the old guy did have an early visitor.

But Tony never got as far as the door.

For at that moment, he heard footsteps outside in the hall and the deep rumble of voices. With an effort he controlled himself and waited with suspended breath. A heavy hand began to knock on the door.

"Come on, you in there! Open up!"

Tony glanced around the room swiftly and helplessly. No escape here. Panic-stricken, he stepped back.

In that split second, he realized that he was trapped. He'd taken a long shot and missed. Somehow, he'd figured wrong. In some way they had discovered the old guy. There was one chance left, a fairly hopeless one, but worth trying anyway.

He flattened himself against the side of the wall, reached out a hand, and unlocked the door.

Two men stepped into the room. One, Tony recognized as the house detective. The other, he knew instinctively, was a plainclothesman. His hand went to his pocket again. He fired. The house detective doubled up with a groan and slumped to the floor.

There was another spurt of flame. This one, though, came from the gun of the man from headquarters. Tony felt a sharp stab of pain in his shoulder. His gun clattered to the floor, as his arm dropped helpless to his side.

The next instant, his left wrist was manacled.

The detective gazed down grimly at the figure on the floor; the figure that was already a corpse.

"You'll burn for this, guy," he muttered. "Thought you could shoot it out with us, did you?"

Tony managed a sickly grin.

"Well, it was worth trying, anyway," he said. "Might as well burn for two as for one. You had me dead to right on that other job. You'd 'a sent me to the chair for that anyhow."

The other man gazed at him strangely, and in his eyes there was a puzzled expression.

"Yeah?" he queried. "What are you doing—trying to kid me or something? First I ever heard of sending a guy to the chair for passing out counterfeit bills." . . .

CORPORATIONS URGED TO AID

Recovery stimulated by the NRA must be bulwarked by all the human services maintained by the Welfare Fund, according to H. S. Wherrett, newly appointed head of the corporations division of the Welfare Fund campaign this fall. John W. Lawrence, general chairman, made the appointment.

Mr. Wherrett.

In a statement today, Wherrett commented:

"Corporations in Allegheny County which are fighting to restore employment and purchasing power under NRA must also take a position of leadership in support of the Welfare Fund program.

"This basic act of recovery must be bulwarked on every side by all the human services financed through the Welfare Fund if recovery is to be sound. Corporations will be asked to carry their fair share of the increased cost of community service at this vital turning point."

FOUND BAD BILL, SUSPECT SAYS

Frank Miller, 31, listed as having no home, was to be turned over to federal authorities today, police said, because he tendered a counterfeit $5 bill in payment of a lunch and beer for himself and a friend in Abe Mallinger's restaurant, 1223 Fifth avenue.

Mallinger called Patrolman Thomas Walsh, who arrested Miller on a suspicious person charge. Miller told police he found the bill in the street, not far from the restaurant, and invited another homeless stranger to share his "luck" with him.

GARBO'S GREAT TRUE STORY BEGINS FRIDAY

TWO MILLION COPIES OF TRUE STORY MAGAZINE NOW BEING RUSHED TO DISTRIBUTORS

EIGHTY THOUSAND DEALERS READY FOR SALE

WHAT is there about this strange and silent woman that will send sixty million people throughout the civilized world to the picture shows to see her act? What is there that will start sixty million discussions whenever she acts?

We begin to understand for the first time, when we read the true story of Greta Garbo and the true love story that has been woven through her life, the decisions she has been forced to make. And then we understand what all the argument is about.

We begin to see how the experience of this woman parallels the experience of millions of other women throughout the world. We begin to see that the decision she made is the decision that millions of others have to make.

For this is no idle exposé from Hollywood. It is thoughtful, powerful, stirring drama that goes deep into our lives, especially into the lives of the millions upon millions of everyday women who have had plenty of talent for the making of a career and who have had to surrender that talent to the making of a home.

Garbo has no children. She will probably never have any children. Garbo has no home. She will probably never have any home. Here is a great human document, as deep as life itself.

True Story Magazine, containing the first chapters of this great True Story will be ready on Friday, September 1st. Better tell your dealer today to hold a copy for you when it comes.

The Human Side of the News

Timothy Dexter of Newburyport, a Gay Old Soul—"Informer Of Deer"—A Flower Ceremony for Sea Victims

By EDWIN C. HILL

NEWBURYPORT, Massachusetts, picturesque old whaling town, which once placed in the mayor's office a red-haired, crap-shooting, fist-fighting ex-sailor named Bossy Gillis, has a way of producing extremely original specimens of the human race, and of all such products Lord Timothy Dexter was the rarest and richest. He was a tanner's son who got rich by buying up Continental paper money during the Revolutionary War. His fame has been preserved in verse, for a poet sang of him:

Timothy Dexter of Newburyport,
Was a gay old soul of a rare old sort,
For West Indian trade he laid his plans,
So he sailed with a cargo of warming pans,
And when he discovered for things like these
No market at all in the Caribbees,
His comment was merely, "We aim to please."

He removed the lids with a right good will,
And the pans he sold to a sugar mill
For molasses ladles. "Bring all you've got!"
They cried, and he went with another lot.
And he sold the lids to the native beaux
Who wore 'em suspended from ear or nose
And asked, "Can you furnish some more of those?"

So he sailed back home where he lived in state
With a coach and a poet laureate;
And he set up statues of men of fame,
With Timothy Dexter among the same.
And he wronged no man nor was sued in tort,
This blithe old fellow of a high old sort—
Timothy Dexter of Newburyport.

Collected But Did Not Read Books

HE COLLECTED beautiful books which he did not open. He collected watches and clocks and used to walk through the house from one to another, calling each clock by a pet name. He gave himself the title of "Lord" and appointed his own poet laureate to sing his praises. He held town office—the old New England office of "Informer of Deer." His job was to alarm the town when deer strayed in from the forests to browse in the vegetable gardens.

He rode in a grand, gilded coach-and-four, never stopped talking or writing, scribbling; wrote a book without any punctuation whatever and died leaving a small estate for his heirs to tear into even smaller fractions.

Queer he was, and maybe a little crazy—yet nobody's fool. Today at the top of High street in Newburyport stands his beautiful square, white house, with its Georgian cupola and the Captain's Walk, from which, with a spyglass, he could see his ships making in from the Indies with bright new Spanish gold in exchange for warming pans, woolen mittens, Bibles and New England rum. But the famous wooden statues blew down in a hurricane and no trace is left of his own with its inscription: "I am the greatest man in the East or West."

Memorial Flowers Cast Into Sea

FROM A QUAINT, white church in another old seaport of Massachusetts, men, women and children take their way silently, with bowed heads, in slow-moving procession. In that procession are old men, bent and broken, who have given to the sea all they have to give, except life itself. And there are women, young, middle-aged or elderly, and all in black, and all showing faces saddened by tragedy. The children in the procession have no smiles, no gayety. As they march their short, quick steps with the longer strides of their elders, they look up now and then in wide-eyed wonderment.

Almost everyone in that slow, sad processional carries flowers—lovely, bright flowers from old New England gardens—sprays and wreaths and bouquets. And presently they reach the bridge where the river flows into the sea, and they stop there. The chaplain gazes out over the blue water, so beautiful under the sun, so fatal to these grieving folk. And one by one the chaplain reads a list of names, names of sons and husbands and brothers and fathers, and as each name is read and there follows a long pause, flowers are cast into the tide. As the flowers drift seaward on the ebb tide and the prayers are said the inexpressibly mournful echo of the bell buoys makes a refrain that is tragically appropriate.

A clear voice rises in the memorial hymn of the fisherfolk:

Ebbing tide of summer day, bear these blossoms on their way,
North and East, to bank and coast, where they lie whom we love most.

The most touching item in all the news is this annual service held in the old seaport town of Gloucester, in memory of her sons that were taken in the past year by the relentless sea. There is nothing like it in America anywhere. Eight thousand men of Gloucester have been taken by the sea since the first fishing fleets sailed away to the Banks of Newfoundland to brave the fogs and storms of the North Atlantic.

Year after year it is the same. The day comes when the menfolk of the family must take to the sea. Year after year the harborside is lined with the children and old men and the woman, who smile through their tears and wave a gay farewell, all knowing that grief must come to some of their number before the year is out. Looking at each other with the silent thought: "Will it be you this time, or me?" . . Always the same, generation after generation . . . Prisoners of fate.

W. VA. TO KEEP FOREST CAMPS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—The Civilian Conservation Corps today announced tentative plans have been approved calling for the continuance of all 18 camps in West Virginia throughout the winter.

Several camps will be moved to new sites.

Workers in 12 camps will be provided with barracks. Men in six will be housed in combination tent and barracks camps.

C. C. C. officials informed Representative Jennings Randolph that among the camps to be moved to new localities are those at Circleville, Thornwood, Shaver's Fork and Dry Fork.

Local Corps Will Compete at Fair

Several American Legion drum and bugle corps from this district are to compete at the Cambria County Legion Fair at Ebensburg, September 8 and 9, it was announced today. A popular dance orchestra is to be featured on the two-day program.

LIKE a lot of big news these days, this has a Washington date line, too. It's an Endurance Run, officially conducted by the *A. A. A. in the Nation's Capital.

In 5,000 miles continuous driving through traffic, AMOCO-GAS, in a new stock V-8 Ford, gave 22½ miles to the gallon—20% more than the Ford factory considers good mileage with regular gasoline. AMOCO-GAS does not cost the motorist that much more over regular gasoline.

So even on mileage alone, you don't save a cent when you buy "regular"! The added mileage from AMOCO-GAS places it on a lower cost footing.

But observe the other great plus values you get from AMOCO-GAS that you cannot get from any "regular" gasoline. Or from any other premium fuel, either.

(1) Complete "anti-knock" performance.

(2) Greatly decreased carbonization—and far fewer repair bills.

(3) Infinitely more power—and smoother motor performance.

(4) Quicker pick-up—no "choking" on the get-away.

(5) Far fewer gear shifts—you can loaf along in traffic in high.

(6) Instant starting—no running down the battery; no flooding the carburetor.

(7) Greater, more luxurious riding and driving ease.

For these many comforts and economies you pay absolutely nothing. Everything but the mileage is free!

Why, in the face of these facts, continue to buy "regular" gas? AMOCO-GAS has always been the lowest-cost-per-mile motor fuel you can possibly buy.

And right now it's a better buy than ever—for the premium is 2¢ (40%) less. So now you can afford the best!

BUCCANEERS SUFFER AS WANER ACT FAILS TO CLICK

SPORT COMMENT

By James J. Long.

Belated Brace by Meine.
Slab Trio's Slump Costly.
Football Mourns "Cav."
McKechnie Makes Star.
Women and Athletics.
Ring Kings Fall Quickly.

MOUND IMPROVEMENT TOO LONG DELAYED

It was an excellent pitching job that Heinie Meine turned in yesterday to topple the Phils for the Pirates' fourth straight victory following the disastrous tailspin in the East, but his return to form may be too late to be worth very much for pennant purposes. That makes only three complete games Meine has hurled in 10 starts since June 18, and the time left may not be sufficient to enable the Bucs to regain the ground that has been lost in the meanwhile through the repeated slips of Heinie and a couple of the other members of the staff.

Heinie Meine

If Meine, Bill Swift and Steve Swetonic had performed up to expectations during the last two months, or delivered anything like the brand of ball that Meine pitched yesterday, the pennant race today would have a vastly different complexion. As it is, the three flingers named have won only three games more than they have lost, 31 victories against 28 defeats, and it is questionable if a brace now will mean anything more than a minor position at the finish for the club. There's a chance of course, but it's a slim one. If the Giants win only 18 of their remaining 35 games, which calls for practically only .500 ball, the Pirates will have to win 25 out of 32 to beat them out.

WHOLE FOOTBALL WORLD MOURNS CAVANAUGH

Though not unexpected, announcement of the death of Maj. Frank Cavanaugh was received with none the less regret throughout the length and breadth of the football world, which loses one of its greatest figures of all time in the passing of the famous coach and soldier.

Through 32 years of coaching following his brilliant career as a player, Cavanaugh stood out as one of the mightiest individual forces in the gridiron sport. In spite of physical handicaps due to war injuries that would have halted any but the stoutest hearted, the iron major carried on with his football activities until the close of the 1932 season, continuing to be, as always, a powerful influence for the good of the game. "Cav" died as he had played, fighting to the last whistle. He leaves a gap that will not soon be filled. The Cavanaughs in football have been all too few.

HUBBELL'S CONTROL IMPRESSES RUCKER

The thing about Carl Hubbell's pitching that impresses Nap Rucker, himself a southpaw star in his day, is not so much the screwball as the way the Giant left-hander controls the delivery. Rucker says it's this control that makes Hubbell a great pitcher. Most pitchers with a trick or pet delivery save it for the tough spots. But Hubbell throws that screwball to every batter, to some three or four times in a row, and what's more he gets the ball just about where he wants it to go. Under those conditions, it's a tremendously effective delivery.

The frequency with which Hubbell throws it precludes any possibility of a sustained attack. One batter, or even two in succession, may hit the pitch, but Rucker can't conceive a whole batting order's teeing off. Somebody would hit one into the dirt and that would be the end of the rally even before it could get started.

CANTWELL, M'KECHNIE'S MASTERPIECE

There is no smarter developer or handler of pitchers in the big leagues than Bill McKechnie. And if the Wilkinsburg citizen had not established that reputation long ago he surely would be clinching it with the remarkable job he has done in the case of Ben Cantwell.

Ben Cantwell

A few years ago Cantwell was just another pitcher on the Braves' staff. Then he developed into a fine relief flinger, one of the best anywhere in 1931 and 1932, and this year McKechnie made him not only a regular starter but one of the leading right-handers of the National League, with 18 victories to his credit against only seven defeats and certain to be very close to the top of the pitching table when the season ends on October 1, in number of games won, percentage of wins, and average of earned runs allowed.

EFFECTS OF TRACK GAMES ON WOMEN

Some critics are mean enough to say that few women participating in track and field athletics have carried feminine charm; that they have been, ever since they started such competition, a masculine lot when considered as a group.

Many have become overdeveloped in shoulders, arms or legs, and are built out of proportion. Their faces are lined, and many lean to the masculine not only in physical development but in talk and action. But in swimming, on the other hand, feminine charms are enhanced. Several of the leading women swimmers, though competing since the age of 8 or 9, are nationally famous beauties.

CHARM DEVELOPED BY SWIMMING

Asked how one sport can destroy feminine charm and another can develop it, Miss Charlotte Epstein, of the Women's Swimming Association, and a leader in the advancement of women's swimming, explained that swimming is the greatest body developer of all and the healthiest exercise you can take.

Swimmers hold onto youth. There is no severe physical strain in swimming. It does not punish the body, and therefore swimmers and divers do not carry the marks that competition leaves on other athletes.

Some of the girls now champions or contenders started swimming as very thin and anemic children and developed into women of physical perfection.

Swimming develops the whole body and does not subject it to over-exertion, over-heating and other evils that strenuous athletic competition involves.

FIRST TITLE DEFENSE HOLDS JINX

Though Lou Brouillard, in the middleweight class, and Barney Ross, in the lightweight division, look like real fighters and worthy title-holders in every respect, a glance back over developments in championship circles indicates that they won't be able to feel safe until they have cleared their first hurdles.

Lou Brouillard

For four instances still are fresh in memory in which tistic kings came to grief while defending their crowns for the initial time. Brouillard himself lost the welterweight diadem the first time he defended it; the same thing happened to his successor, Jackie Fields, and also to Young Corbett, who followed Fields, and Jack Sharkey dropped the heavyweight mantle to Primo Carnera on the occasion of his first fight in defense of it after taking it from Max Schmeling.

BABE RUTH'S MAJESTIC MASTODONIC SWING

SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS

THE BABE PLAYS HOST TO TRAIN WRECK HEROES

Jimmy Misses the Babe

By BILL CORUM

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—Jimmy Jack was 16 years old. He lived in Oil City, Pa. Baseball was his game and Babe Ruth was his man. All his life Jimmy had been reading in the sports pages about the Bambino and dreaming of the day when he would get to see him play. He thought if he just could see Ruth hit one home run he'd be all even.

Oil City is not far from Pittsburgh, but Pittsburgh is in the National League. Then, one day recently, Jimmy saw in the papers that the Yankees and the Babe were scheduled to play an exhibition game at Forbes Field against the Pirates. He made up his mind to be there or bust.

Business was dull in Oil City and money was scarce. It was so scarce with Jimmy that there wasn't any at all. But it takes more than that to keep a Babe Ruth fan at home once his mind is made up that he's going to go. When you gotta go you gotta go. You don't always have to come back, however.

'I AIN'T NO BUM'

Jimmy Jack was no bum, but that was the only chance he saw. So he tried it the hard way. On his way to Pittsburgh by freight his foot slipped and he fell between two cars. When they picked him up one leg was gone.

At the hospital he recovered consciousness long enough to tell the doctor how he had happened to be hooking a ride on a freight train. He said:

"I ain't no bum, Doc. I was only going to see the Babe."

Somebody told Ruth. It was too late for him to go to the hospital. He sent an autographed ball. When the nurse took the ball in to Jimmy Jack, he was dead. He wasn't a bum. He was 16 and he wanted to see the Babe, but he missed him.

POEM IN TRIBUTE

It was just an off day in the schedule to Ruth and the Yankees. If he had lived it would have been a red-letter day for Jimmy Jack. It reminds me of a poem on the Babe by Frank W. Gray, of Burlingame, Cal., who calls it "The Greatest Hit of All." With Mr. Gray's kind permission I hereby dedicate it to Jimmy Jack, who never got to see his hero.

THE BABE AND HIS WIFE VISIT ANOTHER "JIMMY JACK"

To Little Jimmy Jack

White and cool was the charity ward,
But hot was the fever'd cheek
Of a freckled kid in the second bed,
All broken and wan and weak.

Some hit-and-runner mowed him down,
Two workmen brough him in;
He gave his name as Newsboy Dick—
No folks at home, no kin.

All day he lay there, pale and still
As a statue on the bed,
The doctor came to look at him,
And slowly shook his head.

When twilight came he turned his eyes
Toward the man across the way:
"Say," he asked, "could you tell me
How the Yanks came out today?"

"The Yankees lost," his neighbor said,
"They say Babe Ruth is through.
Old Father Time collects them all—
The same as me and you."

The youngster curled his lip in scorn,
Defiant were his eyes,
"The Babe is through—you're telling me?
Why say, my friend, get wise."

"Babe Ruth will knock them home runs out
As long as games are played;
Old Father Time can't get that bird—
That isn't how he's made."

"A pen and paper, nurse," he said,
"I'm goin' to write a line,
To give a guy that's down a boost—
A real old friend of mine."

"Dear Babe," he wrote with trembling hand,
"The wise guys say you're through,
But now you know you got one friend
That won't go back on you

"I can't come out to see you play;
I'm all washed up, you see—
But I could die in peace if you
Would knock one more for me."

That afternoon at 3 o'clock
The white-clad nurses came,
And hooked him up a radio,
So he could hear the game.

And play by play the news came in;
He heard the bleachers roar;
His stricken eyes grew dim with tears
When Boston tied the score.

For twice Babe Ruth had come to bat,
And twice a mocking shout
Announced a Yankee tragedy—
The King of Swat struck out!

The Babe was due to bat again,
When someone brought the note:
He paused to read the boyish scrawl—
And something caught his throat.

His cheery face grew hard and grim,
With the crack of a rifle shot,
His huge bat met that speeding ball,
And drove it out the lot.

Three Yankee runners crossed the plate,
Babe Ruth had won the game.
"The greatest hit of all," they said,
The crowd roared wild acclaim.

The freckled kid lay back in peace
He whispered with a grin:
"They can't tell me Babe Ruth is through—
Not when the scores ain't in."

There came a knock upon the door,
A whispering voice was heard,
A huge man tiptoed to the bed,
The sleeping youngster stirred.

He gazed upon the big man's face
With wide adoring eyes,
"It's Babe," the dying youngster said
In quavering surprise.

With tender face the man sat there,
And held the boy's hand,
While flaring breadlines heralded
His name throughout the land.

As long as baseball games are played,
Babe Ruth may hit the ball;
But in a youngster's heart he made—
The greatest hit of all.

POLO CARDED AT FAIR

Five polo games have been arranged for the Allegheny County Fair sport program, featuring members of the West Penn Polo Association.

The first game will bring together the South Park and Monongahela riders tomorrow afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. Friday, Rosslyn Farms and Charleroi will clash, the contest being slated to get under way at 7 o'clock. On Sunday, South Park will meet Library at 3 o'clock and on Monday, a doubleheader is slated, with Zelienople meeting Chartiers Heights at 3 o'clock and Library and South Park battling at 7:00 o'clock.

The track and field meet, scheduled for Saturday afternoon, will get under way at 2 o'clock. The boxing bouts and weight-lifting are scheduled for 6 o'clock.

Scribe Opens Suit Against Bucs, Sox

AMARILLO, Tex., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Trial of a damage suit brought by Jerry Malin, sports editor of the Amarillo Globe News against the Pittsburgh Pirates and Chicago White Sox, for alleged failure to play an exhibition here last April 5, is on in District Court.

Malin, who claims he lost $1,300 as a result of cancellation of the game which he promoted, alleges the weather was not prohibitive to play, as stated by the defendants.

Most defense witnesses will testify by deposition.

Deadened National League Ball Partially To Blame for Slump of Lloyd and Paul

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 30.—Fans and players of the National League are stirred in a marked degree over the falldown of the famous Waner Act in the present campaign of the Pirates of Pittsburgh. The younger of the two little stars was benched by Manager George Gibson a day or two ago and the older brother is off something like 50 points in his batting as he struggles desperately to hold his membership in the .300 circle.

A bare .300 average for Brother Paul represents a big slump at any time, while Brother Lloyd, in his big league career, shows a collective mark far in advance of the often-coveted figures.

Lloyd has been hovering around .270 or worse all season and the climax was reached here Monday when he gave way to Forrest Jensen. The fact that the club began to win as quickly as the change was made will cause Boss Gibson to hesitate before giving the call to the wee performer over Jensen and Adam Comorosky, Polish star, who has been out of action seven weeks with a bad ankle.

That the deadened ball of the Heydler circuit has a lot to do with the slump of the Waners is the firm opinion of many of their playing brethren. To tell the truth the Oklahoma athletes are not lonesome in their batting slump. When you see great batters like Frank O'Doul below .300 you may figure that something unusual has occurred.

Heinie Meine rose in his pitching skill yesterday and as a result the Quakers came within a hair of being shut out. Larry French blanked them for eight innings on the previous day and Meinie duplicated Larry's feat. Chuck Klein spoiled both whitewash parties by scoring in the last round.

Meinie's form was remarkable as he steered his club to a 4-to-1 success. He yielded only five hits and gave up only three up to the ninth. His failure to touch first base in the ninth as he covered that bag led to the Philly tally. Klein was the only batter to reach third base on the St. Louis Dutchman.

The Buccos, on the other hand, reached Snipe Hansen for a dozen safeties and they made two more off Phil Collins who pitched the final inning. The hitting of Arky Vaughan and Fred Lindstrom featured the Pittsburgh success. Arky came through with doubles while Lindstrom also hit safely on three occasions.

The Bucs scored a single tally in the second round, put over two in the eighth and added another safety marker in the ninth.

TUBER COACH REFUSES CUT

Unless Bill Sullivan reports for duty as football coach at McKeesport High School today, a new man will be appointed in his place.

This was the word of J. B Richey, superintendent of schools, when informed that Sullivan yesterday had refused the $300 offered by the athletic committee of the school board for his services as coach this year. Sullivan is a teacher in the high school and has handled the coaching job on the side for the past two years. It is understood he received $3,000 in 1931.

The Tubers lost only one game in 1931 and last year finished in a three-way tie for Class AA honors in the W. P. I. A. L. with New Castle and Jeannette.

Superintendent Richey has been given power to appoint Sullivan's successor.

PRO SCHEDULE CHANGED

When the official schedule of the National Football League for the coming season is given out tomorrow by President Joe Carr, of Columbus, O., the announcement will be made that the New York Giants will meet the Pittsburgh Pirates at Forbes Field Wednesday night, September 20.

The Cincinnati team originally was slated to play the locals Saturday night, September 16, but that game will be moved back, New York appearing here instead.

The locals will go into camp Friday evening at Newell's Grove and will remain there until the start of the championship season.

HENRI COCHET TO TURN PRO

PARIS, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Henri Cochet, bulwark of France's Davis Cup defense for five years, finally has decided to turn professional.

The famed tennis ace, once a ball boy in his native town of Lyons and later the undisputed kingpin of the game for the three-year interval covering 1926 through 1930, is expected to announce his decision officially next week.

His first professional engagement, it was learned, will come in the Franco-American matches starting September 22 when he will have a chance to renew his old rivalry with Big Bill Tilden.

Schmeling to Box Jack Sharkey Again

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Joe Jacobs, manager of Max Schmeling, former heavyweight champion, announced here today Schmeling will box Paulino Uzcudun in Amsterdam, Holland, early next month and then will come back to the United States to box Jack Sharkey in Madison Square Garden here in December provided there is a change in matchmakers there in the interim.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: BUTTERFLY LINDBERGHS—Some butterflies and moths possess wonderful powers of flight and endurance. Native American types of dragon flies have been known to cross the ocean to Hawaii, 2,000 miles away from the California shore. And more wonderful still, the Monarch butterflies of the Northern United States, which never have been known to breed anywhere else, often cross in great swarms to Great Britain over 3,000 miles of ocean. The latter butterfly, greatest of insect travelers, is very delicate and fragile and cannot tolerate frost and cold. Considerable numbers even reach Australia on their trans-oceanic flights. A 30-FOOT LEAP—Col. Francesco Amoros y Ondeano, of Spain, father of French physical culture, who entered the French military service and opened the first military gymnasium in France, was a marvelous physical specimen himself. In 1830, when he was 61 years old, he demonstrated the efficacy of his gymnastic method by clearing the ditch at Mousseau, which was 30 feet wide, in a single leap. This feat was accomplished in the presence of a military and medical commission delegated by the French government.

TOMORROW: A PARADOXICAL METROPOLIS

BRITISH CHAMP VICTOR OVER MRS. HIGBIE

EXMOOR COUNTRY CLUB, HIGHLAND PARK, Ill., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Brushing aside her opponent with a game that shattered par by three shots, Enid Wilson, of England, entered the quarter-finals of the women's National golf championship today with a 4-and-3 triumph over Mrs. Harley Higbie, of Detroit.

The English champion was never headed as she won the first hole with a birdie 4, made the turn in 36, 3 under par, and ended the match on the fifteenth with a half in birdie 4s. Pumping out tremendous tee shots with her mansized woods and pitching dead to the pin with magic approaches, she was an easy winner of par and Mrs. Higbie, although the latter was only two over par herself.

Miss Wilson yesterday announced that she plans to quit competitive golf at the conclusion of the current tournament.

Virginia Van Wie, national champion, was 4 up over Mrs. Leo Federman, Great Neck, N. Y., at the end of the eleventh. The titleholder was 3 up going out and won the eleventh with a birdie 3. The standing of other matches after nine holes.

Maureen Orcutt, Haworth, N. J., 2 up on Mrs. Charles Newbold, Wichita.

Helen Hicks, New York, 2 up on Mrs. Ben Fitzhugh, Vicksburg.

Mrs. O. S. Hill, Kansas City, 2 up on Frances Williams, Philadelphia.

Mrs. Leona Cheney, San Gabriel, 2 up on Aniela Gorczya, Fort Worth.

Charlotte Glutting, West Orange, N. J., and Peggy Wattles, Buffalo, N. Y., all square.

DUQUESNE SWIM STAR FOURTH IN MARATHON

BULLETIN.

TORONTO, Aug. 30. — Eli Radakovich, of Duquesne, Pa., gained the lead during the swimming of the fourth mile in the 15-mile Canadian National Exhibition marathon swim in Lake Ontario here today.

TORONTO, Aug. 30.—(INS.)—Seeking the $5,000 first prize, 117 men swimmers dove off the starting dock into Lake Ontario at 11:02 a. m. today for the start of the Canadian National Exhibition's 15-mile marathon swim.

George Young, Toronto ace, and Marvin Nelson, previous winner, are regarded as the top-heavy favorites for the crown being defended by George Blagden, of Memphis, Tenn.

Norval Sweet, of Oshawa, Ont., gave up the swim after negotiating only 100 yards when he was seized with cramps. The second swimmer to withdraw was Alfred Marchant, of Trenton, Ont.

Swimming strongly, Jackie May, of Honolulu, passed the first mile marker leading Clarence Ross, of Mamaroneck, N. Y. by 50 yards, with Young another 25 yards in the rear. May's unofficial time for the first mile was 26 minutes.

May maintained his 50-yard lead to the second mile buoy, with Young second and Marvin Nelson third. Eli Radakovitch, Duquesne, Pa., was fourth.

Solly Smith Dead, Beat George Dixon

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 30.—(INS.)—Solly Smith, 60, former world featherweight boxing champion, was dead today. He died in his sleep at his home in Culver City, leaving a memorable record for ring achievement. Many oldtimers had felt the sting of Smith's dynamic right hand. The highlight of his ring career was his defeat of George Dixon, Negro battler, who at the time was regarded as the fistic wonder of the age.

M'CANDLESS VICTOR

Defeating St. Mary's, 4 to 1, in the third and deciding game of their title series last night, the McCandless M. E. Church team won the championship of the Lawrenceville Y. M. C. A. Inter-Church Mushball League.

Young Golf Star Calls and Makes Hole in One

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—A 20-year-old Springfield golfer, John T. Woodruff, Jr., yesterday called his shot and made a hole-in-one. By doing so he won an "ace" tournament staged by a local newspaper.

Each of the 168 players was given five shots at the green, 125 yards away, and Woodruff put his ball in the hole with his third shot.

Massera in Draw With Steve Hamas

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—(INS.)—Charley Massera, Monongahela (Pa.) heavyweight, today retained an unmarred record. After 20 bouts without a defeat, Massera boxed a 10-round draw against Steve Hamas, of Passaic, N. J., here last night.

Hamas fought one of the best bouts of his career and in the eighth round opened a cut over his opponent's eye. He looked on the way to a knockout in the fifth, when he dazed Massera with a right to the chin and left to the stomach.

In the tenth, they fought at close range without a stop for three minutes.

Sport Shorts

BARTLESVILLE, Okla.—(AP.)—Larry Wibanks, star right fielder of the Western League Bartlesville Broncs, has left to join the Newark Club of the International League.

CHICAGO—(AP.)—The Cambridge University Vandals gave Chicago its first look at British rugby in more than 30 years yesterday, coming from behind to defeat the Illinois Rugby Union fifteen, 13 to 8.

NEW YORK—(AP.)—The New York Giants announced that Outfielder Phil Weintraub, purchased from Birmingham, Ala., Pitcher Shores, recalled from Kansas City, and First Baseman Joe Malay, recalled from Scranton, would report to Manager Bill Terry in Boston Friday.

LONDON.—(AP.)—The Bolton Wanderers defeated Grimsby, 2-2, in a second division English Football League fixture yesterday. In a third division, Northern Section match, Southport and Accrington Stanley tied, 1-1.

GREENSBURG, Pa.—Gus Wolfe and James Hughes, of Jeannette, successfully defended their Westmoreland County doubles tennis crown yesterday by defeating Edgar and Theodore Hammer, of Greensburg, in the finals of the Westmoreland County tennis tournament at Jeannette yesterday, 7-5, 6-1, 6-0.

CHICAGO—(INS.)—Two holes in one scored on the same day was the record claimed today by Mrs. T. A. Heyer, who shot aces on the fourteenth and seventeenth holes at the Medinah Country Club.

MAJ. CAVANAUGH FUNERAL SET FOR FRIDAY

MARSHFIELD, Mass., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Funeral services for Maj. Frank W. Cavanaugh, noted football coach, will be held Friday amid the simple surroundings of his South Shore home.

Maj. Cavanaugh

A high mass of requiem will be celebrated at the Church of the Sacred Heart, Newton Center, at 10 a. m., and burial will be at Worcester, his birthplace.

"Cav," one of the most beloved football coaches of a generation, died at his home here yesterday after a courageous battle.

Cav's football career began back in 1897, when he was an all-America end at Dartmouth. In 1899, he became the "baby" of American football coaches by accepting a post with the University of Cincinnati. In 1911 he became head coach at Dartmouth, where he stayed until 1916, when his coaching days were interrupted by the World War. He enlisted as a private in the 102nd Field Artillery of the 26th Division. Gallantry in action accounted for most of his promotions from private to major.

In 1919 he became coach at Boston College and eight years later at Fordham. He retired last year.

STARS BATTLE FOR TITLE

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—With new champions in each of the four divisions, the much rained on national doubles tennis tournament at Longwood will complete its program today with George M. Lott, Jr., Chicago, and Lester Stoefen, Los Angeles, opposing Frank X. Shields, New York, and Frank Parker, Milwaukee, for the major title.

Lott and Stoefen yesterday eliminated the sixth and last of the foreign teams by defeating Adrian Quist and Don Turnbull, the Australian Davis Cup pair, in a five-set semi-final.

Shields and the 17-year-old Parker qualified for the championship play by ousting the defending champions, Ellsworth Vines and Keith Gledhill.

GRID CONFAB SET

Another organization meeting will be held for football leagues at the Wagner-Traynor headquarters, 709 Liberty avenue, Friday evening at 7:30. Teams interested may communicate with Ray Merriman, director, at Atlantic 3112.

BASEBALL COMEDY

—By NICK ALTROCK—

EN ROUTE EAST, Aug. 30.—Well, folks, we wound up our Western trip in Cleveland today and we are glad to shake the dust of Lake Erie from our feet. The trip was a complete success. We won so many games that Joe Cronin complained we were in a losing streak if we split a doubleheader. And I want to say if us Washington lads could do as well on the road from October to February as we do in the ball season we'd be a swell bunch of traveling salesmen.

You will remember our severest pals and best critics stated our club probably would crack up on this trip and surrender the pennant chase to the Yanks. Well, statistics show we surrendered like the Minute Men at Lexington and Concord. And the collapse of the Yanks is the shock that was felt around the world.

SPORT VIGNETTES

When Lew Raymond leaves Pittsburgh this week-end for Detroit, Pittsburgh will lose the most efficient boxing matchmaker it ever has known, and this is no reflection on our home products . . . The most prominent boxing men in the country will tell you Raymond is the best matchmaker of them all anywhere . . . His connections are such that he can get bouts no others are able to make, and has an uncanny knack of putting together well-matched, interesting battles.

Lew has been in our midst more than a year, having come from New York, and in that time he has been responsible for bringing Tony Canzoneri, Kid Chocolate, Vince Dundee and other topnotchers here, as well as a number of other good fighters not quite so highly rated. . . . He also had Jackie Fields and Johnny Indrisano booked for bouts here, but these fell through due to circumstances over which he had no control.

Raymond will try to revive the sport in Detroit, where it has been dead for a couple of years. . . . One of his first moves there will be to endeavor to pair Jackie Fields, who first won the welterweight title in a bout with Joe Dundee in Detroit and is a good attraction in that city, against our own Teddy Yarosz, who also has pleased the Detroit fans. . . . His smaller shows will be held in the Naval Armory, which seats 3,500 fans, and the larger ones in the Olympia, which houses 17,000. . . . The promoter, Nick Londos, has made a success of running wrestling shows in Detroit and will give Raymond a free hand in the arranging of the boxing bills. . . . Lew's chief competitor will be Scotty Monteith, former manager of Johnny Dundee and matchmaker for Madison Square Garden in New York.

Here are some of Raymond's sizeups of the local boxing situation as he prepares to go to his new position: . . . Ray Foutts, Red Mason, Bunny Buntach and Charley Jones are four of the best managers in the sport . . . Pittsburgh has the makings of some great future drawing cards in the Zivic brothers and a few other youngsters if they are properly developed by the promoters . . . Art Rooney and Bill Tracey ought to go more seriously into the promoting field . . . Ted Yarosz will win the middleweight championship and make more money than any other fighter ever turned out here . . . John Lernon did a slick job in putting over the Dundee-Yarosz fight and the reaction will help all of the promoters.

Needless to say, Raymond leaves here with the best wishes of all of the boxing folks, including the cash customers . . . He has given us some of our best matches during the time he has been here and would have done even better if the times had been better and the money for big promotions had been available . . . With work in the automobile industry picking up around Detroit he should be a big success there . . . It is hardly necessary to state that in his new post he will not forget the Pittsburgh managers and boxers and will give them every break he can.

Buck McTiernan is coming back . . . . The Swissvale middleweight, who seemed destined to scale the heights attained by Yarosz before he suddenly went bad, has been in training for some time and has been fired with new ambition by the success of Yarosz and will be seen in action again soon . . . . He hopes to prove in a series of tuneup bouts that he can regain his old form and then will seek a return bout with Yarosz . . . . Another local middleweight prospect is Billy Holt, Negro puncher, of Homewood, who defeated Phil Ross, of Chicago, in his debut as a middleweight on the Primo Carnera exhibition card the other night . . . . Billy says he almost ruined himself trying to remain a welterweight, but now feels stronger and better than ever . . . . He boxed Yarosz twice as a welter and also hopes to gain another crack at Teddy . . . . Billy is a terrific puncher and a series of knockout victories easily could put him up there as a challenger of the Monaca star.

From bookworm to a tennis star . . . That is the success story of Charley Carr, Jr., son of the former Braddock and Squirrel Hill realtor, now residing in Hollywood, Cal. . . . Young Charley was an avid reader, with little interest in sports, until he moved to California a few years ago and took up tennis, and a week ago he won three titles in the annual Long Beach tournament . . . He was beaten in the second round of the men's singles, but came back to win the junior singles and team to win the junior and men's doubles.

Howard Harpster, the Carnegie Tech football coach, had a hot golf day at St. Clair last Sunday and just missed breaking 70.—HARRY KECK.

Important men's singles competition looms for local courts late this afternoon as wind-up frays of the second annual Stanton Heights invitation event and of the District XI parks-playgrounds tourneys lie ahead for the North Aiken avenue and the South Park lots, respectively.

Frank Broida, Harvard southpaw and recently crowned premier of Western Maryland, battles Billy O'Loughlin, slim P. A. A. driver, for Stanton honors, while Russ Unger will strive to defend his county public rectangle championship against assault of the survivor of preliminary frays involving Ted Rosenthal, Harry Wald and Walter Kase.

Elizabeth Conn, Crafton satellite, continued her splendid cavorting with clear-cut 6-1, 6-4 triumph over Mrs. Helene Kauffeld, Mt. Lebanon hope, in the women's singles final.

The talented McColligan sisters, Elizabeth and Marie, kept feminine doubles laurels in South Park territory through 6-2, 6-0 win from the Rockwood-Sewickley coalition of Hazel Dixon and Ruth Challis.

Unger entered the prize bracket by downing Henry Ackerman, 6-2, 6-2.

Catholics to Plan Sports Campaign

Plans will be furthered for football, bowling, basketball and volleyball activities for Catholic churches and lyceums at a meeting to be held in St. John's Catholic Church, Thirty-seventh street and Penn avenue, this evening.

Organizations interested may obtain information by calling Fr. Haber at Schenley 7977, William Purcell at Court 0662 or Joseph Matoney, secretary, at Churchill 2973.

A HINT TO THE HOSTESS

—serve the beer that most people like best

That's Iron City, of course. Its delicious, mellow flavor has made it a favorite in a great majority of homes. Serve Iron City and you are sure to please your guests. "In the cool of the evening," on porch, terrace, or pent-house deck, there is nothing so refreshing as cold, sparkling, Iron City Beer. Most people prefer it to any other beer, and Iron City fully deserves that popularity—it is conscientiously brewed from the best materials, and carefully aged in Pennsylvania's largest brewery.

GIANTS HOLD MARGIN

HUBBELL HURLS 19TH WIN OF SEASON

Associated Press.

With the start of their crucial six-game series with the Boston Braves only one day away, the New York Giants today still held a six-game lead, thanks to Carl Hubbell's pitching. But for another equally brilliant hurling feat on the part of a New York castoff, Bill Walker, the advantage of the league leaders probably would be still greater as they prepared to face the stubborn St. Louis Cardinals in the final game of the series.

ANOTHER FOR CARL

Hubbell, hurling the Giants to their first victory in four games, blanked the Cardinals in the first game of a doubleheader yesterday with five hits for a 3-to-0 decision. Walker, who had not won a game since May 22, turned the tables and, also pitching five-hit ball, shut out the Giants, 2 to 0, to give the Cardinals the second game.

Hubbell boosted his total number of victories for the year to 19.

The Chicago Cubs remained in third place, a game back of the Braves, who were idle, by splitting a doubleheader with the Brooklyn Dodgers, 13 to 5 and 6 to 2.

The Pittsburgh Pirates advanced within one-half game of the Cubs by trouncing the Phillies for the third straight time. The score was 4 to 1.

NATS' LEAD CUT

The Washington Senators' lead in the American League was trimmed to eight games as the Yankees defeated the Detroit Tigers, 11 to 9, and the league-leaders divided a twin bill with the Cleveland Indians. The Senators won the first, 2 to 1 in 10 innings, but dropped the second, 7 to 2.

Treating four Athletic pitchers roughly, the White Sox pounded out an 11-to-5 triump over Philadelphia.

The Boston Red Sox and St. Louis Browns split a bargain bill. The six-hit pitching of Bob Weiland gave the Sox the second game, 9 to 4, after the Browns had taken the opener, 10 to 8.

FORMER STAR SPRINTER RUNNING FOR OFFICE

R. A. (Butch) Carroll on the mark. Running for Indiana Normal School, back in 1914, he equaled the world record for 60 yards indoors at Duquesne Garden, and he later ran for Pitt. Now he's running for himself as a candidate for Sheriff of Allegheny County on both the Republican and Democratic tickets. Naturally, he doesn't expect to walk in.

HEY, TED YAROSZ . . . BUCK M'TIERNAN'S BACK!

Yep, that's Buck on the right, and his manager, P. J. (Bunny) Buntach on the left. McTiernan is back in training after a 10 months' layoff and he's looking forward to the day when he'll be able to challenge Yarosz' right to call himself our best middleweight boxer, a position commanded by Buck himself a few years ago. Buck began training today.

YOU'LL HEAR ABOUT THIS FROM THE SEALS

No, that isn't a seal Dr. John O. Fitch, of Brookline, is standing beside. It's a 60-pound amberjack, landed in the Florida Keys. At 7 o'clock this evening, as guest speaker of the Trained Seals of the Sports Department, he'll tell you all about deep-sea fishing over WCAE. Dr. Fitch was Harry Wilson's running mate at halfback for Sharon High School before Harry went on to national fame at Penn State and West Point and he also played basketball in college.

MEET MR. BROVELLI, LOCAL PROS' STAR HALFBACK

Ange Brovelli (he doesn't like to be called Angel), former star fullback of the St. Mary's College team in California, here to begin training with Art Rooney's Pittsburgh National Professional League team. He's shown "in conference" with Dick Guy, business manager of the club. All of these are Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph pictures, proving our photographers get around and see things during their 40 hours each week.

CUT IN FEES REFUSED BY OFFICIALS

By JESS CARVER

Unless the boys get together in the meantime, and the chances are they will not, the members of the West Penn Basketball Officials' Association will be among the spectators at tri-state college floor tussles next winter.

The W. P. B. A. and the Tri-State Association for the Selection of Basketball Officials, comprising 13 colleges of the district, including Pitt, Tech and Duquesne, have been making faces at one another for some time. A year ago, the colleges handed the arbiters a cut of $10 in fees. The officials used to get $25 and expenses for working a preliminary and a main game. Last year, they worked the main game for $15 and laid off the prelims.

Recently, the athletics directors and graduate managers informed the officials they'd get $12.50, if they worked as the lone official, or $10 double, with five cents a mile for traveling expenses. This notice was served on M. Rutherford Glover, the commissioner of the association.

So what?

The officials held two confabs, turned the offer down and the coaches, at a meeting held recently in Waynesburg, selected a new group of 20 of the younger whistle-tooters, who will work for the college next season.

The officials have taken the stand that the colleges were a bit offside in so arbitrarily announcing the new cut. According to Cal Bolster, president of the W. P. B. A., will not ented into a controversy over the matter at this time.

Locals to Tee Off Early in Amateur

Local golfers are to be early starters when the National Amateur tournament qualifying test is begun at Cincinnati on September 11, the pairings and starting times, anonunced today by the U. S. G. A., reveal.

Wilson (Billy) Marks, of Oakmont, paired with Nelson Ruddy, of Cincinnati, is to be first off the tee, at 8 a. m., and 20 minutes later, Fred Brand, Jr., of Allegheny, and Stuart Hawley, of Oakmont, Cal., will begin their round.

Joe Wells, of East Liverpool, O., and Rodney Bliss, Jr., of Omaha, will tee off at 9 a. m.; Regis Wolff, Highland, and William Lain, Chicago, at 10:45 and H. V. Blaxter, Jr., Pittsburgh, and Craigie Krayenbuhl, Louisville, Ky., at 11 o'clock.

Homewood, Dormont To Clash Tonight

Homewood is slated to meet Dormont in a City League engagement at the Dormont High School field this evening, and tomorrow evening the East Enders will travel to Olympia Park to meet Books in what should be the final league game of the season.

Books must win this game to cinch the second-half championship. Should Homewood defeat Heinie Boll's club, Whitaker will have to meet and defeat both Homewood and the Cochrans.

Herp Scores KO. In Amateur Show

The amateurs slung leather with a will in the Pittsburgh Lyceum's outdoor boxing show last night with but one knockout being recorded.

Frank Herp, Lyceum 135-pounder, knocked out Jackie Walls, of the Frawley A. C., in the third round. The summary:

118-pound class—Gi Gi Carabba, J. L. Thomas Club, defeated Eddie Yatis, Pittsburgh Lyceum.

126-pound class—George Martzo, J. L. Thomas Club, defeated Ray Eberle, South Heights A. C.; John Galo, Pittsburgh Lyceum, defeated Johnny Nitchey, unattached.

MARKET DRIFTS IRREGULARLY LOWER

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Financial markets apparently decided today that "all that glitters is not gold."

At any rate, stocks and staples generally showed a reversal of their late rallying tendencies of yesterday, following an official communique letting down some of the bars on the recently stringent gold embargo. Equities, grains and other commodities failed to see anything particularly bullish in the gold ruling and prices drifted irregularly lower under moderate liquidation and renewed short selling. The trading volume expanded a bit on the decline in stocks. The dollar improved in foreign exchange dealings. Bonds were narrow and dull.

The gold mining shares, paradoxically, led the way down with Homestake dropping 21 points before recovering all but 6. Alaska Juneau, Dome, McIntyre, Porcupine, Cerro de Pasco and United States Smelting were off 1 to around 3. The alcohols, including United States Industrial, American Commercial and National Distillers, failed to respond to the repeal vote in Washington state, and lost 1 to 3 or more at one time. Allied Chemical sagged more than 3, and American Telephone, United States Steel, Case, American Can, Santa Fe, Union Pacific and New York Central were down 1 to 2. The oils received some support, Standard of New Jersey, Atlantic Refining, Houston and others recovering fractions to round a point.

With market opinion uncertain as to just how much, if any, inflation was portended in the gold decree, many traders who bought stocks yesterday for a quick turn decided, in the face of various uncertainties, to relinquish them and wait for the sizeable reaction which has been expected in some quarters.

At the same time, sentiment was not too pessimistic. Of interest to proponents of the advance was the statement of Gen. Johnson, NRA administrator, that some 2,000,000 persons had been returned to work under the aegis of the Blue Eagle. The general estimated that this number represented, at the lowest conjecture, an increase of some $30,000,000 in weekly payrolls and an addition to the yearly purchasing power of the public of around $1,500,000,000.

The growing easiness of money rates was further exemplified when the New York Stock Exchange, early in the session, announced a reduction of the call money renewal rate from 1 per cent to ¾ per cent. The outside call rate has been at ¾ for several weeks, and the downward readjustment of the official rate was interpreted as an authoritative recognition of the plentifulness of funds.

COTTON BARELY STEADY, OFF

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Cotton futures opened barely steady, 7-12 lower in response to disappointing Liverpool cables and under liquidation. October, 9.55; December, 9.73; January, 9.83; March, 9.98; May, 10.16; July, 10.32.

December contracts, after selling at 9.72 at the start, rallied to 9.78, but later eased off to 9.71 with active months showing net losses of about 10 to 13 points at the end of the first half hour.

The market eased later. December selling off to 9.65 and May to 10.10, making net declines of about 14 to 18 points on the active months. But the market at mid-day was quiet at rallies of 4 or 5 points from the lowest. The weekly report of the weather bureau was about in line with expectations.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 30.—Cotton, 3,000 bales. American Nil. Spot moderate business done; prices unchanged; quotations in pence: American strict good middling 6.41; good middling 6.11; strict middling 5.81; middling 5.69; strict low middling 5.51; low middling 5.31; strict good ordinary 5.11; god ordinary 4.81. Futures closed quiet. October 5.47; December 5.49; January 5.52; March 5.56; May 5.60; July 5.64.

WHEAT QUOTAS SEEN HITCH IN PACT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Fears arose today at the Department of Agriculture that inflation over the signing of the world wheat agreement by 21 nations last Friday might prove premature, as further delay was reported in signing a supplement dividing the quota of exports among the four chief exporting nations.

The four principal exporting countries, Argentina, the United States, Australia and Canada, are required to limit their total export for the year, which began August 1, to 560,000,000 bushels.

The supplement is to divide up this aggregate quota, and it is here that the hitch in negotiations has developed. Secretary Wallace expressed the opinion that the main agreement signed Friday is conditional upon agreement on the supplement and that if the four nations failed to sign the latter, the general agreement would not prove workable.

U. S. QUOTA

Under the supplement, United States exports during this marketing year would be limited to about 47,000,000 bushels or about 8½ per cent of the total quota.

For the following year the supplement contemplates that this country's exports will be about 20 per cent of the total quota for the four countries. The quota for that year is to be determined by a formula recognizing changes in the international wheat situation. It is estimated at the Department of Agriculture that the United States would be able to export about 100,000,000 bushels the second year.

However, Wallace has said he did not look for any substantial increase in this country's exports of the grain because of the spread in the domestic and world prices for wheat. He expressed belief, however, there is a prospect that if the agreement is completed by approval of the supplement world prices might increase to a point where it would be possible for this country to resume exports without dependence on his recent proposal for subsidizing exports.

ARGENTINA SIGNS

Meanwhile, the campaign to obtain contracts from farmers agreeing to reduce by 15 per cent their plantings of wheat for harvest next year was speeded up with prospects that most of the contracts will be in the hands of administrators by September 25.

This 15 per cent reduction is expected to reduce the nation's wheat plantings from average acreages in the past by about 9,600,000 and to cut aggregate production about 124,000,000 bushels.

LONDON, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Tomas Le Breton, Argentine representative here, today signed an international agreement designed to raise wheat prices and brought to 22 the number of signatories.

RAIL EARNINGS SPEED UP

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—The Interstate Commerce Commission today announced figures showing that 151 major railroads in the United States as a group had a net income in June of $21,276,730, after all taxes and expenses were paid, as compared with a deficit of $20,632,703 for June 1932.

For the first six months of the year, the figures revealed all class I roads as a group to have a deficit of $101,710,247 after all expenses had been paid, as compared with a deficit of $125,314,233 for the first six months of last year.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30—(AP.)—Railroad statements for July issued so far indicate a total net operating income for all class I carries of approximately $63,760,000 against actual operating income of $11,596,852 for July, 1932, an increase og about 450 per cent, the figure also promises to exceed that of July, 1931, in spite of a decrease in gross revenues.

Gross revenues are estimated at about $291,700,000 against $237,813,054 in the same month last year, an increase of 22.7 per cent.

Open Market for Gold Abolishes One Way Metal Standard

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE PRESIDENTIAL ORDER establishing an open market for gold abolishes this country's unique one-way gold standard and will permit gold producers to enjoy their natural advantage under currency inflation.

Following the imposition of the gold embargo and the abandonment of the gold standard by the United States, the government took a stand toward gold producers which was subject to much criticism. Gold producers were not permitted to sell their metal anywhere but to the mint. The United States dollar no longer was redeemable in gold at its established value of $20.67 an ounce. It had fallen far from its original parity with the gold currencies of other nations.

In spite of this, however, a seller of gold still could get only $20.67 an ounce for his product even though the $20.67 no longer could be used to buy an ounce of gold from the government. In effect, the United States had a one-way gold standard.

* * *

Secretary of Treasury To Receive Shipments

AN EFFORT was made to correct this situation recently. The embargo on gold exports was modified to permit gold producers to ship partially refined ore to other countries. In this way they could benefit from some of the advantages of selling on the world market. It soon became apparent, however, that this would result in the shipment of nearly all our gold output to other countries and that American workmen would lose the jobs to be had in the work of refining.

The latest order permits gold producers to ship their output to the Secretary of the Treasury on consignment. The Secretary, acting as agent for the producers, may then sell the gold in this country for use in the arts, industries or professions or he may export it to foreign purchasers. These sales are to be made at the best prices obtainable in the world market for gold.

* * *

To Establish Gold Market for Dollar

THE NEW POLICY will have the effect of establishing a gold market for the dollar. During the period of the gold embargo, the relationship of the dollar to gold could only be estimated on the basis of its price in terms of the money of countries still remaining on the gold standard.

The sharp rise in the prices of stocks of companies producing gold reflected the fact that these organizations in the future will receive substantially more than $20.67 an ounce for their product. The present world price is about $30 an ounce. They will enjoy the natural advantages to be expected of the industry during a period of currency inflation.

Proposals 108

OFFICIAL ADVERTISEMENT
THE SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE BOROUGH OF TURTLE CREEK, PENNA.

Sealed proposals are requested for the construction of the new elementary school, including alterations and additions to present school building, Penn avenue and Hunter street, Turtle Creek, Allegheny County, Pennsylvania, separate bids being asked for general work, heating and ventilating, plumbing work and electric work.

Plans, specifications and form of contract therefore will be furnished contractors only and not to sub-bidders, on application to the office of Bernard H. Prack, registered architect, 119 Federal street, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

All contractors receiving plans and specifications will be required to pay for the cost of printing, namely ten ($10.00) dollars for general plans and specifications and five ($5.00) dollars for the plans and specifications of each mechanical trade.

Each proposal must be signed, sealed and accompanied by a certified check, in the amount of five (5%) per cent of the tender and made payable to the School District of the Borough of Turtle Creek, Pennsylvania, or accompanied by a bidder's bond (in the amount of ten (10%) per cent of the tender) of a surety company approved by the Court of Common Pleas of Allegheny County, Pennsylvania.

Proposals will be received by Cash K. Patterson, Secretary, Union High School Building, Turtle Creek, Pennsylvania, until 7 p. m., September 15, 1933, eastern standard time, and then publicly opened.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids.

By Order of the Board.
CASH K. PATTERSON,
Secretary.

NAVY NARRATIVES -:- Thrilling Stories of the Navy During War Times -:- By LIEUT. JIM HAYS

days out of 30 it was impossible to do any sweeping because of the fogs and storms. After spending some months in the North Sea in trying to forecast the weather from barometric variations, we adopted the following theory:

When the barometer falls—prepare for a blow!

When the barometer rises—expect a gale!

When the barometer neither rises nor falls—look out for a hurricane! And our forecasts were usually accurate.

May and June, the two most favorable months of the year in the North Sea, had gone by, and we had swept up only a small section of the barrage. Up to now we had been sweeping back and forth across the lines of mines. By this method, the sweepers were more likely to be in a safe area when countermining occurred—that is, when one exploding mine set off several others—and countermining was the greatest danger.

Now, with the season of incessant storms approaching, it was decided to make haste, by dragging along the lines of mines from one end to the other, instead of back and forth across them.

Vessels Damaged

Twenty-eight sweepers and eight submarine chasers set out from the base to begin the fourth operation. Everyone was eager to learn the success or failure of the longitudinal method of sweeping.

This time misfortune didn't rain on us—it poured!

Sweeping was no sooner begun than the Oriole and the Rail were damaged by mines exploding close astern in their kites. The Patuxent was countermined by three deep level mines, but the old veteran was used to that, and kept on sweeping.

The Curlew next fouled a mine in her kite, which exploded within 10 feet of her stern when the kite was hauled in. The Lapwing was countermined by three explosions. The Penguin was damaged when a mine exploded in her kite, and Sub Chaser 46 narrowly escaped obliteration when she tried to sink a floating mine with rifle fire, and it exploded close aboard.

One by one the sweepers and chasers limped, or were towed, back to the base.

To cap the climax, an upper level mine exploded directly beneath the Pelican, and simultaneously five other mines detonated close around her. With her hull shattered, she listed sharply and began to sink rapidly. The Auk, with Capt. Roscoe Bulmer the force commander on board, sped up along the Pelican's port side.

The Eider made fast along her starboard side, and in a few minutes their powerful wrecking pumps were working to the limit. The Teal then passed a tow-line to the Pelican and the four vessels, lashed together, set a course for Tressness Bay, the nearest shelter.

At that time the weather was mild, and the Auk and the Eider were able to keep the Pelican fairly well afloat. But while they were still 50 miles from land, a head wind and a heavy sea began to rise, and the situation grew rapidly worse.

Menacing Weather

As the vessels were tossed about by the storm, pump lines parted, and the water in the Pelican's hull gained until her bow was under water and her stern high in the air. To add to the difficulties, nightfall had overtaken them.

The Pelican sank lower and lower. With the ship in danger of plunging to the bottom any minute, most of her crew were taken off. A dozen men only were needed on board to attend to the suction hoses and to clear them as fast as they became fouled with debris.

Volunteers were asked for. Every man stepped forward. Twelve of the strongest were chosen to stay aboard and the others were ordered off the Pelican against their will. The 12 men, grouped together on the sinking Pelican's stern, sang old-fashioned songs throughout the night.

That night the Flamingo anchored off the edge of the mine barrage. In the darkness she drifted into the field, and when her anchor was weighed the next morning, a mine that had fouled in her dragging anchor exploded under her bows.

Dies a Hero

The Richard Bulkeley, one of the 20 trawlers borrowed from the British, fouled a mine in her kite. It exploded close astern before the kite could be cut adrift. All the sweepers in her vicinity cut their sweeps and rushed to her side.

A moment before the Bulkeley disappeared from sight one of those inspiring deeds occurred which go down in the traditions of the service. A man, dazed by the mine's concussion, struggled up on deck from below. Seeing that he had no life preserver, Commander Frank King took off his own life belt, strapped it about the man and helped him get clear of the ship's side, before she took her final plunge.

An instant later the Bulkeley disappeared and Commander King and six men went down with the ship in a swirling vortex of water. Today one of our finest destroyers bears the name of King. There's a story in the name of every destroyer, named as they are for naval heroes, officers and enlisted men alike.

Humor in Evidence

The rest of the story of clearing away the North Sea mine barrage is one storm and calamity after another.

In spite of the many accidents, the seriousness of the work, and the ever-threatening shadow of calamity, life on the mine fields was not without its humor. Incidents that might easily have been calamitous were turned into comedy.

When men are performing a perilous work, they are apt to relieve the nervous tension by shouting with laughter at anything that contains the slightest degree of mirth. There was uproarious laughter in the suicide fleet at the plight of the Lapwing's crew, over on the coast of Norway, toward the end of the job.

The Penguin's kite wire had parted, leaving the Lapwing in possession of the entire sweepwire and two kites, which anchored her firmly in the mine field. The harder she tried to heave in on the sweepwire, the faster she hauled herself astern. When the kites finally appeared at the surface near her stern, each had a mine fouled in it. For some quaint reason, that was considered a great joke.

Later, the Lapwing had a laugh on the Penguin.

The Penguin lay to, one stormy autumn night, rolling and plunging and battered in the North Sea's fury, struggling hard to stand by a marker buoy, so as to be close by the mine field in the morning. All night she played a flickering searchlight on the marker buoy, kicking herself ahead, or astern a little, now and then, to maintain her position near the buoy. It was a masterful piece of seamanship. But the next morning she discovered the buoy was adrift, and she had followed it 20 miles through the stormy night.

OLD-FASHIONED NOSEGAY PATTERN NO. 486

By LAURA WHEELER

The Old-fashioned Nosegay is one of those patterns that needs no explanation. Its quaint charm—its colorfulness—would make it outstanding in any collection of quilts. The very fact that it is made of scraps of material enhances its beauty, for was not the old-time nosegay that inspired it formed of all the varieties of flowers that the old-fashioned garden boasted of? It can be made with the same scraps repeated in each block as illustrated, or with each block made of different scraps like so many different bouquets.

Pattern 486 comes to you with complete, simple instructions for cutting, sewing and finishing, together with yardage chart, diagram of quilt to help arrange the blocks for single and double bed size, and a diagram of block which serves as a guide for placing the patches and suggests contrasting materials.

Send 10c for this pattern to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.

The Junior Patrol Mail Box

It's less than a week now before school starts, fellows!

Yes, school bells ring next Tuesday for all Pittsburgh schools, and for many schools outside the city, too. You have noticed, no doubt, that the boys down the river are on their way home. They began packing up the day before yesterday, and soon we'll have Spike and Snuggings back here in town. Junior is still out in the country—but maybe he is starting home now. Anyway, we'll bet it won't be long until he arrives back in the comic strip and on the air, too.

We surely do hope that every single member of the Junior Patrol goes back to school and will be happy to go. You can get a lot of fun out of school and make it mighty interesting if you want to, fellows. And out-of-doors this nice cool fall weather, after school is done for the day, you ought to have a lot of fun playing football and other games. We wonder how many Junior Patrol clubs are going to have football teams?

We know some people who think that football is too rough a game, but that always depends on who the fellows are who play it, and how they play it. Sensible fellows, who are playing for fun, can play touch football or else tackle each other more carefully. There is a swell game of football where no one is allowed to run with the ball—only kicking and passing allowed.

There are a lot of fine letters and notes today. Of course, we are still getting buttons and letters back from fellows who don't write their names and addresses on their letters and pledges correctly. Do you know any of these fellows: Herbert Moses, 242 Meyran avenue, Connellsville, Pa.; Onastasios G. Katsulas, 336 Buch street, Pittsburgh, and Billy Frank Grooms, Carmichaels, Pa.?

Mary Griffin and her brother, Bud, of 145 Potomac avenue, Dormont, have been a long time getting started sending in their pledges—as soon as the children she knows come back from their vacations, she is going to try to start a club.

Rita Netzel, of 402 Hancock street, Pittsburgh, writes:

"I am writing to tell you that I am going to have a club. I would like you to send me an armband. I am glad to read the Mail Box in the paper. My little sister is glad she is a member. She carries her button even when she goes to sleep. We are going to have all kinds of parties. I can't wait to see Junior come back from his vacation. I am very lonesome without him in the paper."

Let us know as soon as you are elected captain by at least 10 registered members, Rita.

Billy MacDonald sends in a roll of nine names. He lives at Fourth street, West Newton, Pa. To get an armband, Billy, you have to be elected captain by 10 members who are registered. Send pledges for new members or the numbers of the membership cards if they are already members.

Betty Jane Brown, of Bedford, Pa., sends in seven pledges not counting her own. All you need now, Betty, is two more.

Howard L. Watkins, of Timblin, Pa., writes that he drew his cartoon of Popeye and Spike to help other fellows join the Junior Patrol club.

Lillian Rosenberg, of Bairdford, Pa., writes:

"I am starting two patrols because I live in the country, but will be in the city soon. So I am starting a club in the country and in the city both. I have four members in the city and three in the country. And I want to be on the Junior Patrol program. I can sing and recite poems. And would you please send me a new button. I broke it and then misplaced it and I am sending one pledge for a new one."

Fine and dandy, Lillian—two patrols, eh? Just as soon as you get 10 members in one of them we will send you an armband.

Different kinds of music will be tried out on patients in the insane asylum at Utica, N. Y., in hope that it does them some good.

A little hill billie music certainly ought to free them from any inferiority complex.

And perhaps the superintendent will start locking up the musicians and letting the patients out.

The ironic thing about it all is that many of the insane patients probably got that way listening to music over the radio.

NICE BOYS.

(Flora, Ill., Journal-Record.)

We hear the Ellis twins lit on a man at Wayne City and beaned him with a car crank before they came up near Cisne and took a round with P. E Miley and Chas. Winters. The twins sure enjoy a good fight. Miley said they lit in on him like yellow jackets and one mugged him. When Winters said, "Boys, don't do that," capop, they took him two weeks ago on the gravel road near Cisne.

PATRIOT NO. 3,243

This is T. Tidewater Doakes, industrial patriot, who counsels patience with employers who practice abuses of the National Recovery Act. "Let us be fair," says Doakes, "and give everybody a chance to interpret the plan in his own way. Then, after five years, if we find industrialists advancing prices beyond all reason, we can pass resolutions against such practices. We might even go so far as to hold them up to scorn—perhaps have a regulation which requires them to wear an eagle pin in both coat lapels when they step into the postoffice."

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

House-cleaning has been going on in the majority of homes.

But most folk leave out a mental house-cleaning.

Muddled ideas, opinions formed, which in the light of personal experience should be discarded.

You don't want to be thought of as vacillating but even that is better than to cling to a ship that is lost, refusing rescue by other means.

You may have studied upon certain economic problems till you are completely mixed up.

You can't find a logical, common-sense solution.

But why clutter up your mind with these difficult problems when they are not personal matters?

It does not get you anywhere in your life to be working so hard to solve other people's affairs, in which you are not concerned, really.

Think straight and realize that you must get on your way to solve your own adjustments in a way to put you better off.

Better off does not necessarily mean more money.

But greater benefit should come to you and yours from your thoughtful care and planning and you can't do the job well if your mind is elsewhere.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Such fun as the little girls are having with eye shadows, playing with intriguing smears on the orb shutters that make the gels look subtle, mysterious and compelling. Compensates them for following the new make-up law which says that cheeks must no longer register a high fever, only the faint color sweetness of the wild, wild rose. Shadows graduate from blue to green, from blue to purple, from green to bronze. If you want to trot in the front ranks of those who are in the beauty know, let the shadow include the lashes. Exotic. But only the dashing ones can get away with it. Women are no longer rouge conscious, but they do feel funny—a lot of them—about eyelid paint, which is the last reckless step in facial decoration.

If the bottle of cuticle remover has suddenly gone dry, mineral or olive oil will act as a substitute. Rub it into the nail frame. Pick up the orange wood stick, lift cuticle gently. This treatment works best if hands are soaked for three or four minutes in a warm, sudsy bath. When the cuticle is stubborn, keep on soaking the nail, using more oil, working with the stick until the flesh is free from the nail base. Cut only hangnails, and be careful about that. Any wound is subject to infection; flesh around the pink shells is particularly susceptible to invading germs and germesses, not to mention little germlets.

There are times when a girl needs a quick pick-up treatment. Perhaps after an exhausting day, the phone rings to report that there's a gay party on that evening. What to do! Try the hot and cold bath. Soak in the tub, scour with a heavy brush—the skin is an eliminating organ and this treatment sends away fatigue wastes—turn on the cold spray, friction the body briskly. Slap a cold wet cloth over the eyes, do a relaxing flop for fifteen or twenty minutes. The warm bath relaxes fibers, takes the ache out of bones, soothes the nervous system. The shower and the rest restore eye sparkle and skin color.

August Letters All Answered

We complete our August classified correspondence with the list of winners who lost three-cent stamps:

New Orleans: Why raid the dope users on race tracks? Can't a hoss eat what he wants to anymore?

San Francisco: The quotation was, "Lafayette, we are here." The remark must have been addressed to a bronze or marble statue. We've talked to lots of those things and never got an answer.

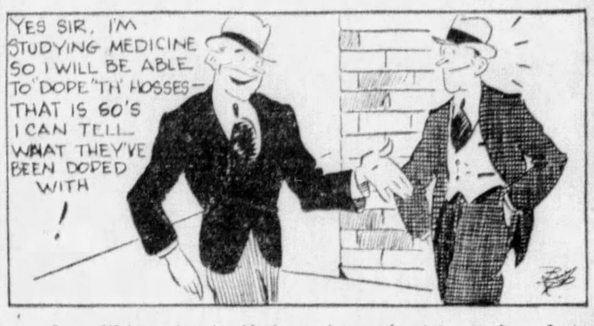
Doug Gardner: We wrote the article but you will have to explain it.

Aime Jolin: Never wrote a book or had a sunstroke. If we get one we will probably do the other.

Quebec: Glad you are enjoying yourself. Always take our column on your vacation and have something to wrap the picnic lunch in.

Forrest Meyers: We did five in the guard house for criticising the general's gorgeous epaulets. We wrote it was a very bad case of epauletsy.

Los Angeles: Your rebuke is merited. No excuse except the hot weather.



Joe: We're going to Alaska and pose for totem poles. Just multiply our face by six and you have one of those things.

Timmy: Before betting on any race hoss we advise you to go to college and take a course in medicine. Then you will understand the subject.

Baton Rouge: We've had our appendix cut, our tonsils cut, our adenoids cut and our gall bladder cut. The general effect is almost that achieved by the Soviet ground crew repairing Mattern's plane.

Anxious: Experts tell us there is a real estate boom every 14 years. The next is due in 1940. Save some of your money for a parachute.

Tourist: The scenery is beautiful, the rooms are cool, the food is delightful and the rates are moderate. But you need an Eskimo guide to take you there.

And, in conclusion, we must again refuse to fight that indignant old lady a duel to the finish with cavalry sabres.

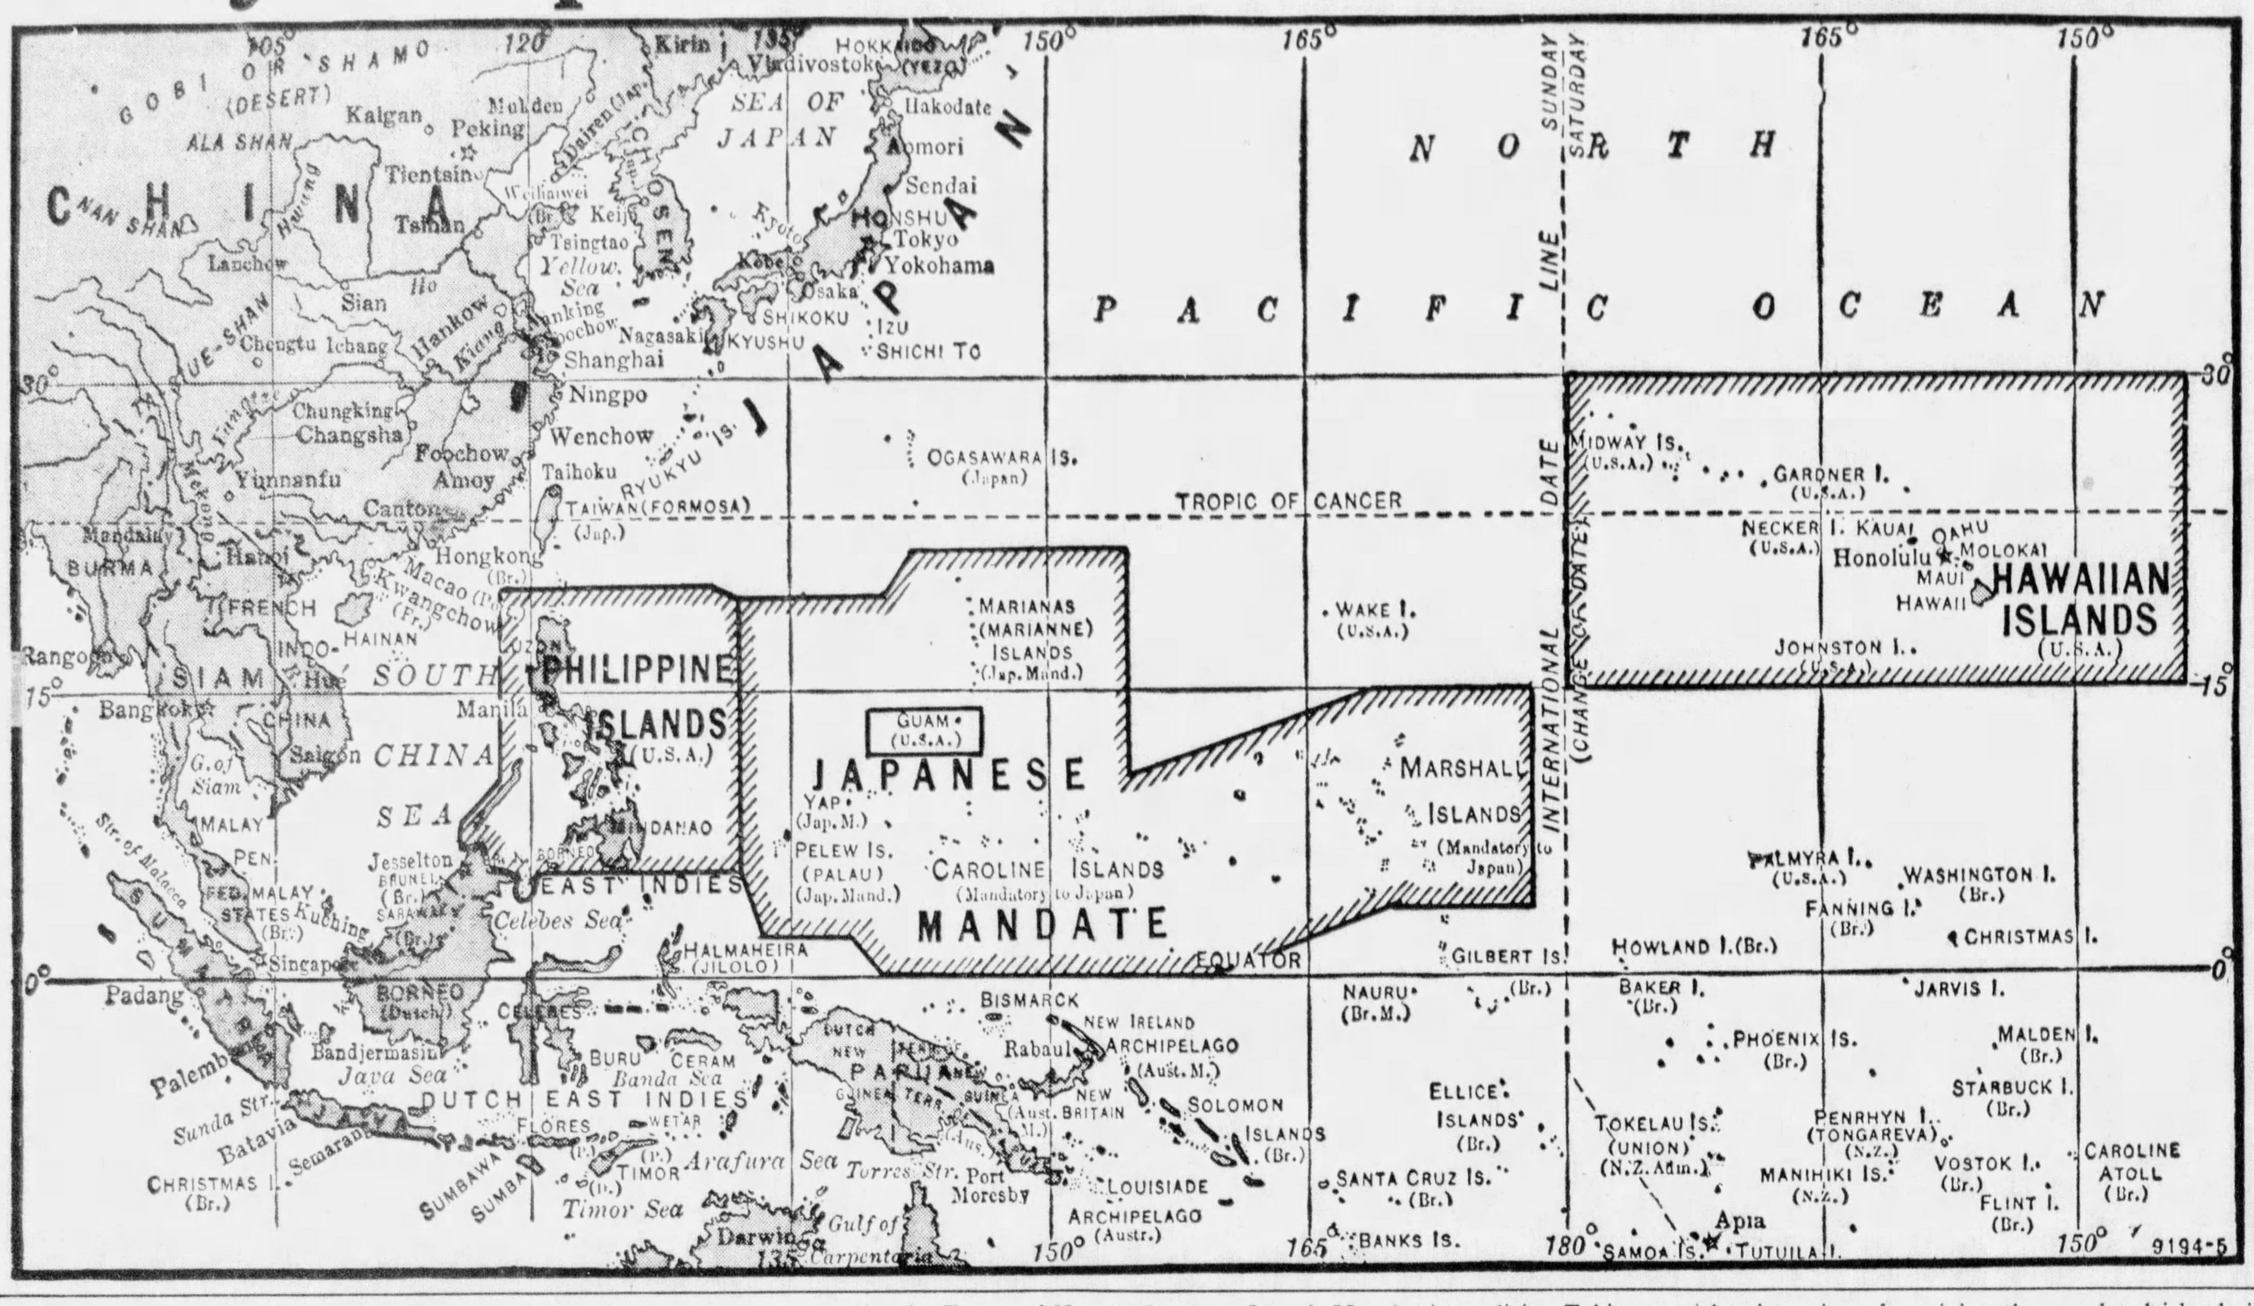
Only Preparedness Will Prevent War



Showing how Japan's island empire has grown to occupy the whole mid-Pacific region between the two important American possessions.

Japan acquired her original "mandate" over the islands shown in the map under the Treaty of Versailles as a member of the League of Nations.

When the Lytton Commission visited China and Manchuria, and submitted to Geneva a report adverse to Japan's Manchurian policies, Tokio gave notice of withdrawal from the League.

Instead of preparing to return the Pacific mandate to the League, however, Japan has signified her intention of retaining the mandated islands in the permanent possession of her island empire.

The islands thus form a strategic wedge between the Philippines and Hawaii.

To the Editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph:

When Japan occupied Manchuria as a preliminary step toward her eventual absorption of China, that was lamentable but nevertheless none of our American business; and this newspaper advised the United States government to keep free from foreign entanglements.

But when Japan takes strategic steps, preliminary to the occupation of the Philippines and Hawaii, and the prosecution of her long contemplated war upon the United States, that IS our American business; and this newspaper advises our government at Washington to take heed and prepare.

It will be obvious from a study of the above map, reprinted from the Literary Digest, that Japan, in claiming permanent occupancy and practical possession of the islands which were temporarily in her mandate when a member of the League of Nations, has driven a strategic wedge of Japanese dominion between the two American island possessions, the Philippines and the Hawaiian Islands.

Japan's purpose is obviously to absorb both of these American possessions at the psychological time.

The Philippines we are helping the Japanese to acquire through our political corruption and stupidity.

When they have got the Philippines and added them to the island mandate they have refused to give up, the Japanese empire will be half way across the Pacific and able to contact and control the Hawaiian Islands, which they now populate.

Moreover, Japan will have greatly increased her population by these acquisitions.

The war between Japan and the United States, long considered possible, will then be inevitable, projected by our neglect of our rights and duties as a nation, by our dull indifference to our public welfare, and by our shortsightedness in not seeing the obvious menace which has been impending.

We will then enter the war under the greatest possible disadvantage, while Japan will have acquired the greatest possible advantages.

Japan will have tremendously increased her population, nearly doubled her territory, extended her dominions to our very doors, and occupied by colonization the Hawaiian Islands, the outposts of our defense.

Japan will have built a gigantic navy to protect her in the firm possession of this immense island empire; and this navy and these island bases for naval and aeroplane operations will make Japan immensely formidable in its attack upon our shores.

If our democracy continues to be as dull in defense as it has always been, the attack will find us unaware and unprepared, and as a consequence Japan may establish herself as the permanent dominant power of the Pacific, forbidding us, as defeated Germany was forbidden, to operate certain classes of ships, or to compete with the victor in any way in its waters, and possibly compelling us to pay a great indemnity and to surrender to her some part of our Pacific Coast mainland.

Such disasters have been inflicted before by alert aggressive military nations upon easy going indifferent pacifist nations whose government was neglectful, short-sighted and incompetent.

Of course the United States is not China, but then the Japan which will make war upon the United States will not be the Japan which is dismembering China.

Know Your County

The Fair to Be Held at South Park, Starting Tomorrow, Will Be Worth Attending.

County fairs are held as a rule for the exhibition of agricultural products, and the Allegheny County fair to be held at the South Park, beginning tomorrow, will serve that purpose.

Allegheny County is among the leading 10 counties of Pennsylvania, in respect to the value of the crops and livestock. But because of the superior commercial importance of our manufacturing and mining industries, we have not seen fit until this year to hold an agricultural exposition worthy of the county's greatness. The County Commissioners are to be commended for remedying the deficiency.

But there will be much more at the fair besides farm exhibits. It will furnish an excellent opportunity to get acquainted with the county's resources. There will be an abundance of entertainment, too, with no charge for admission.

The fair promises to become a worthy successor to the old Western Pennsylvania Exposition, of pleasant memory.

Greater Care Demanded

Increases in Motor Fatalities and the Approach of School Days Call for Extra Caution.

Mayor John S. Herron has issued a proclamation asking the people to make a special effort to prevent accidents during September, and to follow that up with a campaign for both traffic and industrial safety in October and November.

There is genuine need for this call for extra caution. Motor fatalities have been increasing lately. In a few days the schools will reopen, and that means that several times a day thousands of little children will pass through the streets. And mills and factories long idle are resuming operations and increasing industrial hazards.

The Mayor's appeal should meet with cordial compliance.

MARRY-GO-ROUND

By Helen Rowland

Don't Ask MY Advice!

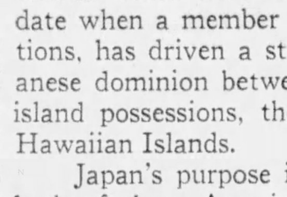
Every day, I am receiving letters asking for my "advice" on some love-problem. Oh, lots of letters!

* * *

Alas, in the first place, this is NOT an "advice-column". And in the second place I should as soon toss a stick of dynamite at a pair of young lovers as to "ADVISE" them concerning anything so serious as their hearts' happiness. I'm no love-wrecker! And no heart expert.

* * *

Personally, I hate advice! If I must have it, I go to a doctor or a lawyer for it. People who are constantly telling you what you ought to do or how you ought to do it are the greatest bores on earth; and they are always steering you off your own track and usually onto the wrong one.



The man whom a girl loves may not be "worthy" of her; but he MAY be the only man in the world who could make her happy. He may be deceiving her—but that may be the only way to get along with her.

* * *

The girl whom a man is courting may not be in love with him—but who knows that tomorrow she may have a change of heart? And who can say that she may not make him happier than some girl who was too intensively in love with him?

I have neither the courage nor the self-confidence which it must require to tell any other human being how to run his or her own life. And my only advice to YOU is, don't take ANYBODY'S advice—except a doctor's or a lawyer's. And don't take theirs in matters of love.

* * *

For, while a doctor can tell you what's the matter with your heart, he can't tell you what's IN it. And, while a lawyer can tell you how to get a divorce, he can't tell you whether or not you WANT a divorce or whether or not it will make you happy.

This column does not pretend to give "advice." It is intended merely to amuse or to entertain; and, if it rings the bell now and then, and gives you a mild chuckle, it has accomplished its whole mission.

* * *

A little philosophy may creep into this space, on "off days;" but most of what appears here is meant as pure SATIRE. And nothing makes me quite so sad as to be taken SERIOUSLY! I can tell you what men are like and what women are like and what life is like—because I've seen a lot of all three of them. But I can't tell you what YOU are like—or what will make YOU happy! So, please don't ESK!

OUR RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis.

No Game Like Life

Men play checkers and golf, play cards, tennis and chess
And find joy in their mimic strife;
But for all of their plotting and action and stress,
There is never a game like life!

There is no other game that can thrill them through
Like the chances they take each day
With the plans they make and the hopes they woo
In the game of life that they play.

Oh, the hazards of life make a splendid game
To keep playing with courage and zest,
And with mind alert and with heart aflame,
A game that demands their best!

Men play billiards and baseball, polo and dice
With pleasure as keen as a knife;
But for breath-taking interest, ardor and spice
There is never a game like life!

ISN'T IT SO?

The pockets of some friends are equipped with zippers.

The hearts of the people are the foundation of their homes.

People are regulated by two things—"too much" and "too little."

Things are not as they are, but as they are regarded.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Broadway has never quite understood the social and professional upshoot of Fred and Adele Astaire. Under all accepted standards they are a brother and sister act—"small-time hoofers" in jig jargon—who came out of Omaha to captivate London and New York.

Nimble dancers to be sure but not extraordinarily amazing. Astaire is partly bald, quite unattractive physically and would not look out of place jerking soda in a prairie town drug store. His sister was co-star in a musical written around her called "Funny Face," which describes her type of beauty.

Yet for years they have been distinctly box office attractions here and abroad. Adele left the team at the peak of her career to marry Lord Cavendish and as Lady Cavendish has been accepted in high circles in Britain. Fred's recent marriage to Phyllis Potter gives him a place in New York society.

The Astaires, while a definite part of Broadway, have never been of it. They have made it a point to trail with the right people. The brother was admitted to membership in the Turf and Field and Racquet clubs, a distinction few actors have attained.

The best yarn of the many managed and anticipated profit splitups of Primo Carnera and Max Baer is told by Boonville, Mo's sportwriting pride, Bill Corum, of the Evening Journal. A poor widow in his neighborhood appeared at a relief bureau for charity. "Have you no assets whatever?" asked the investigator. "Only," she replied, "a small piece of Max Baer my husband left me."

* * *

Irvin Cobb recently wired Harry Leon Wilson in Carmel-by-the-Sea: "We are organizing to hunt moose in Canada. Will you join us?" In a few days the laconic reply: "Don't recall having lost any moose."

* * *

Perhaps the most accomplished moose hunters in New York are Rex Beach and Roy Howard. Also one of the best moose-callers in the Canadian woods is a fellow who had rarely been off Delancey street until nine years ago. He went up as a general handy man for a group of hunters and never came back.

Most every young writer chafes to get away from the routine of the regular job and free lance. The best sum-up of such a quixotic adventure for all was in a letter one day from the late Charles R. Barnes, who gave up a regular job and had not yet made the grade. "I had not reckoned with the tricks of air pockets in trying to fly without financial wings."

* * *

I have wondered if other wanderers at night in a city's streets are drawn to hesitate before lit windows where there's music. Last night before an old brownstone on West Seventy-sixth I halted. A silhouette of a woman's hands moved over the keys softly, caressingly, flirting in a leisurely way with a bar of Grieg, wandering into chords towards a snatch of Schuman. Then quiet and a provoking little struggle-on-the-cliff tune picked out with one hand. Whoever it was seemed to be choosing a melody. I wondered if it would be Chopin or perhaps a torch hi-de-di. All of a sudden there floated to the darkness a woman's voice—velvety, warm and moonlighty and the song she sang began "Grieve not, dear Love! although we often part." I might lie and say my eyes misted. But I did go on with a queer clutch in my throat. For something about the voice was pathetically poignant, a heart that was overflowing with overwhelming ache.

* * *

At a swanky dinner I counted 14 silver knives, forks, spoons and what-not on either side my plate. It recalled a fancy dinner back home—the unusual sort where Mace Robinson, the barber, catered. Mace was an ace at this. Anyway all the neighborhood forks and spoons, with little strings around them for remembering, had been borrowed. But Harry Maddy spilled the beans. Looking around he beamed: "Mighty pitiful. Everybody on this block will be eating with their fingers this evening."

* * *

And somehow I'm thinking of the excited fox terrier that used to race after every dog behind the picket fence of a big yard on our block. He seemed bristling with courage and desire to get out. One day the gate was left open and when the terrier streaked after a big old country dog he suddenly plopped out the entrance right on his enemy. He was so surprised he had a congestive chill.
